HITLER EXECUTES 24 CZECHS

FISH ASSAILS SMEAR DRIVE BY WAR MONGERS

Tells Foes' Tactics in House Speech.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], leader of the anti-war group in the house, in a striking floor speech today denounced attempts by two eastern prowar newspapers to smear him thru statements and inferences that he is anti-Semitic and a Nazi sympathizer.

Fish declared that stories concerning him in PM, a New York City publication, and the Washington Post, were based upon "a series of contemptible, dastardly, lying charges." PM is largely owned by Marshall Field of Chicago and edited by Ralph Ingersoll, former publisher of Time magazine. The Washington Post is edited and published by Eugene Meyer. Both papers are insistent that the United States enter the war.

Frequently, while Fish was speaking, he was interrupted by members from both the Republican and Democratic sides, who assured him of their confidence in his honor, integrity, and patriotism. At the end he was applauded.

Given Hour to Speak.

Fish was given an hour to defend himself from the newspaper charges after Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], ruled that the New York congressman's integrity had been questioned in a PM headline which read: "Ham Fish snatches evidence wanted in U. S. Nazi hunt."

The federal grand jury, investigating alleged Nazi agencies in the capital, has had under scrutiny the Make Europe Pay and Islands for War Debts committees, of which Prescott Dennett is secretary-treasurer. The Post and PM sought to make issue of the fact that 20 sacks of mail accumulated by these committees, containing speeches of anti-war congressmen, had been sent from Dennett's office to Fish's office. The papers inferred Fish had taken the mail over to prevent its seizure for the grand jury.

Absent from Capital.

Fish told the house that on the day of the transfer of the mail to his office, Sept. 18, he was traveling east from St. Louis and that he did not return to Washington until Sept. 21.

"I did not even know that Dennett's office existed," Fish told the house.

"Washington Post reporters opened the mail sacks and pictures were taken of the contents. From this flimsy basis sprung the outrageous lies which made up the smear attack."

"Isn't PM the paper commonly known as the uptown edition of Daily Worker [official communist party publication]?" asked Representative Eugene E. Cox, D., Ga.].

"That sounds like a fair definition," said Fish.

Fight Will Keep Up.

"These grossly unsubstantiated smear statements are made because of my fight together with 80 per cent of the people to keep us out of war," he went on.

"I have no quarrel with Marshall Field spending millions upon millions to get us into war but we on the other side ought not to be smeared day after day in an attempt to undermine members of congress and others who want us to keep out.

"No matter how many and low the attacks, we will continue our efforts until and unless congress exercises its constitutional authority to declare war."

Fish disclosed another smear attempt against him which he said he suspected was engineered by Fight for Freedom, leading interventionist agency.

Stole Franked Envelope.

"Some one stole one of my franked envelopes," he said, "and filled it with anti-Semitic literature of the rankest sort. The envelope was addressed to headquarters of Fight for Freedom except that the name was changed to 'Fight for Jewdom.'

"Fight for Freedom called me up and I told them it was obvious that the letter had been mailed by some enemy who wanted to smear me with the Jewish voters of New York.

"I warned them not to publish it. PM was the only paper which did and it carried photostatic copies of the anti-Semitic contents. I believe some member of Fight for Freedom framed the whole thing."

LOUIS STOPS NOVA IN SIXTH ROUND OF TITLE FIGHT

Joe Louis retained his world heavyweight boxing championship last night by stopping Lou Nova, challenger from Alameda, Cal., in 2 minutes, 58 seconds of the sixth round. A crowd of 56,549 saw the bout in the Polo Grounds, New York. The fight was dull for five rounds, but in the sixth Louis landed a right cross to the chin which had Nova on the floor for a nine count. The champion followed with a devastating attack which left Nova helpless, and Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight.

DEPORT BRIDGES AS COMMUNIST, JUDGE'S FINDING

Report Is Issued by Special Examiner.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Charging that Harry Bridges has been a member of the communist party which "advocates the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States," a special federal trial examiner today classified the west coast maritime leader as an undesirable alien and recommended that he be deported to his native Australia.

Harry Bridges [top] and Charles Sears.

The finding was made by Charles B. Sears, retired justice of the New York State Supreme court, who was appointed to hear evidence against Bridges compiled in a lengthy investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

It was the government's second attempt to rid itself of the maritime union czar, a leading figure in the Congress of Industrial Organizations, whose revolutionary tactics have attracted nation-wide attention. Bridges is held responsible for a series of capricious maritime strikes which, it is estimated, have cost taxpayers millions of dollars.

Blamed for Arms Strikes.

Before the communist party, which takes its orders from Moscow, reversed its policies when Nazi Germany attacked the soviet, and America began sending munitions and supplies to Stalin, Bridges was on record as supporting the wave of armament strikes which crippled the American preparedness program and threw it months behind schedule.

The first attempt to deport him came in 1939, when the bureau of immigration was part of the labor department. James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school and former New Deal chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, was appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to act as trial examiner in the first proceedings.

After weeks of hearings, Landis ruled that there was no substantial evidence that Bridges was a communist, and Secretary Perkins thereupon hurriedly quashed the deportation warrant.

Forty-four Days of Testimony.

Today's ruling contradicted the Landis findings in many respects. It was based on 44 days of testimony presented from March 31 to July 12. In it Examiner Sears first set up the fact that Bridges is an alien and arrived from his native Australia at San Francisco on April 12, 1920, as a member of the crew of the barkentine Ysabel.

The examiner also found "that the communist party of the United States of America from the time of its inception in 1919 to the present time, is an organization that believes in, advises, advocates, and teaches the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States." He also found that the communist party "writes, circulates, distributes, prints, publishes, and displays printed matter," advocating the overthrow of the government by force.

Links Bridges to Communists.

Then linking Bridges to the communist party, Examiner Sears found:

"That after entering the United States, the alien [Bridges] has been affiliated with the Marine Workers' Industrial union," the finding continues.

"That the Marine Workers' Industrial union was a part of the communist party, dominated and controled by it;

"That the Marine Workers' Industrial union was an organization that believed in, advised, advocated and taught the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States;

"That after entering the United States the alien has been a member of the communist party."

Under the immigration act of October, 1918, as amended in 1920 and

Hundreds Join Hunt in Woods for Little Girl

Conway, N. H., Sept. 29 (AP).—Fresh footprints of a child's sneakers, believed those of missing Pamela Hollingworth, 5 years old, spurred searchers tonight as the temperature sank close to freezing.

Where girl is being hunted.

The imprints were found in a sawdust pile a few hundred yards up the east shore of Iona lake—nearly a half mile from the camping grounds where Pamela and her parents were enjoying a Sunday picnic when she disappeared. Fears for the safety of the little girl, who wore only a green sunsuit, mounted as the cold wind whistled thru the dense woods.

Hundred Soldiers Aid Search.

A detachment of 100 soldiers from Fort Devens, Mass., clad in heavy jackets, joined more than 100 volunteers in the hunt. Experienced woodsmen expressed belief that the footprints were made today, and searchers said the trade-mark on the sneakers tallied with those worn by Pamela, daughter of a lumber company executive.

Pamela's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hollingworth of Lowell, Mass., were at Albany, N. H., central point of the search where the child's mother was under a doctor's care.

Hollingworth is superintendent of the Pratt & Forest Lumber company in Lowell. The couple also has a 10 year old son, Teddy.

Assistant District Ranger Albert Eckes said that an area above five miles square had been covered in the night and day long search of the timberland about three miles west of Mt. Chocorua.

Father in Sound Truck.

Foresters carried five portable short wave radio sets thru the woods and two airplanes circled during the day.

Pamela's dog, "Shag," was with the searchers and the little girl's father rode in a sound truck along the wooded roads.

All day he repeated his messages, telling the little girl to come toward his voice if she could or to call to any one she saw in the woods.

ITALY SUSPENDS SALES OF CLOTHING, TEXTILES; ORDERS RATIONING

ROME, Sept. 30 [Tuesday] (AP).—The Italian government suspended, effective today, all trade in textiles and clothing of every kind, preliminary to a nation-wide stocktaking and rationing of goods. This came just a day ahead of bread rationing because of an inadequate grain crop.

Factories and wholesalers must prepare inventories of their textile and clothing stocks as of midnight tonight and place them at the disposal of the corporations ministry "for distribution according to rules to be issued." A communique said that despite recent distribution of identification cards for purchases of clothing and textiles the public has been buying more than usual. This system will be replaced by "a system of rationing cards which will assure the population an indispensable minimum and avoid hoarding." The sales suspension will last about two weeks, it was said.

Meanwhile, bread lines were added to those waiting for milk, eggs, and potatoes as Italians laid up supplies to augment the ration they will begin receiving Wednesday. Some persons bought up to 30 kilograms [60 pounds] of bread. The large purchasers said they intended to dry the bread in ovens and eat it gradually.

Briton Tells How Guns, Sea Killed 2,500

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—A lean-jawed British captain sat in his cabin aboard the cruiser Dido, which is being refitted at the Brooklyn navy yard, and told today how he led a flotilla to the slaughter of 2,500 German soldiers. They were killed as they tried to land on the island of Crete from wooden fishing boats.

He is Capt. Henry William Urquhart McCall, commander of the 5,040 ton Dido, the flagship of a group of three cruisers and four destroyers which had been ordered to keep the Nazis from landing in Crete.

The British had left Greece and were trying to hold Crete without the aid of air power, Capt. McCall said. His ship was on patrol when the squadron sighted the German convoy on the night of May 21.

Almost 60 Boats Attacked.

The convoy consisted of about 50 fishing boats, craft of about 100 tons each; half a dozen steamships, and an Italian destroyer, which was guarding the convoy. The scene was about 15 miles north of Crete.

"We at once altered our course into the middle of the convoy and opened fire," McCall said, "switching on our searchlights to pick up the targets about a mile away. The destroyer was blown up and sunk almost at once. We saw no more of her [the British never learned her name; there were no survivors].

"It was just a case of steaming thru the convoy and picking up the steamers and caiques [fishing boats] with searchlight rays. At one time the water appeared strewn with German soldiers wearing full equipment and life belts. The air was filled with shrieks and cries for help but we were unable to stop. Not a man was saved."

Half of Convoy Sunk.

Capt. McCall said he believed half the convoy went down with about 2,500 men and 2,500 survivors reached their Greek base. Not a man reached Crete by boat, he said.

The Dido took 1,200 soldiers from Crete to Egypt thru a rain of bombs.

The 46 year old Scottish born skipper said that in six months of North Atlantic convoy service he took hundreds of ships to England without an attack.

"I have never seen a German submarine," he said.

Smoke Screens Hide British Factories from Air Raiders

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP).—Vast smoke screens extending for many miles were reported tonight in use in Britain to protect industrial centers from air attack.

263 NAZI PLANES SMASHED WITHIN 48 HOURS---REDS

Moscow today declared the Red air force had destroyed 263 German planes within 48 hours of fighting. Red soldiers were said to have widened the wedge of their counter-offensive on the front west of Moscow. Heavy losses were reported inflicted on the Germans in two sectors of the Leningrad front. Early season snows began to fall in Moscow.

Berlin declared German armies were advancing close to the Donetz industrial region in the eastern Ukraine after outflanking and destroying three Russian divisions (about 45,000 men) in one battle.

Reports reaching London said the Germans were heavily bombing railroads and highways of the Crimea, but that ground forces still were unable to cross the main isthmus to the peninsula.

British Glamor Girls Told: Sign for War Work

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Glamor girls and riots at the internment camp for British Fascists are giving the Isle of Man two headaches.

What to do with more than 2,000 "good time" girls from all over Britain who went there to escape war work and now occupy the island's luxury hotels, play golf, and attend cocktail parties has had officials in a dither for some time.

It was decided that these girls, like all other women in Britain, must register for war work. Consequently, Lord Granville, lieutenant governor of the island, ordered all women born in 1920 to register and announced that those in other age groups will be called upon to sign up soon.

Governor Lacks Power.

This action created consternation among the women at the two principal Manx resorts of Douglas and Ramsey, but the governor lacks the power to force the visitors to return to the mainland.

Plans have been made to employ the women on the island. They can volunteer for the auxiliary territorial service, the women's royal naval service, and the women's auxiliary air force. They also can volunteer for munitions work in England, but there is no authority to conscript them for these jobs.

In addition to the visitors the registration order also affects about 2,000 Manx women between 21 and 26 years of age.

A riot at the internment camp last night was the second in less than two weeks. The Fascists refused to take orders from military guards. The rioters were separated pending removal to other quarters.

Discover "Escape Tunnel."

A military guard sent to stop the riot discovered an escape tunnel leading from a house occupied by the internees to a garden outside the camp. It was said the discovery was made just in time to prevent a "mass escape."

The secret tunnel was betrayed by the internees during a brawl in one of the houses. The guards discovered the internees had stolen whisky from the canteen. The whisky party developed into a fight. Guards searched the house and found three loose floor boards concealing the opening of the tunnel. Soldiers blocked the tunnel entrance.

A GERMAN GIRL MARRIES SOLDIER KILLED IN BATTLE

BERLIN, Sept. 29 (AP).—A German girl became a widow today without ever having been a wife when she formally wedded a dead man.

The girl had been the fiancée of Sergt. Otto Ernst Maiwald, a German soldier in Africa. Last June Maiwald performed the so-called long distance marriage service before the commander of his unit.

By the time the marriage papers reached the girl in her home town of Ebersdorf, he had been killed in action. Nevertheless, she went before a registrar and signed the marriage papers Maiwald had signed, and under Nazi law became entitled to pension and other benefits of a widow of a slain soldier.

3 EX-GENERALS DIE IN PURGE OF ARMY PLOTTERS

Nazis Claim Victims Planned Revolt.

BERLIN, Sept. 30 [Tuesday]—(AP).—An attempted revolt by a Czech army group seeking to throw off German rule and restore independence in dismembered Czecho-Slovakia, was disclosed today with the announcement that 24 persons, including three former generals, have been shot in Bohemia and Moravia on order of a German court martial.

They were accused of trying to "forcefully separate the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia from the reich."

The three former military leaders, Josef Bily, an army general, Hugo Votja, a division general, and Franz Horacek, a brigadier general, were described as "leading men in the opposition group which had as its goal the reëstablishment of an independent Czech state."

Groups Collect Arms.

The executions followed by not more than 48 hours the proclamation of a state of civil emergency by Reinhard Heydrich, chief of the Schutz Staffel [Hitler guard] security service, who took over the position of "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia from Baron Konstantin von Neurath last Saturday.

The German news agency DNB quoted the Czech press to the effect that itinerant groups of Czechs had been going around the protectorate buying up and collecting arms of all sorts.

Ladislaus Komzak and Wendel Franc, named especially as members of the wandering band of arms buyers, were among those shot.

DNB said the revolt in which the arms were to be used against Germans was scheduled to come off soon.

Others who fell under volleys of Nazi executioners were Franz Vins, Johann Pestuka, Jaromir Dedlacek, and Dusan Hubert, all of Prague and all described as "leading communists."

Names of Others Withheld.

Names and descriptions of the others put to death were not given by DNB, as was the case of six persons earlier announced as executed for acts of terrorism and resistance to Germany.

There was no indication as to whether these six were among the total of 24 to die.

The authorities steadfastly denied that the former generals were included until the DNB dispatch was released. They insisted late yesterday that things were in the best order in the six districts of Bohemia and Moravia placed under civil emergency law.

The fate of the Czech premier, Gen. Alois Elias, who was arrested on a charge of premeditating high treason, still was undisclosed. Upon his arrest he was turned over to the German people's court for sentence—and from this court's verdict appeals may be carried only to Adolf Hitler.

Second Purge by Nazis.

In the short history of the Nazi protectorate this was the second time that shots have silenced Czech patriots. The first time was in November, 1939, when a dozen Czech students were shot as "an example."

Authorized Germans insisted that in this latest purge the number of arrests was "very low—far under 100."

TERROR IN BULGARIA

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 29.—A reign of terror is under way in Bulgaria where a wave of executions, mass arrests and courtsmartial over the week-end precipitated new disorders and fresh sabotage in Sofia and the provinces, according to reports received tonight by foreign diplomatic and military quarters here.

Bulgarian secret police, with German secret police and Schutz Staffel [Hitler guard] raiding squads made mass arrests in Sofia and the villages along the Jugo-Slav frontier, where Serbs and Bulgarian peasant saboteurs are reported increasingly active.

Sunday's massmeetings, called in the provinces on government order for speechmaking by Premier Bogdan Philov's functionaries, were disturbed and broken up by hecklers, communist partisans, and the peasants themselves.

An official proclamation at Sofia said that a special Bulgarian court will begin a series of treason and

INDICT NICK DEAN IN SHAKEDOWN OF FILM PRODUCERS

U. S. Names Browne and Bioff Co-Conspirators.

New York, Sept. 29 [Special].—Nick Circella, better known as Nick Dean, Chicago hoodlum, and an important cog in the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to extort more than a million dollars from motion picture producers.

Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean.

Indicted with him was Louis Kaufman of Newark, N. J., business agent of local 244 of the Motion Picture Operators' union, affiliated with the International alliance.

Two Face Trial Monday.

Named as co-conspirators—but not as defendants—were George E. Browne, president of the International alliance, and Willie Bioff, Hollywood, Cal., boss of the union, who recently finished out a six months' sentence in Chicago on an old charge of pandering.

Browne and Bioff already are under indictment, also in connection with alleged blackmailing of the movie companies, and are scheduled to go on trial next Monday.

Both cases are almost identical. Today's indictment charges Circella and Kaufman reaped huge personal gains from Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.; Loews, Inc.; Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation, and Paramount Pictures, Inc., by threatening to call a nation-wide strike of the union's 125,000 motion picture and stage employés.

Described as Nitti's Underlings.

Bioff, Circella, and Browne are Chicago products. All received their start there. They are said to be underlings of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, successor to Al Capone in Chicago gangland circles.

Browne climbed from an every-day stage hand to control of the International alliance. He was only a figurehead, however, until after the assassination of Thomas E. Maloy in Chicago in February, 1935. Maloy was the power behind the movie operators. Browne, less than a week after Maloy's murder, took over the latter's union and with it Maloy's power.

Circella's Ascent Differs.

Circella's ascent had a different beginning. He started out as a neighborhood hoodlum, then graduated into a professional by being sentenced in 1916 to Pontiac reformatory in Illinois on charges of assault to rob and murder.

He was paroled in 1919, and later was arrested several times on charges ranging from automobile theft to mail robbery. But nothing came of the charges. Meantime, it was said, he tied up with the Capone mob. In 1927 he first entered the labor field, then as a business agent for the Newsboys' union. From that he switched to Browne's more lucrative union. He is listed as Browne's personal representative in Chicago. His yearly salary is said to be $22,000.

Both Browne and Circella rule with an iron hand the movie operators in Chicago. There, it was charged, they used $65,000 of the Chicago union's funds to establish the swanky Colony club on Rush street, which was closed by police following a gambling raid last March. Circella presided over the place, while Browne, in the manner of a feudal baron, used it as a lounging place, according to investigators. The club's huge losses, it was said, were charged against the union. At present Circella is a fugitive.

KILLS 2 AS 100 PUPILS LOOK ON; HANDY MAN HELD

Highland Falls, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP).—A slight 45 year old Portuguese born handyman, who police said slew two persons before a group of 100 school children this morning, surrendered at dusk today in a deserted tourist cabin after an eight hour hunt by a posse of 200 armed men.

Police Chief Charles Engle identified the man as Manuel Jacinto. The victims were Nick Monte, 55, father of five children, and owner of a coal, ice, and wood business, and his bookkeeper, Mrs. Doris Croyle, 35, mother of a 12 year old son.

Special Examiner Makes Report on Hearing.

"After entering the United States he has been a member [and affiliated with] an organization, association, society or group that believes in, advises, advocates, and teaches the overthrow by force of the government of the United States and caused to be written [and displayed] printed matter, advising, advocating and teaching the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States.

"There is evidence that he [Bridges] coöperated with known members of the communist party and affiliated organizations, and very often shared their views upon political, social and, particularly, labor questions," the examiner continued.

"In my judgment . . . these instances viewed as a whole form a pattern which is more consistent with the conclusion that the alien followed this course of conduct as an affiliate of the communist party, rather than as a matter of chance coincidence."

Legislatie Move Fails.

Shortly after Secretary Perkins quashed the original deportation warrant on the basis of Landis' findings, a bill was introduced in congress which provided that Bridges be deported forthwith. The bill was passed by the house overwhelmingly but died in the senate.

Meanwhile, the bureau of immigration was shifted from the department of labor to the department of justice. A full inquiry was undertaken by the FBI and culminated in the hearings before Sears, who was appointed special trial examiner by Robert H. Jackson, justice of the Supreme court, then attorney general.

Submitted to Immigration Official.

Altho released thru the department of justice here, today's opinion was actually submitted to I. F. Nixon, director of the San Francisco district of the immigration service. Nixon will now be required to file his report with Lemuel Schofield, director of the justice department's division of immigration and naturalization, who will then transmit it to the board of immigration appeals.

If the board upholds Sears' findings, a deportation order must be issued by the immigration service, after which the case will go before Attorney General Francis Biddle for final decision. Bridges' attorneys indicated tonight that they would take the case to the United States Supreme court if necessary.

CIVIL POLICEMAN IS INDICTED FOR SLAYING SOLDIER

M'Hugh Faces Trial on Manslaughter Charge.

New York, Sept. 29 [Special].—The September panel of the Burlington [N. J.] county grand jury today indicted John McHugh, a civil police officer for manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of Private Theodore Mazur, a Fort Dix soldier.

Harry J. Ziegler of Riverside, N. J., foreman of the jury, handed up the true bill to Judge Frank A. Hendrickson. No date was set for the trial of McHugh, but it was indicated the case will come up in November.

The grand jury reached its decision after hearing about 10 witnesses presented by Prosecutor Daniel Lichtenthal of Burlington county. These included Louis Fussman, commander of the military police at Fort Dix, who were seeking the slain soldier, Mazur, a 22 year old federalized national guardsman from Passaic, N. J., when he was killed by the civilian officer.

After the grand jury action McHugh, who had been free in bail of $1,000, surrendered to the sheriff of Cape May county. He was freed in bail of $10,000 pending trial.

The shooting attracted widespread interest in legal and military circles since it raised the question of whether a civil police officer possessed the authority to shoot a soldier being sought for punishment for a military offense. Another controversial aspect of the shooting was the fact that McHugh, a member of the Lansdowne, Pa., police force, was not on active duty in his own jurisdiction.

The slaying occurred on Aug. 22. Earlier that day Mazur and six other soldiers had escaped from the guard house at Fort Dix. McHugh, who is a crack shot, was vacationing at Brown Mills, N. J.

That evening, McHugh later told police, he spotted three of the fleeing soldiers. He seized two of them but the third fled. He said he fired three shots, two into the air as a warning. He did not know the result of the third shot.

The next morning a woman found Mazur's body.

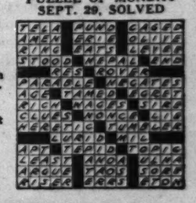
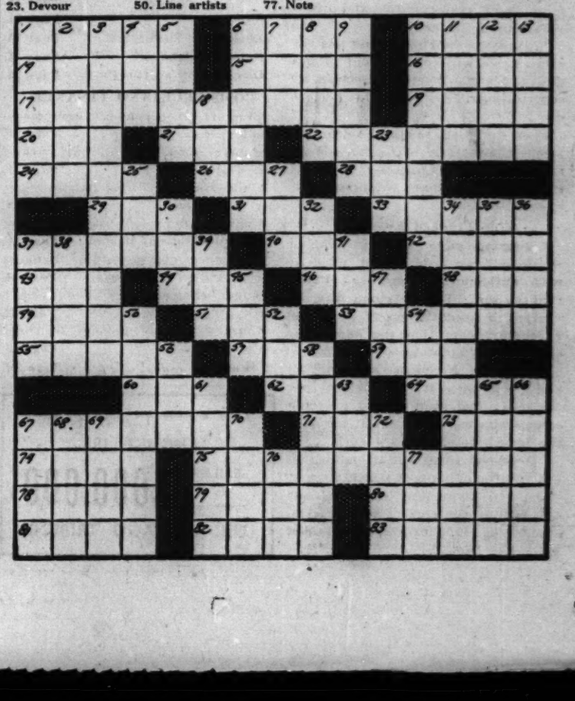
PUZZLE OF MONDAY SEPT. 29, SOLVED





U. S. BAR URGED TO TAKE STAND ON VITAL ISSUES

Many Resolutions Drawn Up for Convention.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—Resolutions calling for impeachment of President Roosevelt, preservation of the United States constitution, a curb on free speech, a ban on strikes in rearmament industries, and repeal of the neutrality act were introduced today at the opening session here of the 64th annual convention of the American Bar association.

Also in tempo with the stress of the times were a half dozen speeches by notables dealing with national preparedness, the draft, the trend toward dictatorship, and the dangers of inflation.

Three thousand lawyers are attending the sessions, which will continue thru Friday.

Resolutions Committee Meets.

The resolutions committee, headed by Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], held its first session late today, with 12 proposals before it. Perhaps the most sensational was one submitted by Joseph T. Harrington of Chicago, which proposed that the Bar association prepare evidence to impeach the President on the ground that he "has repeatedly made statements and, as commander in chief of the army and navy, has issued orders that are acts of aggression against other nations, which will cause a condition of war with such nations."

Harrington also introduced a resolution calling for a bar referendum on the Roosevelt administration's meddling in European affairs without a war declaration by congress

Immediately before the resolutions committee's open session adjourned for deliberations behind closed doors, Palmer Hutcheson of Houston, Tex., introduced a three line resolution asking the bar association to indorse President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

"I didn't think such a resolution would be necessary," said Hutcheson, "until I had heard some of the other resolutions that have been read here."

Warns Against Predictions.

Chairman Sumners warned reporters against predicting the committee's recommendations on any of the resolutions.

The resolution on strikes, introduced by William Logan Martin of Alabama, condemns the use of violence or threats of violence on national preparedness projects and urges congress enact specific legislation to deal with the situation.

The proposed curb on free speech was introduced by Miss Dorothy Frooks of New York, national president of the Women World War Veterans. In a "whereas" clause, it is aimed at "saboteurs, poison pen letter writers, destroyers of factories and reputations by malicious propaganda."

Eugene Quay of Chicago presented a resolution asking the bar association to protect the constitution of the United States. It declares that the provisions of this supreme law "cannot be abrogated on the plea that the emergencies of war were not foreseen by the makers of the constitution." In a separate resolution, he urged protection of civil rights for those in military service.

Biddle Explains Burocracy.

At a sectional meeting, United States Attorney General Francis Biddle explained procedure of the growing administrative boards in Washington, D. C., which in the past have been attacked by the bar as an arbitrary combination of judge, jury, and prosecutor lacking adequate court review. Roscoe Pound, former dean of Harvard university law school, also discussed the technicalities of the complicated system.

Earl Warren of California, president of the National Association of Attorneys General, in an address at the opening of his organization's annual meeting, said that the membership must safeguard democracy within America while preparing defenses against totalitarianism abroad.

"It would be an empty victory indeed," he said, "if we should defeat the totalitarian enemy only at the expense of losing some substantial part of local self-government."

Draft Problems Discussed.

Brig.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the selective service system, told the lawyers of the broad aims of the draft, to obtain soldier personnel without dangerously depleting the man power of agricultural, industrial, or other essential civilian pursuits.

"I have recently been alarmed," he said, "over the fact that in a short period of time one million workers have left the farms for the cities and industrial areas. It has been my hope that industry would make its inroad as far as possible upon those engaged in non-essential activities. The time may come when selective service may be compelled to inaugurate a policy to relieve civilian shortages."

Gen. Hershey advised that draft boards inquire into recent marriages of registrants, asserting "we have been at times fearful that advantage was being taken of our liberal policies of deferment."

Urges Price Control Action.

Brunson MacChesney, assistant general counsel of the office of price administration, spoke before a sectional meeting urging enactment of pending legislation to give the government further control over prices. The battle against inflation can be won, he said, only if "appropriate means" of enforcing price control are provided.

In the annual address of the bar association's president this morning, Jacob M. Lashly, St. Louis Democrat, called upon the lawyers of America to coöperate with the national preparedness program and to help prepare society for the "want and misery which always dog the paths along which war has gone."

It's a Gift

ANN SHERIDAN.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 29 [Special].—Just because red haired Ann Sheridan happens to be wearing a large square cut diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand, people shouldn't get the idea the film actress is again in a marrying mood.

"It's just a gift," she explained. "The ring fits that finger, so that's where I'm going to wear it. But it doesn't mean that I'm engaged."

The gift came from George Brent, according to the publicity department of the studio where both are employed.

NEW TAXES BEGIN ABSORBING YOUR CASH TOMORROW

U.S. Collection Machinery All Geared to Go!

Federal tax collection machinery in Chicagoland is all set to start harvesting tomorrow its share of the biggest tax drive in the history of the nation.

In the Chicago office of the internal revenue bureau as well as in every other branch office in the country, hundreds of thousands of new excise tax return blanks are stacked and ready for the taxpayer.

These blanks will go to thousands of Chicago business firms which will be paying taxes direct to Uncle Sam for the first time as well as to all the companies which will be filing expanded returns.

A Buying Splurge.

Consumers in a last minute rush indulged in a buying splurge to beat the taxes. David Mayer Jr., chairman of the State Street council, said merchants did a "land office" business Saturday and yesterday. Buyers were chiefly interested in fur and fur trimmed coats, jewelry, and toilet articles, he said.

Liquor dealers reported purchases were heavier than in the Christmas rush season. Several dealers in the loop reported customers stood in long lines thruout the day.

Much of the buying was on the installment plan, since the new tax laws provide that if the sale and delivery of the article have been made by Oct. 1, no tax can be collected. If, however, the article is purchased on the "lay away" plan to be held by the store until virtually paid for, the tax applies to the unpaid balance on Oct. 1.

Three Classifications.

The new revenue act can be divided roughly into three classifications: amusements—including liquor—commodities, and income. You, as a taxpayer, can worry about the income tax after the first of the year; the others go into effect tomorrow.

First, consider commodities. A trip thru the loop or any business district will show how the new taxes dig into your pocketbook.

You've decided on a watch for your wife this Christmas. Your jeweler has one advertised for $100 that just fits the bill. When you pay for it, however, it will be $112—$10 federal tax, $2 state tax.

That same 10 per cent federal tax applies to every other item in the jeweler's stock, except religious articles, eyeglass frames, and fountain pens.

Or Perhaps a Fur Coat.

On second thought, maybe she'd like a fur coat instead of a watch? Well, the furrier across the street will tell you that $400 coat will now set you back just $448—10 per cent federal and 2 per cent state taxes included.

Toilet articles carry the same rate of tax. Everything from face powder and hair restoratives to toilet water is included.

Those three groups—jewelry, furs, and toilet articles—are taxed on the retail price. They are open and aboveboard taxes. But take a look at the so-called hidden taxes:

The manufacturer has paid to the government 10 per cent of his wholesale price on your new electric toaster, and by the time you get it, the extra money comes out of your pocket. The same thing is true on all other electrical appliances, as well as the following:

Gas and oil appliances, phonographs and records, musical instruments, sporting goods, luggage, photographic apparatus, electric signs, business and store machines, commercial washing machines, rubber articles [except footwear and items for hospital use], and optical equipment.

Tax on Light Bulbs.

The tax on electric light bulbs will be 5 per cent, while on matches it is two cents for each 1,000. Dealers in tires, inner tubes, and matches must pay a floor tax on the stocks they hold at the opening of business tomorrow. The tax on tires has been raised 2½ cents a pound to 5 cents and on inner tubes it has been raised 4½ cents to 9 cents a pound.

Taxes on automobiles have been raised from 3½ per cent to 7; on trucks and buses from 2½ to 5 per cent, and the same increase applies to accessories and parts.

Your new refrigerator or air conditioner will cost you a 10 per cent tax instead of the old 5½. The same is true of radios and parts. The tax on safe deposit box rentals is increased from 11 to 20 per cent and on playing cards from 11 cents to 13 a pack.

There will be a 5 per cent tax on all transportation fares of more than 35 cents and on Feb. 1 the new "use" taxes go into effect on motor vehicles and boats. These soak each car or truckowner $5 a vehicle and each boatowner from $5 to $200, depending on the size of the craft.

In addition, your monthly telephone bill will be taxed a flat 6 per cent, and the rates are jumped on long distance calls of more than 24 cents to 5 cents for each 50 cents or fraction.

Nigel Campbell, chief deputy collector for the Chicago internal revenue office, said he couldn't estimate what the new taxes will take from Chicagoans.

SHOTGUN BLAST PROVES POLICE ADVICE IS SOUND

People Know It Now in Norwood Park.

"Goodness no, madam!" he gasped. "No, indeed. We can't send a policeman to shoot a drunk. We don't shoot drunks. What? O, a skunk! That's different, madam. Sure, we'll shoot a skunk."

Policemen Give Warning.

The animal was surrounded by brick walls on three sides. More than 40 persons had gathered and were looking at the skunk, which was staring back at them.

"If we shoot your skunk," the policemen told Mrs. Weiller, "you may be very, very sorry. Besides, a pistol bullet might ricochet off those steps and walls and hit somebody."

Mrs. Weiller said she couldn't help that. She explained that her helper, Mrs. Rose Stegmeyer, refused to go into the basement to work until something was done.

As to sorrow, said Mrs. Weiller, sniffing, she already was about as sorry as she could be over the affair. The policemen shook their heads and said she could be a lot sorrier. The skunk waved its tail.

Citizen Gets His Gun.

This brought some action. George Fuller, who has a pie factory at 4618 North Harlem avenue, said he wasn't afraid. He said he would get his shotgun. The policemen looked at every one pityingly, repeated it would be dangerous to fire a pistol at the skunk, then got into their squad car and drove off.

Mr. Fuller's shotgun made a glorious noise and reduced Norwood township's skunk population by one. But Policemen Johnston and Ragghianti were right. Mrs. Weiller WAS sorry. And so were her customers—for several hours afterward.

Victim Talks Bandits Out of $1 So He Can Ride Home

John Breiland, assistant weather forecaster at Des Moines, Ia., was robbed of his car and $20 early yesterday at Stockton drive and La Salle street in Lincoln park. He persuaded the gunmen to give him back $1 for transportation home. Breiland, who is 35 years old, is living at 5628 Ellis avenue while taking an advanced course in meteorology at the University of Chicago.

Sees Daughters Smoking, Shoots Himself to Death

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29 (AP).—Elia Taddi, 55 years old, a widower who had reared three daughters, shot himself to death last night, Detective Daniel O'Mahoney said, because he saw the girls smoking cigarets. O'Mahoney said the daughters, Rose, 24; Adeline, 22, and Dolores, 20, said their father had been distressed when he saw them smoking yesterday in a store.

CONFIRM EKMAN APPOINTMENT AS EVANSTON CHIEF

The Evanston city council last night confirmed the nomination of Lieut. Carl Ekman as police chief of the suburb. Ekman has been acting chief since June 3, when Charles F. Paash retired.

Previously Mayor S. G. Ingraham had nominated William O. Freeman, former police chief, to take over his old post, but the council rejected him by a vote of 9 to 7.

Ekman was born in Sweden 57 years ago and joined the Evanston police force in 1918. He was made a sergeant in 1924, a lieutenant in 1926, lieutenant of detectives in 1928, and supervising lieutenant and second in command of the force in 1938. He has been cited for meritorious service 18 times. The new chief is married and has two children.

HARRIMAN TELLS SOVIET: U. S. WILL GIVE FULLEST AID

'Time Is Short,' 3 Power Parley Is Warned.

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (AP).—W. Averell Harriman, head of the United States delegation to the American-British-Russian aid conference, pledged at the opening session of the three-power meeting today that the United States will give Russia "the fullest possible support" for her war against Germany.

Harriman declared that the presence of the American delegation at the war conference was historic in that the United States is nonbelligerent.

"But we come with your ally, the British," he told the Russians, "with the same object—to give you every assistance against the violent and uncalled for attack upon you by Hitler and his cohorts.

"Your success means everything to the people of America. I am instructed to pledge you the very fullest possible support today, tomorrow, and as long as the struggle lasts until ultimate victory comes."

Refers to Roosevelt, Churchill.

Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, who presided, told the delegates, "I hope the conference will be guided by the high ideals expressed by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill on Aug. 15 when they proposed the meeting in a message to Premier Josef Stalin."

Committees were instructed to work day and night in order to have a full report on Russia's war needs ready by Friday. They will also work on the problems of how British and American aid can be effected.

Beaverbrook: "We Owe a Debt."

Lord Beaverbrook, head of the British delegates, told the conference "we owe a great debt to our American friends," and added: "Our present advantageous position on the battlefield is due in large measure to them."

Of the Russian-German war, Beaverbrook said: "We are in partnership with the Russians. We are here today to show them we are ready to make every sacrifice to help conquer our common enemy. Mr. Molotov said time is precious. He is right. We will give lessons to those who make war. We will do everything we can to bring the conqueror low."

The chiefs of the missions had conferred with Stalin for more than three hours at the Kremlin last night.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 29 (AP).—A young mother who wants to buy pretty clothes and go to picture shows, tonight tearfully awaited a jury's verdict in her trial on a charge that she poisoned her 4 month old son. Conviction carries a possible sentence of two to 15 years' imprisonment.

The mother—21 year old Mrs. Catherine Keiper—admitted today that she wanted her baby, Andrew, in a hospital so she could earn money for clothes and movies, but denied the state's charge that she gave the child a poisonous disinfectant.

She was arrested Aug. 15, the day after the younger of her two sons was taken to a hospital where he now is recovering.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

RUSSIANS SMASH 263 NAZI PLANES WITHIN 48 HOURS

Deepen Wedge in German Moscow Front.

MOSCOW, Sept 30 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Red armies on the offensive from the Arctic to the Black sea have deepened a wedge in the German lines on the central front and inflicted big losses upon the Nazis in two sectors of the Leningrad area, the Russians announced today.

One Russian tank force alone was declared to have killed and wounded 1,500 Germans and put 12 Nazi tanks out of action in a northwestern sector while in the other a soviet unit killed 600 Germans and recaptured an important point identified only as "B."

Today's early morning communique said 263 German planes were destroyed in two days, representing the heaviest blow yet to the Nazi air force in a 48 hour period.

Sink Another Destroyer.

Still another success was reported at sea—the sinking of a second destroyer in a Baltic battle in which a cruiser and a destroyer previously were reported sent to the bottom.

Leningrad's defenders, asked by Marshal Klementi Voroshilov on Aug. 29 to fight to the last man, apparently still held the upper hand outside that besieged town.

The general picture drawn by soviet sources was of a battle line everywhere held firm as winter approached and of the Germans being bent back in some sectors.

At the center above Bryansk, a town more than 200 miles southwest of Moscow—German tank forces were declared to have suffered another defeat, this time being sharply thrown back with heavy losses in men and equipment by a Russian drive that recaptured two soviet villages.

Rout Two Rumanian Brigades.

Before Odessa two Rumanian infantry brigades were routed, the soviet communique announced, with the loss of more than 2,500 dead in a single action.

Offshore soviet warships were described as still in heavy action in support of the besieged city, despite repeated German efforts to mine the Black sea from the air and thus bottle up the southern soviet fleet. Russian minesweepers, it was added, were clearing the shipping lanes as fast as they were filled with mines.

Somewhere above Leningrad a detachment of 600 Finnish troops was declared annihilated. Over the northwestern front generally the destruction by soviet bombers of scores of German trucks and armored cars, along with at least 30 tanks, was announced.

Flyers Active in South.

The southern Red air fleet also was pictured as in strong offensive action, having all but smashed two battalions of German infantry in one sector.

[During Monday there was no authoritative word from Moscow as to the Nazi thrust at the Crimea. London sources said, however, that while the Germans were heavily bombing the Crimean railroads and highways they apparently were making little or no progress against the Perekop isthmus connecting the peninsula with the mainland.]

F. D. R. AND AIDS MEET TOMORROW ON WAR PROGRAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 29.—President Roosevelt departed for Washington tonight on a special train after a week-end at his family home to press his program of aid to nations fighting the axis powers.

After a telephone conversation with Secretary of State Cordell Hull the President postponed for a day a conference with congressional leaders on revision of the neutrality act and on the proposed 5 billion 985 million dollar supplemental lend-lease appropriation.

Mr. Roosevelt scheduled a conference with Hull at 10 a. m. tomorrow, at which the entire international situation is expected to be discussed. The conference with administration leaders will be held Wednesday.

On his return to the capital Mr. Roosevelt was accompanied by his royal house guest, Crown Princess Martha of Norway, her three children, and her entourage.

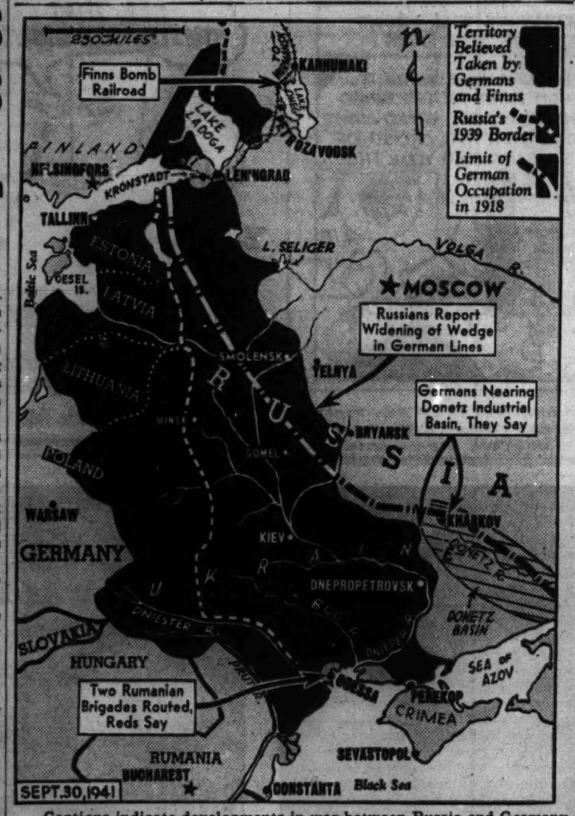
Russians Claim Victories Over Nazis



Captions indicate developments in war between Russia and Germany. Russia reported their armies were on the offensive from the Arctic to the Black sea, and had inflicted heavy losses on their foes.

DR. PALYI DOUBTS NAZIS CAN PUSH PAST CAUCASUS

Says They Must Win by Spring or Lose War.

The German problem is to push past the Caucasus mountains in Russia by spring or lose the war, Dr. Melchior Palyi, chief economist for the German reichsbank before the Hitler régime, declared yesterday before the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in Hotel Sherman. He predicted German failure.

Dr. Palyi is now on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin. He said that Russian industry is decentralized and even the loss of the western Ukraine and Moscow's aviation and tank works would not be decisive.

But Germany's growing need for new oil sources can be satisfied only by the vast fields behind the Caucasus mountains, which range from 8,000 to 14,000 feet in height, he said.

"The Germans are trying to get to the Caucasus as fast as possible before sufficient Russian forces can be placed there and allied aid sent," he said. "All else is subordinate.

"If they succeed they have all the oil they ever will need. They will have cut off effective aid from England and the United States. Turkey will be so outflanked that she will possibly no longer resist invitations to join the axis.

"The Germans would also have a foothold in the middle east against the British. Upon getting past the Caucusus depends the probable outcome of the war and certainly its duration."

Odds are overwhelmingly against German success in this aim, he said, barring a break in Russian morale, which he does not expect.

3 RED DIVISIONS FLANKED AND CUT TO PIECES: NAZIS

Claim Drive in South Nears Donetz Basin.

BERLIN, Sept. 29 (AP).—The German southern armies were reported advancing close to the Donetz basin in the eastern Ukraine tonight, while Nazi warplanes beat heavily at that coal mining and industrial area in an effort to knock out one more reservoir of the war materials so urgently needed by Russia to replace vast losses.

The high command reported that three Red divisions [about 45,000 men] had been outflanked and destroyed by German and Italian troops northeast of Dnepropetrovsk and that 13,000 Red prisoners already were in hand.

The precise extent of the Nazi advance was not stated officially, but DNB, the official German news agency, declared it was obvious that invading forces were hammering at the gates of the Donetz. Kharkov, the chief city of the basin, was bombed by German planes.

Near World War Lines.

DNB observed that the Germans had reached almost to the lines they commanded in that direction after almost four years of fighting in the World war. The economic and industrial aspects of the present campaign were emphasized.

News dispatches told of a Russian counterattack of strength somewhere in the southern theater, but it was asserted that the Germans subsequently had captured a string of soviet batteries and turned them around to fire on the Red forces.

The air force, in coöperation with German troops, reported destruction in the south of 23 Russian planes in air battles and six on the ground.

As to the northern front—about Leningrad—there was only brief information. A dispatch from there stated that the Germans had taken 41 more casemates [field forts] by storm but again had encountered many land mines.

Finns Bomb Rail Line.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 29 (AP).—The Finnish air force heavily bombed the Murmansk railroad between Petrozavodsk and Karhumaki yesterday, it was announced today. Hits were reported on transport trains.

STORY OF SINKING OF THE PINK STAR BY SHIP'S CAPTAIN

Hails Heroism of Officer Who Swam to Death.

While in Iceland, Drew Middleton of the Associated Press wrote several stories which were passed by the joint British-American censorship there. Afterwards, it was learned, United States navy officials in London countermanded permission to release several of the stories. Altho failing to explain its action, the navy said the stories would be released at a time it deemed "appropriate." Following is the first of Middleton's stories to be released.

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 24 [Delayed] (AP).—The wooden-legged master of the torpedoed freighter Pink Star told today a story of self-effacing heroism by the Canadian second officer, J. L. [Jim] Cassidy, who gave up his life so as not to overcrowd a lifeboat.

"Cassidy swam up to our only lifeboat," said Capt. J. C. Mackenzie in an Icelandic hut, "he saw that it was full, waved good-by and swam away. We never saw him again."

He looked around at the grim faces of some of his 23 fellow survivors of the crew of 36. No one said a word.

Cassidy, the hero of the Pink Star, came from New Brunswick. Capt. Mackenzie, who is 53 years old, was in the water for five hours. But his tribute was for Cassidy.

"It was the finest thing I ever saw," he said.

Of himself, Mackenzie tsaid, "with two life belts to keep me up and a bit of wood from a lard box to paddle with," he had managed to keep moving for three hours. Two hours before he was picked up, however, he had lost the use of his good leg from the numbing cold of the water.

Saw Torpedoes Coming.

Of the tense moments before the Pink Star went down, Mackenzie said:

"I could see the torpedoes coming for minutes. I shoved the ship hard aport and then they hit. She seemed to be tearing to pieces. . . . ."

."A bit of a life raft was blown up on the bridge and the water thrown up by the explosion came up to my waist as I stood there," Mackenzie said. The explosion smashed all the lifeboats but one. Night was closing in.

"When we got the one boat down we found she was half full of water from this tidal wave the explosion threw up," the captain continued.

"The Pink Star went down fast. Eight minutes it was. Some got in the life boat and the others jumped overboard in their belts. I had plenty of time. I got the secret papers and weighted them and threw them overboard. Then I took a lifebelt and got off just as she was going down.

Felt Ship's Suction.

"She reached for me, she did. I felt the suction tugging at me as tho she wanted me with her, but I kept swimming. I could see the boat and the others in the water. It was very black."

Mackenzie said he swam about a bit to see if any of the others were injured.

"The steward was badly hurt about the head, a fellow by the name of Seymour," he added. "He was pretty cheerful, but then all of a sudden he was gone. Another messman was hollering and crying. He went, too."

It was then that Mackenzie saw Cassidy.

"Swam up as cool as you please, saw the situation and swam away," Mackenzie said. "Had a widowed mother in New Brunswick, too."

[The state department announced Sept. 23 that the survivors, none Americans, had been landed at Reykjavik. The Pink Star, under the flag of Panama after the United States took her into protective custody—she formerly was the 4,150 ton Danish motorship Lundby—was the first ship under American control to be sunk after President Roosevelt's shoot-on-sight speech of Sept. 11. The Pink Star was en route to Iceland in a Canadian convoy when she was destroyed Sept. 19, 275 miles northeast of Cape Farewell, at the southern tip of Greenland. She was armed.]

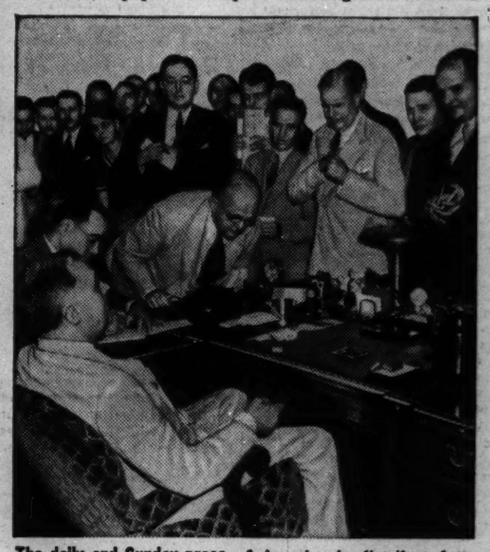
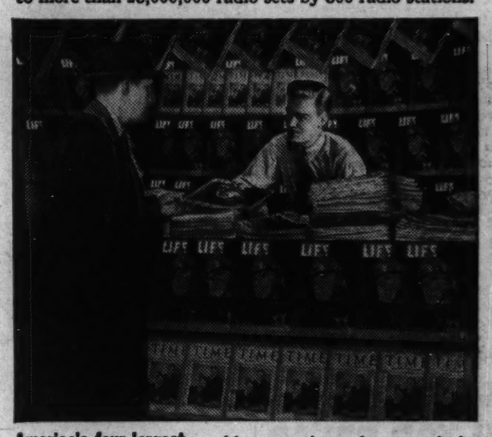
American education invests some $2,000,000,000 a year in our future citizens to achieve a national literacy figure of 95.7%, a population capable of being well informed.



The daily and Sunday press of America is distributed to nearly every home in the land, reports accurately all manner of news, reflects freely all shades and degrees of opinion.

Vast and varied sources of knowledge, news, information, as well as entertainment, are the programs regularly flashed to more than 28,000,000 radio sets by 800 radio stations.



America's four largest weekly magazines alone regularly reach, inform, stimulate a tremendous total weekly audience—actually more than 41,500,000 different readers.

Your Sacred Right, Your Sacred Obligation

NO FUNDAMENTAL RIGHT is so universally held sacred by Americans, so jealously guarded, so passionately defended, as their right to speak their own minds.

It is a right which Americans traditionally exercise with great relish, refreshing candor, and salutary effect—holding no man, position, or condition exempt from a good critical "going over."

But . . . all too often overlooked or disregarded is the solemn obligation this right entails:

This obligation of being informed is not solely an obligation of those we call our leaders.

Fortunately, it is an obligation that Americans recognize, that has made us a nation of aggressive truth-seekers. It's an old American custom for the people to yell their heads off if they feel that their newsmen are not giving them the whole truth.

This advertisement is one of a series studying our democratic American way of life.

And the newsmen do the same thing if they feel that they're not getting the whole truth.

Thriving under these principles, America's sources of information are wider in scope and more effective than those of any other country in the world.

More than 1,600 daily newspapers, report the news—the world's most accurate—to a citizenry that is 95.7% literate.

Our hundreds of magazines, too, stimulate free, democratic inquiry, discussion, criticism, fact-facing. Thus they help to keep Americans by far the best-informed people on earth—help them to know what they're talking about!

LIFE feels it is an honor to be playing a major role in this particular field of public enlightenment—to be sharing the job of making free speech intelligent speech.

LIFE presents and interprets facts pertinent to all phases and problems of American life today to a weekly audience of more than 20,000,000 readers—offering them information they want and need, in a form that's easy to absorb and understand.

LIFE is proud of the contribution it makes in this critical time toward the successful functioning of democracy. And, as "America's Most Potent Editorial Force," LIFE is dedicated to continue this contribution both now and after this time of crisis has passed.

BRITISH BOMBARD ITALY IN HOPE OF CUTTING UP AXIS

Raids Follow Reports of Internal Weaknesses.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Resumption of British aerial bombardment of Italy tonight was regarded as significant of the new war strategy designed to take advantage of the reported economic and political weakness of that country.

The widespread raids also reflected the hope that Rome might be detached from the axis and so free the British Mediterranean fleet for probably more serious action near the Dardanelles and possibly in the Black sea. This hope was partly engendered by the presence here of Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's envoy to the Vatican.

The passage of British warships thru the Dardanelles into the Black sea would be of great help to Russia in guarding the Caucasus and its oil riches.

The admiralty today reported the arrival of a large convoy in the eastern Mediterranean. It was said that the troops and war material could be rushed across Syria, Iraq, Iran, and thence to Russia.

Bomb Italian Cities.

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP).—Italy has been caught in a two direction, all-out assault by the British air force—an offensive based on Britain's own flying fields as well as those of the middle east.

Synchronized with the operations of bombers from the sandy plains of Egypt for attacks over the week-end and Sunday night on Italy's insular possessions—Sicily, Sardinia, and Rhodes, as well as the Libyan coast of North Africa—the greatest weight-carrying planes of the RAF skimmed Mount Blanc at about 400 feet in crossing the Alps last night to raid the northern mainland of Italy.

Genoa and Turin Hard Hit.

Genoa was left in the glare of raging flames. Airmen who returned to Britain said that the industrial and dock area of that naval base were hardest hit. Turin, the naval port of Spezia, and Savona Marina, along with other points in northern Italy, also were attacked.

Almost ignored by British observers in the assault on Italy were attacks last night on Frankfort and other objectives in western Germany, and oil depots and refineries at St. Nazaire, France. Seven planes, in all, were acknowledged lost in the night operations.

Three British Cruisers Sunk; Italy.

ROME, Sept. 29 (AP).—The high command credited the Italian air force today with a decisive victory over British seapower in a nine hour running battle in the Mediterranean in which, it said, thee British cruisers and at least three merchantmen were sunk from a strongly guarded convoy. The battle began in daylight Saturday and lasted into the night.

In defiance of a battleship, an aircraft carrier and ten or more cruisers and destroyers, a special communique said, repeated waves of Italian planes swept out from Sicilian and Sardinian bases to intercept the convoyed line of British ships sliding eastward from Gibraltar.

After hours of combat, two heavy British cruisers and a light cruiser had gone down, three—and possibly four—merchantmen were sunk and several damaged British warships were left in the wake of the battle thru the narrow waters separating North Africa from Sicily, it said.

Claim Battleship Damaged.

Among the damaged warships the communique listed the battleship, believed to be the 33,900 ton Nelson, another "large undetermined unit," presumably the aircraft carrier, six smaller units, and a destroyer.

[The British admiralty was silent on the Rome reports of three cruisers and three merchantmen sunk.]

Directly and indirectly, the high command said, British raids on Italy took a toll of 13 persons killed and 43 injured in Sicily and on the mainland—among them two killed in blackout traffic accidents and 10 hurt by splinters of Italian anti-aircraft shells. Bombs fell on a hospital on Rhodes, causing 12 casualties.

War Action Spreads Away from Russian Front

Captions indicate important developments in warring nations yesterday. The British announced the beginning of a drive to "bomb Italy out of the war." Meanwhile the official German news agency announced that 24 Czechs, including two former generals, have been sentenced to death for plotting to re-establish an independent Czechs state.

espionage trials the third week in October. The announcement spread panic and disorder in the capital, where police arrested several hundred Bulgarians and foreigners during the week-end.

The proclamation, it was said, named two persons believed to have escaped Bulgaria, who will be "tried" and sentenced to death in absentia. These two, the reports said, are Norman Davis, former British press attaché at the British legation in Sofia, and George Dimitrov, the Agrarian peasant party leader in Bulgaria, who escaped to Jugo-Slavia when the pro-axis Jugo-Slav Tsetkovitch government collapsed last March. Davis, who left Bulgaria with the departing British mission, was trapped by the axis invasion of Jugo-Slavia, but now is understood to be safe in Palestine.

Seize Government Officials.

Confirmation has been received here of reports that a Bulgarian woman employé of the American legation at Sofia was seized and maltreated by Bulgarian secret police and is now in a mental hospital near the capital. Several Bulgarian correspondents of British and American newspapers and news agencies have been rearrested and imprisoned for questioning.

A major spy scare in the capital led to the arrest over the week-end of government functionaries suspected of communist or anti-Philov sentiments, foreign intelligence sources here say.

Reports published abroad of Bulgarian troop movements, military traffic down the Danube and publication of details of fortification work in the Yambol airdrome district, 50 miles west of the Turkish frontier, created grave alarm in the Bulgarian war and interior ministries and at the German army headquarters, it is said.

The leakage of news on the internal crisis, with details of two secret cabinet meetings, has led to the detention of two men high in government circles. Hundreds of new suspects are being round up.

Hint "Slow Down" in Germany.

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 29.—A hint that the "go-slow" movement inaugurated in the occupied countries has reached German factories was read by observers here into a dispatch to the Dagens Nyheter from its Berlin correspondent stating that as a result of the new regulations German workers will be paid less if production falls below a certain level.

ROB HOSIERY STORE.

Two robbers held up a hosiery store at 3307 Roosevelt road yesterday and took $30 from Miss Ida Bromberg, 23, of 1257 West 13th street, the manager.

Gen. Wavell Silent on Sending British Troops to Help Russia

TEHERAN, Iran, Sept. 29 (AP).—Britain's India commander, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, kept secret tonight whether he would send British troops to Russia's Caucasus defense line and minimized any immediate German threat to that oil rich district east of the Black sea.

He declared in a press interview, however, that he expected full cooperation would be achieved between British and Russian forces.

Of the German threat to the Caucasus, Gen. Wavell commented:

"They'd have to put an end to the Russian Black sea fleet first, either by taking all its bases or by sending in the Italian fleet to fight. The latter would involve seizing the Dardanelles, and I don't believe the Turks would give in easily."

Meets Red Commander.

The British strategist, on a flying tour of key British outposts in Africa and Asia Minor, had tea today with Maj. Gen. Vassili Vassilovich Novikov, Russian commander in Iran, with whom he conferred yesterday.

Asked if he would visit Russia, Wavell said, "Well, not yet."

Wavell also conferred with two British officers who flew to Teheran from Tiflis, Russia, where a British mission is studying Caucasus defense problems.

Aid by India Arranged.

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP).—Britain has built an anti-axis front reaching thru Asia Minor to the left flank of the Russian armies of the Caucasus, it was announced officially today, and arrangements for coöperation between empire forces there and in India have been worked out.

The announcement, which came from Simla, India, headquarters of the British command in India, told of a conference between Britain's highest commanders in Africa and Asia, Generals Wavell and Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, to coördinate India's war effort with the front raised at the land bridge between Europe and Asia.

The announcement implied that the British were ready to draw upon the immense reservoir of fighting men in India to meet any axis move.

U. S. Represents Egypt.

BERLIN, Sept. 29 (AP).—The United States embassy today took over the representation of Egyptian interests in Germany, until now represented by Iran.

BRITAIN MOVES TO OFFSET REDS' ACTIVITY IN IRAN

Seeks Alliance to Better Post-War Position.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia], Sept. 29.—The British are attempting to solidify their postwar position with respect to Iran by negotiating a British-Iranian alliance, it was reported in diplomatic circles tonight.

The step was believed taken in the hope of offsetting the spreading influence of the Russians who are stepping up the tempo of their propaganda, particularly in the northern provinces, which many Iranians fear already are lost.

A British-Iranian alliance, guaranteeing the territorial integrity of the country, might make it difficult for the Reds to annex the northern provinces, neutral observers assert.

Red Agitators Freed.

Former Sha [king] Riza Khan Pahlevi, a bitter enemy of communism, imprisoned hundreds of Red agitators during his 15 year reign, but when the Russians occupied northern Iran they threw open the jail doors and freed them all.

The mutual distrust between the British and soviet occupation forces was indicated by the refusal of the Russians to permit three RAF liaison officers to inspect airfields in the Russian occupied area. After waiting a week, the officers returned to Bagdad, Iraq.

The Russians have been extending their propaganda to Teheran by irregular publication of a newspaper attacking the ex-shah and living conditions in Iran. The most recent issue carried a drawing showing half a dozen men and women sitting on the ground beneath a tree playing musical instruments, singing and helping themselves from plates stacked high with delicacies. This, it was explained, was how happy peasants spend their time in southern Russia.

Daily Parades in Capital.

Altho both the invading armies have agreed not to march thru the capital under arms, the Reds have been having daily parades of their troops along the main streets of the city. They do not carry rifles but march along behind regimental bands singing as they go. This, observers said, is done to illustrate the carefree life of the Red soldier.

WOMEN TO UNITE IN MOBILIZATION TO PROTEST WAR

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29 [Special].—The Mothers of the U. S. A., a Detroit organization of militant women opposed to the government's foreign policy, has joined with 13 other women's organizations thruout the country in an effort to mobilize women's sentiment against war, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Lyrl Van Hyning, president of "We, the Mothers," a Chicago group similar to the Detroit organization. She said plans were under way for establishment of a Washington office and organization of a women's march on Washington "to protest against warlike acts of the Roosevelt administration."

In addition to the Detroit and Chicago groups the following organizations will participate: Mothers of American Sons, Springfield, Mass.; Neutral Mothers, Flint, Mich.; United Mothers of America, Garfield Heights, O.; Parents of America, St. Paul, Minn. Women United, New York; Mothers of Minnesota, Minneapolis; Defenders of the Constitution of the U. S. A., New York; Mothers of Sons, Cincinnati, O.; Pro-American-Alhambra, Los Angeles; Constitutional Government club, Dubuque, Ia.; and Mother Crusaders, Waukegan, Ill.

LEWIS DOUGLAS OF PRO-WAR UNIT, ASSAILED BY NYE

New York, Sept. 29 [Special].—Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], an anti-war spokesman, tonight accused Lewis W. Douglas, chairman of the national policy board of the pro-war Committee to Defend America, of being a prime mover in spreading fear hysteria. He warned that Douglas might be called before a senate investigating committee.

Nye made his charge in a radio address at a large meeting sponsored by the America First committee in Elmhurst, N. Y., "The newest fear," said Nye, "has been started by Lewis Douglas, who recently has been made the head of a great insurance company. Douglas has declared that if Hitler should win, an insurance policy would not be worth the paper it is written upon. I say to Douglas: 'If you don't keep still, you are going to be brought to Washington some day, and be compelled to reveal what you have got beehind those policies.'"

Douglas, a former director of the federal budget, is now head of an insurance company. Told of Nye's warning, he said, "Every American policyholder has a stake in assuring the defeat of Hitler, and neither Senator Nye nor any one else can prevent me from saying that if I believe it."

CHURCHILL ASKED TO HALT ROW OF BEVIN, CITRINE

Quarrel Flares Over Man Power Policy.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Two of the most powerful figures in the trade union movement, Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin and Sir Walter Citrine, were said today to be at dagger's end over two of Britain's biggest political issues—aid for Russia and the manpower policy. Their dispute over the manpower policy has become so acute, according to the Daily Express, that trade union chiefs have asked Prime Minister Churchill to settle it.

Ernest Bevin [top] and Sir Walter Citrine.

Sir Walter, its general secretary, is backed by the Trades Union congress in expressing "deep concern" over the calling of skilled labor into the army. He demands that the minister of labor give the Trades Union congress a voice regarding the calling of men from industries.

Aid to Russia Criticized.

When a wing [a unit of varying strength] of the royal air force was sent to Russia, Citrine declared "this is a microscopic part of the force that Great Britain should have been able to send."

The unions' appeal to the prime minister to intervene followed a speech by Bevin in which he rejected a demand by Citrine that he concentrate on smaller armed forces but provide them and Russia with the best possible equipment.

"No, Citrine," Bevin declared, "nobody can tell me I shall not call on skilled men. I mean to have sufficient of them for all the services."

Tells of Quarrel's Start.

The row flared up 13 days ago, the Express said, at a meeting of Bevin's consultative committee. Citrine asked Bevin if he had changed his mind about allowing a trade union representative to join the committee under Sir William Beveridge which is investigating the need for skilled men in the armed forces and on whose findings the minister's policy is based.

Bevin refused, declaring that the committee was purely departmental. "Then who is Mr. Bailey?" queried Citrine. He referred, said the Express, to G. E. Bailey, director of Metro Vickers, recently appointed to the Beveridge committee.

"He is the employers' representative," Citrine is said to have replied and a heated argument ensued.

The trade union chiefs appealed directly to the prime minister because the cabinet's production committee, to which complaints would normally be directed, is headed by Bevin.

BUYER OF FORGED RELIEF ORDERS PAYS BACK $10,000

Albert Stolz, wealthy Blue Island and Midlothian coal dealer, has paid Bremen township almost $10,000 in settlement for his part in the township's 1940 relief scandal, it was revealed yesterday.

Stolz, who said he was an innocent victim in the misappropriation of relief funds, turned over $7,000 in cash to the township and canceled $2,972.70 in disbursement orders due him for furnishing coal to reliefers, records of the Illinois Public Aid commission disclosed.

Stolz admitted he bought several thousand dollars' worth of relief orders at 75 cents on the dollar from James Bennette, former relief office bookkeeper, and later was paid in full for them with a check on the relief funds, but denied knowing that many of the orders were forged.

Stolz never was indicted, Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin explained, because Bennette's confession absolved the coal dealer of blame.

COURTESY PLUS WINS HIM $20 —THE HARD WAY

Railroad Ticket Man Just Won't Get Exasperated.

[While Chicago observes Courtesy week, THE TRIBUNE is conducting a search for genuine courtesy among public employes. Today's winner is the third to receive THE TRIBUNE'S $20 award.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

For 23 years Charles R. Wightman has peered between the bars of his ticket window in the North Western railroad station. The hurried, worried public comes and goes as fast as the trains, but if it comes in anger it usually leaves quite pleased.

For 23 years Mr. Wightman has labored patiently with the public's delusion that the public can never be wrong. Often the public is right, but often it is inordinately querulous, testy, accusatory, and short of temper. Because Mr. Wightman could easily have become all of these and has not, he today receives THE TRIBUNE'S $20 courtesy award.

Mr. Wightman is 57 years old, a rather short, bespectacled man with a ruggedly quiet face. He lives at 908 Main street, Evanston, with his wife and daughter, and says, speaking for all ticket agents, everywhere, "We try to keep in a good humor if we can."

Hour and Half of Questions.

As a ticket agent he presumably is not a public fountain of information. An information desk, well supplied with maps, statistics, and the answers to all queries, is three feet away from the long line of ticket windows of which Wightman's is No. 15.

However, a Tribune reporter, in a futile attempt to try his patience, endeavored to make him one. For an hour and a half, during the busiest part of the day, she plied him with questions. He often seemed surprised, but never displayed annoyance.

Arriving at his window hatless and tearful of eye the reporter simulated a penetrating gaze and asked in a semiwhisper, "How far away from Chicago can I get for $20?"

Old Question, Perhaps.

"West?" he retorted politely, as if this query was as familiar to his ears as "One way to Evanston."

"It doesn't matter," she assured him.

"Round trip?"

"O, no. One way."

He considered this. "Well, how about Denver or Cheyenne?"

"Cheyenne. That's Wyoming, isn't it? How large is Cheyenne?"

"I don't know," he replied. "A fair size."

"Hmmm. And what is the fare?"

"Twenty dollars and 16 cents."

"Coach?"

"Yes, ma'am. Coach."

"And Denver?"

"That's $20.71."

"Well, now," settling her elbows down on the counter for a good long discussion. "May I see a map?"

How Much—Again.

For this he directed her to the information desk. She consulted it briefly and came back.

"Now, how much did you say it was to Cheyenne?"

"Twenty dollars and 16 cents."

"Hmmmm . . . and how much by bus?"

"A, a few dollars less."

"Yes, but how much?"

"I don't know exactly, but—"

"How much longer does the bus take?" she interrupted.

"I can't tell you that, either, but there's a bus station right across the street." Carefully he directed her to it. Soon she was back again.

"Tell me," she said, "is Kansas City having a boom?"

"I don't know," he replied. "We don't have trains to it."

"But my bag is here. I can't go to another station. How about Minneapolis? Isn't that a big place?"

"O, yes. You can leave here at 3 o'clock this afternoon and get there tonight."

"What's that fare?"

"Eight dollars and 15 cents."

Again she plied him with questions. How much were meals on the train, did he know any cheap hotels there [for this he referred her to the information desk], did it have any defense industries?

"Well," she observed, "it's a cold place. I'll just take a ticket to Kansas City."

"We don't sell them here," he repeated.

At Another Station.

He looked this up. It was $9.19. "You catch the Kansas City train at the Dearborn station," he told her.

"Well," she said, turning away, "thank you."

Here he smiled for the first time. "Do you think," he called after her, "that there are better towns than this one to get jobs?"

"I don't want to stay here," she told him.

"Well," he said comfortingly, "Kansas City ought to be a busy place."

Mr. Wightman's courtesy is not restricted to his ticket booth. His mother-in-law, Mrs. W. R. Dunn, who lives with the family in Evanston, said he is "just as good as gold."

"He's a nice man," she said proudly. "But he doesn't have much to say. He always dries the dishes at home. He says that's his job. Otherwise he doesn't do much. He gets the milk in and pays the bills."

'NEW TURN' SEEN AS U. S. ENVOY AND JAP CONFER

TOKIO, Sept. 29 (AP).—A lengthy conference between United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and Foreign Minister Admiral Teijiro Toyoda on Saturday was disclosed today.

Teijiro Toyoda.

Authoritative quarters said matters of high importance undoubtedly were discussed but there was no official disclosure of their nature.

News of the Grew-Toyoda conference came on the heels of a British embassy announcement that Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie had postponed his planned departure for a three months' vacation in the United States as a result of suggestions from London.

New Turn "Imminent."

Belief was expressed in informed quarters that a new turn was imminent in the diplomatic situation among Japan, the United States, and Britain, which apparently has been at a standstill for weeks. It was indicated that the Japanese were looking to Washington, D. C., for the next development.

In some quarters it was considered significant that the American ambassador was closeted with Toyoda on the day that Japan was observing in subdued fashion the first anniversary of her alliance with Germany and Italy.

The Grew-Toyoda meeting was one of several recent conferences considered unusually important, leading some observers to believe the crisis in the far east might be approaching a climax.

Konoe Sees Vice Premier.

It was disclosed that Premier Prince Konoe recently conferred with his vice premier, Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, presumably at the latter's bedside, since the latter is recovering from wounds inflicted by an assassin on Aug. 14.

Later Konoe met Maj. Gen. Teiichi Sizuki, president of the cabinet's planning board.

The trial of five young men, charged with raping a young woman near Joliet, started yesterday before Judge James V. Bartley in Joliet. The completion of a jury is not expected before tomorrow afternoon. Not one venireman was agreed upon yesterday.

The defendants are James Bondercuk, 19 years old; Nicholas Skiniotes, 17; James Alessio, 17; Curtis Binzen, 16, and Clarence Spesak, 18. State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county is prosecuting.

The defendants are accused of attacking the young woman Sept. 2 after they had slugged her escort, Joseph Cernugel, 25, of Joliet.

ARRIVES IN CITY AFTER 500 MILE SOLO CANOE TRIP

Richard Koehler, 19 year old adventurer who emerged at Ely, Minn., a week ago to end a 500 mile solo canoe trip thru the Canadian wilderness, arrived in Chicago on a Northwest Airlines plane yesterday en route to his home in Woodstock.

Koehler, the son of a farmer, who said he had spent only a few hours in canoes before starting his trip July 8, told of navigating by compass across fog covered lakes and shooting rapids in his canoe. He had only a city course in map reading and navigation. Experienced canoeists hesitate to shoot rapids without two persons in the craft.

The young adventurer graduated to the canoe trip from an 1,100 mile bicycle jaunt around Lake Michigan three years ago.

PICK 5TH JUROR TO TRY WOMAN IN 1925 DEATH

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29 [Special].—Five jurors today were accepted in the trial of Mrs. Emma Tyree, 52 years old, a Sacramento, Cal., housewife charged with second degree murder in the mysterious death in 1925 of the Rev. Knute Birkeland, then 69.

The body of the Rev. Mr. Birkeland was found, several weeks after he had disappeared, in an unfurnished apartment which had been rented ostensibly for a massage parlor. The prosecution now charges, he was murdered while being held prisoner in an effort to compel him to dismiss a law suit in which he was a plaintiff. He had spent the day in court, left the courthouse with his attorney, and never was seen alive again by members of his family. The Rev. Mr. Birkeland was a former Arctic whaler, former president of the Augsburg Theological seminary board of trustees, and at one time was pastor of a prominent church.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR ILLINOIS AND CHICAGO

Save Our Republic

Material for High Office.

There are many single regiments [Union army] whose members, one and another, possess full practical knowledge of all the arts, sciences, professions, and whatever else, whether useful or elegant, is known in the world; and there is scarcely one [regiment] from which there could not be selected a President, a cabinet, a congress, and perhaps a court, abundantly competent to administer the government itself.

Abraham Lincoln.

Washington, July 4, 1861.

JOE ENTERTAINS IN THE KREMLIN.

Joe Stalin is host in the Kremlin to some distinguished Americans and Britishers who have come to aid his form of government to overthrow their own. He may be a master of the deadpan but a tigerish smile is somewhere behind it. Lord Beaverbrook and his crowd and Averell Harriman and his outfit are gentlemen a soviet firing squad would like to meet after Joe's secret police had extracted a few confessions from them.

Until Adolf Hitler decided to liquidate Joe, the host of the Kremlin was busy exterminating the culture and freedoms of such eastern European peoples as Adolf had turned over to him. These peoples, once highly praised by the governments of the United States and Great Britain and having had experience with Joe's methods, pay tribute to his brutality by preferring the Nazi terror to his.

That is an extraordinary commentary upon the Kremlin government, because the Nazi is a brute and abuses the subjugated populations. As between two terrible systems of oppression, the people who have experienced the Russian will take the Nazi as the lesser, altho it is almost unendurable.

That the British should try to forget what Joe Stalin and his Red terrorists are may be explainable. The British statesmen could reason with themselves, however dubiously, that the present danger, which is Hitler, must force them to compromise the future danger, which will be Stalin. It isn't strange that men in extremity should make an alliance which may prove to be a great danger in the future. With eyes on the immediate peril they may deceive themselves as to the distant one. What is remote will appear less alarming than what is imminent.

The American government has no such excuse. If American and British aid should by any chance enable the Red armies to overrun Europe, the British and the American governments will see a different expression on Joe's face when they endeavor to tell him what he shall do with the countries he has taken. Thus far they have been giving him merely lip service, and any one who thinks he will take any lip from them after a successful war is crazy.

If Mr. Churchill cannot put an expeditionary force on the western front while Joe is being pounded on the eastern, and if Mr. Churchill doesn't fire a shot on the continent of Europe while all the shooting is in the east, Stalin at a peace conference will have every reason to tell him and Mr. Roosevelt to get the hell out of there and to consider themselves fortunate that he doesn't send some more commissars to take their place.

The British minister of aircraft production, Col. John T. C. Moore-Brabazon, who said that the hope of Europe was that both the brutes would destroy each other, has been criticized for his candor. No one likes to think of the number of lives that would be lost in this mutual liquidation of two infamous men, but Col. Moore-Brabazon was talking common sense and Beaverbrook and Harriman are not.

SELF-SACRIFICE IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

Mrs. Roosevelt, opening her new radio series as saleswoman for coffee, assailed the noninterventionists as persons "who for personal and selfish reasons insist on being blind and advocate a course which would destroy us as a nation." She said: "We are asking our young men again to prepare for a sacrifice."

Four hundred thousand of these young men have been engaged in exhausting war maneuvers in the swamps and bayous of Louisiana, and twice that number are in training camps subjected to the discipline and the strict life of the army. Mrs. Roosevelt calling upon the youth of the nation to give up everything which peacetime conditions might offer them and to prepare for sacrifices which the war she advocates will bring them, has neglected the home circle.

Her four sons all have commissions, and at least three of them have been employed on pleasant and interesting assignments which many young men might regard as fortunate breaks of good luck. The Roosevelt young men are seeing the social side of the war and are entertained as representatives of the White House family. If they were making the sacrifices their mother demands of American youth, they would be in the army as privates, learning the business of war from tough noncoms, taking their share of the rain and mud, eating the army fare, and finding their recreation in the movie houses if any were near enough.

If noblesse oblige applied to the Roosevelt family, these young men would be in some tank outfit where they would occasionally get their heads bumped in the rough going to which other young men are subjected.

Sacrifice in the Roosevelt code does not begin at home.

THE O-9 WHITEWASH.

At the time that the old submarine O-9 sank last June off Portsmouth, N. H., carrying its crew of 33 to death, letters came to public attention, in which some of the crew members had written that the boat was still leaky after being reconditioned.

The moment the navy was satisfied that there was no hope of saving the crew, all efforts to raise the craft and determine the cause of the disaster were abandoned. Instead a court of investigation was convened which, after hearing evidence that by comparison with what could have been learned from examination of the salvaged craft, can only be characterized as perfunctory, brought in a whitewash verdict.

The court reported that the condition of the O-9 was "satisfactory." Altho two-thirds of the crew had had no submarine experience and the second officer had just finished his submarine training course, the crew was termed "sufficiently" trained. Resentment at the verdict within the service is reflected by an editorial in the Army and Navy Journal, calling the findings inadequate.

It was a shameful thing for the navy department to expose a crew containing so many men without experience in submarines to the peril of taking an old and possibly leaky craft to sea. It is more shameful to try to cover up the incident in order to save the official face of the men responsible.

RETURN OF A MACHINE AGE NATIVE.

It was 20 years ago this month that one of old Judge Gary's less expert wiredrawers turned in his gauge and embarked on a path that by the inexplicable mutations of time served to produce an editorial writer. The other day he took an afternoon off to return to the scene of his youthful toil.

As a veteran of the old 13 hour night shift—it put some 50 pounds on his frame in two years—he feels entitled to observe that these 1941 wiredrawers don't know what real work is. If they want to work up a good sweat they must do it in a Turkish bath or on a golf course. They won't do it lifting 200 pound bundles of wire, because that is all done now by electric hoists.

Not that wiredrawing was ever a job for a weak mind and a strong back. The visitor was never a particularly good wiredrawer. He used to work as if Satan was behind him with a red hot poker, but every time he stopped for breath there across the aisle was old Andy, a grizzled Czech of 60 summers, dipping into his lunch bucket, while all of his drawing blocks ran sweetly. Andy weighed about 135 pounds, but the bucket was one size smaller than a cabinet maker's tool case. Old time wiredrawers knew by long observation a lot of things about the behavior of steel under tension that the metallurgists, with their testing machines and microphotographs, weren't to discover until years later.

A hand wiredrawing frame was a simple piece of machinery. The block, a heavy drum on a vertical axle, drew a rod or wire off a reel and thru a die made by drilling a hole to accurate size in a piece of cast iron. The die squeezed and stretched the wire to about twice its original length. When a bundle ran thru, the wiredrawer stripped the wire, blistering hot from friction, off the block, lugged it to another reel, and repeated the operation, using a die of smaller diameter.

Today machines have replaced most hand frames. The wire passes thru one die and around a block, and so on continuously thru and around a further series of dies and blocks. Since the wire is lengthened by each draft, the blocks must run at increasing speeds. This is accomplished either by gears or by motors whose variable speed is regulated by the tension of the wire.

Before one bundle of wire or rods has run thru the machine a second is welded to its end. When enough wire has run up on the finishing block to make a bundle the operator stops the machine for about 10 seconds, lifts the bundle with an electric hoist, cuts and refastens the end of the wire, and starts the machine again. A machine operator can turn out from two to seven times as much wire, depending on the size drawn, as the old time wiredrawer could produce on his hand frame.

About 1921 a smart young foreman in this particular mill was assigned to take a gang of men and try to draw wire continuously. The foreman has since become general superintendent of one of the biggest plants in the country, but he didn't whip the continuous wiredrawing problem. He couldn't, because the things that made it possible had to be developed in other industries.

The old cast iron dies wore out after a bundle or two of wire had been drawn thru them. Continuous drawing wasn't possible until metallurgists and toolmakers had developed tungsten carbide dies, which can be used for days without change.

In the old mills a great steam engine, with an intricate system of shafts, gears, and belts, supplied power for hundreds of drawing frames. Cheaper electric power and improved motors had to come before there could be continuous drawing machines with their separate power units.

And finally, the continuous process depends on steel that will meet the stress of drawing without breaking. Continuous drawing of copper has been done for decades, but steel, a microscopic chemical and physical mixture of iron, carbon, and their compounds, is to copper as a temperamental prima donna is to a placid housewife. Steelmakers had to improve their product and metallurgists had to devise new, delicately controled heat treating processes within the wire mill itself.

Henry Ford, some years ago, advanced a theory that fits all these facts. No industrial process, he held, ever makes gigantic strides by itself. Industrial progress has to be on a broad front, pushed forward a little here and a little there, because every industry is dependent upon a dozen other industries.

Other things besides the machinery have changed in this mill. There is still as high a percentage of Slavic names on the pay roll as there was 20 years ago, but the Balkan mustaches have disappeared. This generation of wiredrawers is American, the product of American schools. The educators who are worrying over what is to become of American youth after it gets its education seem to have been wasting their time. You can't turn $50,000 worth of machinery over to a moron—not and get either the moron or the machinery back in one piece.

ON GOOD BEHAVIOR.

Altho this is Courtesy Week we fear that our own cheery greeting of "good morning" will continue to be answered with jeers because, altho it's morning to us, it's afternoon to the average citizen.

* * *

Mayor Kelly should have issued his courtesy proclamation from the south platform of the State-Dearborn station on the Van Buren street stretch of the elevated loop. There he will find the fortress of the old Chicago custom that the outgoing passenger has no priority rights. Its rugged adherents are largely of the gentler sex.

* * *

The week contains, by ironical accident, the intracity series between the Cubs and the White Sox. If the partisans of the winning club try to console the followers of the loser with friendly wishes of "better luck next time," we will regard Mayor Kelly as a miracle worker.

* * *

Imparting information to the stranger within the gates is the commonest opportunity that any Boy Scout of Courtesy Week can find. We would suggest that such information be given in a way that the stranger will understand. We have often heard questions answered with kindly intent but in a clipped form of Chicago slang that left the question-asker in a daze.

* * *

Automobile travel has added a pleasant custom to the "courtesy of the road." It consists in honking a friendly salute to passing cars that carry the license of your home state; and often enough, when your native heath is 2,000 miles away, it communicates a momentary glow of companionship.

The Duke Reports on His Vacation.

Hon. Linemaster: Home again. Dear old Chicago. I tell ya folks that when I glimpsed tha 1st lights of our town a lump came up in my throat so big it popped my front collar-button right thru tha windshield. I claim vacations were made fer lazy people, as fer me I'll be tickled pink when I can get a desk under my feet again.

Used to be that ya drove out to see tha wide open spaces—now ya get wide open taverns. Seems tha U. S. seed division is making plenty of errors—instead of corn tha darn seeds sprouted "Clean rest rooms." One evening between 5 an 6 an two billboards we nearly saw a cow.

Once we stopped in front of a swell farmhouse to get 10 gals. of gas an I got talkin to tha farmer about tha lack of live stock in tha vacinity an he leads me out to his pasture an shows me between 2 an 3 sorrel horses an I tell him if he ever gets to Chicago I could show him a pasture starting at North Ave. where we got a cupple thousand yellow horses and he says I better not mention it to their sheriff cause his brother Lafe is still in the nut house fer seein a herd of green an lavender zebras.

That night we stopped at one of them newfangled tourist camps. I got to talkin to the matre d-hotel about his racket an he says it nets him about 600 bucks a season but that he makes about a grand cause he's got alfalfa planted on his north forty. He wants me to see the stuff, but to me I dont know if its poultry or berries, so I told him my feet were sore after driving 250 miles that day. I was sore [but not in tha feet].

To tell ya tha truth I always thought Alfalfa was tha front name of an Oklahoma governor. You nature jerks can have tha sticks—I'll take our Jigsaw Park [nee Lincoln], tha sweet-scented stockyards, South State street, tha Cubs in 6th place, and tha mama's cooking, but I do believe a new name wood be in order fer the greatest town in tha country. He sits alone, that massive head
Still bowed by cares he gladly bore;
That gaunt frame bent in long years fled

The sunbeams golden vigil keep,
And in his lap, so tired of play,
A Negro child is curled, asleep.

TRAILING A COUGH TO ITS LAIR.

A COUGH has a hundred different meanings. Physicians have learned that observing its nature, tone, and frequency will disclose much information.

Some are dry, with no sputum, while others are hacking. The short, effortless "ugh" may recur at intervals all day long. The brassy variety often points to pressure upon certain nerves, with involvement of the voice box [the larynx]. The hoarse species generally implies an abnormality of the vocal cords.

Now and then the difficulty is merely the result of habit. It may be used to announce one's presence, or to begin and end every conversation. It is a common trick of public speakers. As Churchill wrote:

"The adepts in the speaking trade
Keep a cough by them ready made."

In such instances, the most careful examination will disclose no basic cause. Those that come and go are sometimes termed the "audience" or "church" bark. As soon as the individual is settled in his seat he utters two or three mild "woofs" as tho he were remarking, "Well, here I am. Look at me."

But when the manifestation is real, we think of it as coming from the respiratory tract. Many of our older friends, however, will be guilty of a heart cough which is significant of mild cardiac failure. But even this may be of little importance, unless it means that some of the blood has been dammed back in the air cells and hence cannot reach the pumping organ. When a prolonged paroxysm occurs, we may consider a sluggish circulation within the breathing apparatus, which is present because the heart is not functioning at par.

In chronic bronchitis, the episodes usually come in the morning. They may burst upon the household while the patient is dressing. The explosions may be repeated so rapidly that the countenance becomes deeply congested—even purplish. If such a bout follows breakfast, all that is eaten may be vomited. However, it may come at any time of the day, subsequent to exercise or loud conversation. It is a routine experience, when one of these victims attempts to relate an amusing story. He laughs at his yarn and ends up with a breathtaking seizure.

The kind we do not like is that which hangs on for weeks or months after a respiratory malady. As a rule, the disorder is worse when the patient is lying down and he may be kept awake most of the night by the annoyance. A thoro investigation reveals no trouble within the lungs. On the other hand, great masses of mucus will be discarded from the branches of the bronchial tree. The remedy is to locate the site of the infection. The nasal airways should be included in the treatment program. The whole matter may be a reflex from swollen parts within the nose.

Whenever we compress the thorax—tighten up the diaphragm so as to be able to expel air forcefully—we may dilate some of the air cells. If this continues indefinitely, emphysema or bronchiectasis [overstretched tubes] may ensue. Once we have changed the fundamental character of these tissues, we have handicapped the patient for life.

Finally, we must not forget throat irritation, which may have an allergic origin. The sensitivity type accompanies the common cold when it appears periodicaly thruout the years. Less noticeable during the warmer months, the symptom may start in the autumn with the first sign of nasal discomfort and continue with but brief remissions until June of the next year. Hunting for the offender and eliminating it is our only hope for permanent relief. This is highly desirable as no single bout is free from the possibility of a complication, such as middle ear disease.

THE MORGENTHAU PLAN.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—I considered Henry Morgenthau an intelligent American until he proposed to limit corporation profits to 6 per cent on the invested capital. If such a communistic plan went thru it would cause a spiral of deflation that would make 1932 look like good times. At present the average firm pays about as much to the government in taxes as it can keep to pay stockholders and create a surplus for bad years, which are surely ahead.

If Morgenthau's request should go thru, a large number of securities in concerns that have been well managed and have shown a good record of earnings over a long period of time, and have no war business, but whose statements do not show a large invested capital, would be penalized to such an extent that no matter how much money they earned, their dividend would have to be cut to about one-half of the amounts paid before the war. In that case, a concern's management would have no incentive to make money so they could pay the CIO and AFL any wage they ask for, but think what would be the plight of millions of thrifty Americans with their savings invested in industry. Our President said he would not stand for the making of war millionaires, but he did not say he would rob the little investor. The present excess profit and regular federal income tax are bad enough, but to confiscate our capital is too much.

Morgenthau complained about the price of pork chops, but I thought he knew the reason: When hogs were selling at $6 our administration said the farmer was not making enough and agreed, with the taxpayers' money, to buy pork products to make a $9 average price for hogs. They said that, to prevent a runaway market, they would sell some of our surplus corn at 63 cents a bushel, but they overlooked the sale of corn, so we have $12 hogs.

FOR TRAFFIC LAW CULPRITS.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Take the air out of all four tires to punish traffic law violators? That's a fine thing, but maybe we can inaugurate a system that will serve a twofold purpose.

Let's have our policemen compel the culprits to memorize and recite every intersection, say, from downtown Milwaukee avenue up to the terminus of the line at Devon avenue. This really ought to consume as much of the motorist's time as reinflating his tires would, and besides, if the victim happened to be a conductor on the Maywood-Westchester elevated line, this opportunity would afford him an elaborate rehearsal period for calling out his stations the next day.

TWYLA.

WANTS CONGRESSIONAL MAP.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A map showing who is congressman from each district and the limits of each district would inform citizens opposed to America going into the European war as to who represents him in congress.

This may enable and encourage citizens to write to their congressmen now that congress may be urged by the warmakers to declare war. T. O'S.

WHAT WOULD UNCLE SAM DO?

Wauwatosa, Wis., Sept. 28.—I wonder what the reaction in this country would be if we were at war with two or more powerful nations and another country, with which we were officially at peace, committed these acts against us:

1. Turned itself into an arsenal to supply our enemies with the sinews of war, regardless of who these enemies might be so long as they were our enemies.

2. Employed its naval and air forces to patrol the seas so as to insure the safe delivery of these war materials, and to spot our fighting ships and report their position to our enemies.

3. Occupied territory in this hemisphere to assist our enemies to garrison these places, and ordered its navy to fire upon our ships at sight.

5. Repeatedly assured us of its devotion to the task of bringing about the complete collapse of our nation.

To complete the foregoing supposition, we had made no direct threat or committed no overt act of aggression ourselves against this other nation whose avowed purpose, nevertheless, was to destroy our own. In the face of such eventualities, I wonder if our agitators for war and more steps toward war could conduct themselves more hysterically than they are doing at present.

SPEAKS FOR THE SLAVS.

New York, Sept. 27.—The Americans of Slav origin, in whose name we speak, shed their blood freely and unflinchingly in the last World war; 32 per cent of the American doughboys were of Slavonic race.

Now, as then, in this second colossal struggle for the freedom of humanity, our Slavonic brothers and sons are eager to give their lives to defend this great land of liberty and opportunity so that they and their descendants may continue to enjoy the benefits bestowed upon them by the United States of America.

America's entry into the war now, as a national defensive measure, will insure for all time the freedom of this world from the evil menace of barbarism.

ANDREW KALPASCHNIKOFF,

TIRED OF CAPITAL WHOOPEE.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—There has got to be some changes made. Where is that new third party? We want a congress that will keep us out of all foreign wars, particularly the present. We are tired of the present setup of spending, leasing, and whoopee, when we are faced with terrific taxation and skyrocketing food prices. This is no time for this country to be entertaining royalty, dukes, etc. They travel the country in luxurious style when their own countrymen are in the midst of a grueling war.

Westchester, Ill., Sept. 24. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1923 my husband and I bought a lot in Du Page county. We made our last payment in 1933. We bought this lot from a real estate company and they went out of business while we were paying for the lot but we finished making all the payments to the receiver. We had an attorney to make the final payment for us and everything was handled all right.

1. We have lost the warranty deed. I am afraid it was burned up with some other old papers and now I am worried sick.

2. We still have the "guarantee title policy" from the Chicago Title and Trust company and [3] we know the lot has been recorded in our name, but if we want to sell the lot [4] what should we do about the lost deed?

5. Our attorney says it is all right as the guarantee policy is enough but I cannot feel sure. M. A.

1. If the deed was regularly recorded, its present possession is immaterial.

2. If the guaranty policy shows the title in your name, this is enough.

3. This is enough.

4. Nothing. It will not be asked for.

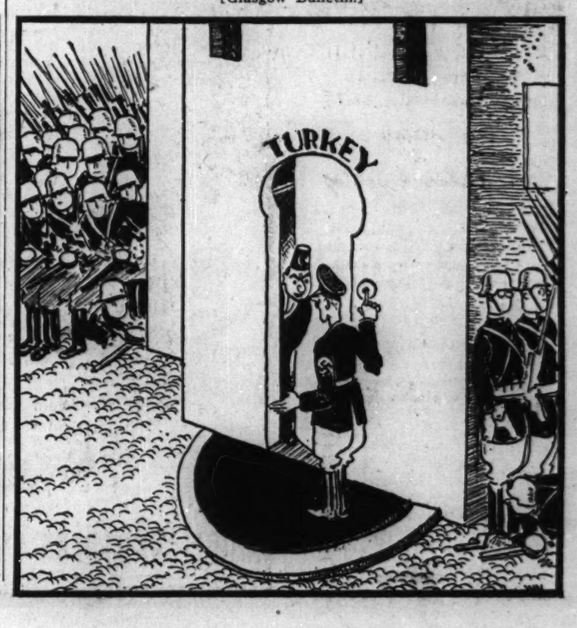
"I HAVE A SMALL REQUEST TO MAKE!"

[Glasgow Bulletin.]



A BUSINESS MAN IS LABOR CHIEF; STORM BURSTS

Green Names F. B. Murphy and Arouses Unions.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Dwight H. Green yesterday brought a storm down on his head by appointing Francis B. Murphy, Chicago coal man, to succeed Martin P. Durkin as director of the state department of labor.

F. B. Murphy [top] and Martin P. Durkin.

The governor's friends said that was just what he had been attempting to avoid in filling this particular spot in his cabinet. They said he knew if he appointed a man identified with either the American Federation of Labor or the Congress of Industrial Organizations the disappointed labor faction would vent its wrath on him. Therefore, he appointed a business man.

The storm, nevertheless, burst immediately. Officials of the Illinois State Federation of Labor [AFL] at once said they were astounded that the governor would appoint as his director of labor a man who does not carry a union card.

Reuben G. Soderstrom, president, and Victor A. Olander, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois federation, who voiced the spontaneous protest limited their complaint to Murphy's lack of membership in any union. There also was some criticism that the appointee has been friendly for years with officials of the United Mine Workers [CIO] and that his political backing came from Hill Blackett, former Republican national committeeman.

Urge Durkin's Retention.

In the name of their organization, Soderstrom and Olander called on Gov. Green, even before his inauguration, to retain Durkin in the post he held for eight years under Gov. Henry Horner.

"I'm astounded that the governor would appoint a man who doesn't carry a union card," said Olander. "Never in the 27 years that I have been identified with Illinois labor has any governor done such a thing.

"We'll call a meeting of our executive board by telegram to take action. We are in rebellion!"

Gov. Green was told by telephone of this conversation.

"I haven't heard from Mr. Olander or Mr. Soderstrom," he said, implying that the protest would not be discussed unless it is presented to him officially.

Murphy Expresses Surprise.

Murphy said he was surprised at the AFL hostility.

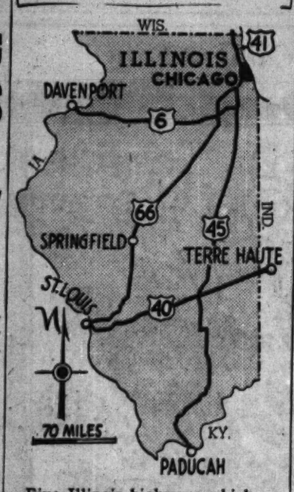
"I hope they haven't forgotten," he said, "that it was at the behest of both AFL and CIO forces that I conducted the Republican labor headquarters at Springfield last year."

Ray Edmundson, CIO head for Illinois, commended the appointment.

Murphy is 41 years old, is now president of the Deep Waterway Coal and Dock company of Chicago, and resides in Wilmette. He was born in Springfield, was graduated from the law school of the University of Notre Dame, but engaged in the coal business in which his father had been active in Springfield.

His interest in politics began in his youth when he was a page in the Illinois state senate. For nearly eight years he was secretary of the state department of mines and minerals under Gov. Len Small. He married Miss Helen V. Hess, at one time secretary to State Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet.

Roads Get High Rating



Five Illinois highways which are qualified for first ratings by the office of production management, which will dictate what roads will be improved for the next few years.

For the next few years the federal government will dictate what roads are to be built or improved in Illinois, Taylor G. Soper, Chicago, executive secretary of the Illinois Road Builders' association, said yesterday in a talk before the Joliet Kiwanis club.

Priority ratings have been established for highway materials by the Office of Production Management, Soper said. The OPM has indicated that the highest preference rating will be given to projects considered most vital to the rearmament program.

Five Illinois highways are qualified for first ratings, Soper said. They are United States highways 41, from Chicago to the Wisconsin line; 66 from Chicago to St. Louis, Mo.; 45 from Chicago to Paducah, Ky.; 6 from Chicago to Davenport, Ia., and 40 between St. Louis and Terre Haute, Ind.

"These priority ratings—whether federal, state, or local construction is involved—will probably determine the type and extent of road work done," Soper explained.

CONNALLY URGES QUICK REPEAL OF NEUTRALITY LAW

Favors Delivery of Aid to Combat Area.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29 (AP).—Declaring that the United States now should "reassert and reordain our adherence to the doctrine of freedom of the seas," Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] asserted tonight that if American aid to Great Britain was to be effective this nation should deliver arms and munitions to points "where they can be effectively employed."

Connally, chairman of the powerful senate foreign relations committee, told a radio audience over NBC that Adolf Hitler "sinks our ships wherever they may be. He sends his lurking submarines into our defensive waters. He defies us. He murders our citizens. He assassinates our ships."

Can Still Be Neutral.

The Texan added that "the repeal of the so-called neutrality act would not be unneutral." He added:

"After its repeal, the United States would be a neutral under international law. That [neutrality] act prohibits the arming of our merchant ships. I favor the repeal of that provision. It is my view that merchant ships that are now being ruthlessly attacked upon the high seas, while on lawful business, ought to be allowed to arm for their necessary self-defense—for the defense of human lives upon their decks—for the defense of their property and their rights.

"Aid to be effective requires the delivery of arms, munitions and implements of war where they can be successfully employed. It takes ships, it requires cargoes, to deliver weapons to the embattled democracies.

Would Enter Combat Zones.

"I favor the removal of the ban against their entering combat zones or going on lawful missions to the ports of nations at war. These are our undeniable rights under the law of nations. We have, in years that are gone, in glorious fashion, shed our blood for their maintenance and for the protection of the rights of our citizens. Shall we surrender them?"

During the day, Secretary of State Hull expressed himself in favor of modification of the neutrality act, rather than its outright repeal, but did not indicate just what changes he thought should be made.

Meantime, a question much discussed informally at the capitol was whether the United States should send its entire munitions production for the next three or more months to Britain and Russia.

Don't Force Child to Make Many Friends, Parents Told

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It isn't necessary to worry because your boy or girl doesn't want to accept all other boys or girls as bosom friends. Yet many mothers do worry over just this kind of adjustment and ask for advice about how they may make their young offspring socially-minded.

This trait in a child doesn't necessarily mean that she is in any way peculiar, but simply that she prefers to meet all comers on a friendly, not an intimate, basis, which may stand her in good stead many times thru life. Also, it may be merely a passing phase.

This brings to mind a visit I paid to a young friend of mine. We were sitting on her porch one summer evening and she was deploring the fact that her young Billy was diffident about making a real pal of at least two or three boys living near them. She was sure he'd often be lonely if something wasn't done about the matter.

My friend's grandfather was sitting apart from us, apparently reading his newspaper, but he evidently wasn't missing our conversation, because he suddenly exploded: "Now, now, Milly, don't you worry about Billy. His head is screwed on straight and he's not going to run with the pack, but take his time and pick and choose his buddies. I'm thinking you are worried about your own prestige if you have a son who won't cotton to this or that one hereabouts!

"You'd be amazed if you had some one suggest that you accept all of your adult neighbors as boon companions, but you certainly don't consider that you aren't socially adjusted, or that you are diffident, odd, or in need of having something 'done about it.'

"Take my advice and leave the boy alone. If you talk so much about it he'll get the wind up and the first thing you know he'll get self-conscious about the matter and everything will be spoiled. He's normal, so let him find his own way."

With these words of wisdom he returned to his paper, and we both had to admit that what he had said was perfectly true.

Children aren't interested in being "socially adjusted," but they seem to know intuitively when to accept another child as a very special friend or pal and when to consider him or her just an acquaintance, all of which should be quite satisfactory and not a cause for disquietude.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the most brilliant opening leads that I have ever seen was made in a rubber game by a well known expert who insists on anonymity. I can't say that I blame him for this insistence. As he put it: "Everybody would kid the life out of me for a lucky stab, or claim that I had taken a good peek." Even as commentator, I share his fear. I know that thousands of players will scoff at the so-called logic that dictated his choice of opening leads, and attribute the splendid result to sheer luck. Well, maybe they'll be right, but whether it was luck or supreme skill, here is the account of what happened.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

The expert, in the West position, went into a long huddle over the opening lead and finally came out with the sensational, and highly orthodox, selection of a low heart! Obviously, declarer could have taken every trick by putting up dummy's queen, but he would have been something more than human to have made that play. What he did was what you and I would do, namely, toss on a low heart from dummy. East put up the jack with the most hopeless air imaginable and, to his astonishment, found himself in possession of the trick! Of course it did not take him long to decide what return was indicated. If West had gone to the tremendous risk of underplaying the ace and king of hearts, he must have been desperate to get East on lead, and this desperation suggested just one thing, that he was void of diamonds. East's own five diamonds, the three in dummy, and South's previous four diamond bid made this situation obvious. East obediently returned a diamond and West swooped down with a ruff for the setting trick.

North and South bitterly maintained that West had made the "luckiest stab of the year," but after they had calmed down and listened to West's explanation, they weren't so sure.

West said: "North's two and three no trump bids convinced me that the heart queen was in his hand. I was equally convinced, from South's bidding, that South did not have two losing hearts. In fact, it seemed very likely that he had a 6-5-1-1 distribution. I was pretty sure that we had no trump trick and it also was unlikely that East had a natural diamond trick, since he would be under South's honors. All in all, the one substantial chance of defeating the contract appeared to be a diamond ruff by me, and it would have to come quickly. North was marked with the club ace. How could I put East on lead, if not in the heart suit? The only chance I could see was to find East with the heart jack. I played for it and was lucky, so that's that!"

The luck of it cannot be denied, but the fact remains that West had discovered the only lead that offered the faintest chance to defeat the contract.

President Robert M. Hutchins in his convocation address said that the universities, instead of leading humanity thru the chaos of the modern world, mirror its confusion, and that, to regain their leadership, they must recapture, revitalize, and reformulate the truths to guide humanity.

Three university presidents—Dr. James B. Conant of Harvard, Miss.; Mildred McAfee of Wellesley, and Robert G. Sproul of California—spoke later at an assembly of the 500 delegates to the celebration.

Wool as Soft as Feathers in New Robes

BY REA SEEGER.

For nippy mornings try the new woolly robes. Wool as fine, smooth, and soft as feathers, and light as a whisper on the shoulders make the smart new finds. Gay and giddy checks, plaids, and delicate pastels are featured. Pink and blue checks, raspberry and slate gray, shell pink wool crossed with cerise, Quaker gray with large checks of dubonnet red, and the solid colors in baby blue, pink, and even white are popular, with the nun-like pearl gray robes with just a hint of contrast, the newest arrival to take the fashion spotlight.

The brilliant colored plaids are legion, some have front panels of contrast color, others feature circular skirts, many have long sleeves, many with the new below the elbow length sleeves, all the house coat robes have the zipper up the front. Wide loose sleeves that reach the wrist are new and comfortable besides being gracefully designed to complement the draping of the coat skirt.

Shetland wool, gossamer thin, comes in the most flattering of shell pink shades. Nothing ever made into a cozy robe for chilly weather equals the fragile look and weight of this stuff, yet it is the most warming of all wools. Handwork, embroidery, and even lace frills are used to make these confectionery robes and coats the last word in feminine allure.

More tailored models are tied 'round the waistline with thick satin ribbon the same shade as the wool, or you can find the blue satin tied 'round the pink. Snowy white wool robes are breathlessly luxurious to look at . . . but they clean easily and do not soil as quickly as one would worry about . . . they will make super finds for the fall and winter wedding trousseaux.

Game.

The people with little on their minds are playing a new game in which two persons conversing in a public place—a restaurant or a movie foyer or a bus, lay emphasis on an isolated sentence guaranteed to arouse the interest of any eavesdropper. The game is to see if they can get an unsolicited response from a listener. Tag sentences include lines like: "And there she was, nude, playing the piano"; "You can get it in the basement for $3.98. You simply strap it on your back, start the propeller and it's good for a hundred miles on a gallon of gas"; "I read it in the paper this morning. The entire liquor industry is to be converted to making anti-freeze for tanks and airplanes"; "It's a perfume that simply makes men wild. Ever since she started using it, men cluster about her at a party like flies. . . ."

Opera Puppets.

A unique opera company, made up of 408 puppets who act, sing, make love, fight and die just as their live contemporaries do, went on the boards the other day with their first rehearsal of Rigoletto. Ernest Wolff, their 27 year old impresario, was pleased with the results of his Victor Puppet Opera Troupe rehearsal. He didn't have to worry about the sounds that issued from the wooden throated divas and male singers, for they were those of Lily Pons, Martinelli and other well known singers, on records. The puppet troupe will present seven operas including Rigoletto, La Traviata, Carmen, Faust, and Il Trovatore at Kimball hall between Oct. 6 and 11.

During rehearsal the other day, while the puppets were limbering their legs and flexing their muscles, controlled by hidden wires, instead of strings, there was activity backstage also. Wigs were being shampooed, and costumes cleaned and pressed for the Lilliputian opera stars.

EIGHTH WONDER.

After three exciting days
And nights in which
I have devoted my keenest energies
Toward the entertainment
Of my friend from China
I am weary . . .

Sitting in my room now
Over our cups of rice-wine
And viewing the rosy sky
Of Sun-Down on the Campus,
I ask my friend Wang
What of all he has seen
Has most impressed him.

Sighing he replies:
You have shown me wonders,
But none
So exquisitely gratifying
As the incomparable,
The Delight of all Eyes,
The dancing girl
Gypsy Rose Lee.

Major Excitement.

When a friend telephoned the home of Quiz Kid Gerard Darrow to talk with his Aunt Bessie the other day she found they were not excited over Gerard's picture appearing on the cover of a national magazine, nor about the story between its covers. They weren't excited about that because of an incident that had happened at home. A wood turtle, one of Gerard's new pets, had crawled out of his bowl two days before and was still at large in the apartment.

"I've spent all day looking under furniture with a flashlight," Aunt Bessie puffed, "and we can't find him anywhere. And Gerard is worried to death for fear we may hurt him with the vacuum cleaner. No, I haven't seen the story. Our friends have called to tell me about it but before I go to the drugstore to buy a copy I want to find that turtle."

Arts Club All Slicked Up for Its Opening Tea

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN the Arts club opens its doors for the season tomorrow the members will see no changes on the first floor but when they ascend to the cocktail rooms they will find them quite different from what they have been during the last four years.

Both rooms have been redecorated so they seem much lighter, much gayer, altho in reality one window has been blocked off. The smaller of the rooms now has yellow walls to offset its dusty pink corduroy banquettes. Yellow and white stripes line the windows, and the seats of the little black chairs are covered in yellow.

The other room has been redone partially in green and white with the same red satin banquettes that were there before adding gay spashes of color. The walls and ceiling are white with a green border where they are joined. The rococo dining rooms, the two tiny private dining rooms and the lounge have not been redecorated; just cleaned.

Mrs. Shaw and Board Will Welcome Guests.

Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, president, and her board will be on hand to welcome members and their guests. Usually, at Arts club teas, members are asked to pour but when an especially large crowd is expected, it is deemed better to have waiters serve, so Mrs. Edward Byron Smith, reception chairman, has not appointed any assistants. Mrs. Walter Paepcke is planning the decorations for the table.

The first art exhibition of the season will not be hung until the end of October or the first of November. It will be the first show assembled by the new exhibition chairman, William N. Eisendrath Jr.

The first of the many private parties that have been arranged for the club this winter will be the debut tea of Miss Mary Winston Dowling, who will be introduced by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Talbot Winston, on Friday, Oct. 10.

Fashion Preview Inspires Numerous Dinner Parties.

"I haven't been invited to a dinner party for weeks and I've had six invitations for Tuesday night," said a popular young Chicago matron one day last week. This statement might have been made by dozens of others, for numerous women planned dinner parties as soon as invitations were out to a preview of a new dress shop within a State street department store. Handsomely engraved invitations and rumors that Alec Templeton would provide the music and that the refreshments would include champagne indicate that it will be a most distinguished affair.

The Hughston M. McBains and the Earl Kribbens will be among the hosts at a large dinner party at the Saddle and Cycle club. Among others who have invited guests for dinner and who later will attend the preview at 28 East Washington street are the Stanley Fields and the John L. Cochrans, who are entertaining at the Casino; the Howard Linns, the junior Byron Harveys, the Paget Cadys, the Albert B. Dicks, the young John V. Farwells, the John C. Murphys, the T. Clifford Rodmans, the James Simpsons, the Albert A. Spragues, the senior John P. Wilsons, and the Edward Byron Smiths.

Miss Loraine Logan Finds Prenuptial Days Crowded.

Miss Loraine Logan, who is to become the bride of William R. Felton on Oct. 25, is exceptionally busy these days for in addition to making preparations for her wedding she is moving her father's household from 209 Lake Shore drive to the Lake Shore drive home of her grandmother, Mrs. Frank G. Logan. The wedding is to take place in Mrs. Logan's house, and afterwards Stuart Logan will continue to make his home with his mother.

The wedding will be in the afternoon, with a reception following. Miss Logan will have one of her sisters, Mrs. Morgan S. A. Reichner, of St. James, N. Y., as her matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Nash of Grand Rapids, Wis., a former classmate at Smith college, Miss Elizabeth Foley of St. Paul and Miss Catharine Gilman.

The board of governors of the Chicago Opera has issued invitations to a reception from 4 until 7 o'clock on Friday afternoon at the Casino club for Fortune Gallo and Giovanni Martinelli. Mr. Gallo is the general director of the Chicago Opera company and Mr. Martinelli is the artistic director.

Mrs. Clair More, who used to live in Chicago but who now calls Santa Monica, Cal., home, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Gerlach of Lake View avenue. Mrs. Gerlach has planned a cocktail party for Mrs. More for today.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Lyman Drake III., Miss Isabelle Johnson, Mrs. Nathaniel Duval, Mrs. Gardiner Van Ness Jr., and Terry Huston (left to right) comprised the wedding party that was the finale of the fashion show given last Saturday afternoon by the Winnetka board of the Northwestern University settlement. Three prettier young women than the make-believe bride, formerly Libby Crawford; and her maids, who are sisters, Mrs. Van Ness having been Miss Ruth Johnson before her marriage last summer, would be difficult to find. All of the audience agreed that little Miss Huston was an adorable flower girl and that Master Darke was perfect as the ring bearer. Mrs. Duval's appliqued brocade gown was of a delectable shade of blush pink. Her two attendants wore French blue faille, with scalloped necklines and hems of blue velvet. They carried garlands of American Beauty roses, "grownup" versions of the spray held by little Miss Huston.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The dramatization of Somerset Maugham's "Theatre" in general and Cornelia Otis Skinner in particular ride to success and a rousing series of curtain calls on the strength of a shrewd, theatrical, and exciting last act. While Julia Lambert, the reigning British actress, remains in her living room, in the first two acts, she scarcely becomes more than a pasteboard figure surrounded by actors behaving garrulously and lightly, but not very interestingly.

But when Julia, at the outset of the last act, dashes into her dressing room during a performance at the Siddons theater, the playwriting abruptly becomes more honest and searching. Miss Skinner, who aristocratic candor has not permitted her to pass off the airy glibness of the earlier scenes as either literature or drama, finds herself transformed by a situation that is human and real, and her vivid and vital performance, as she turns a conspiracy of mishaps into a happy reconstruction of Julia's life, becomes an achievement to admire deeply and to remember long.

If Miss Skinner sets the pulse beating strongly in this swift and compelling dénouement, she also arouses compassion by the plight into which the authors have plunged her during the first hour and a half of the evening. Characters and motivations familiar in the original novel have been changed greatly, and almost wholly in the directions of greater triviality and less conviction.

Tom Fennell, the young accountant whose irresistible attraction for Julia provided the core of the novel, has now become conventional and dull, and almost incidental. Michael Gosselyn, Julia's actor-husband, and Dolly de Vries, her financial angel, are precipitated into a poorly delineated romance which turns the second act into a bromidic triangle.

There is a good deal of sparring for time in the dialog of the first part of the play. While trenchant observations and witty shafts are launched from time to time, many lines are so much prattle and pishtush. Miss Skinner is forced to spend no inconsiderable time assessing her sex appeal, or what she fears is the lack of it.

And yet, tho I may have raised some doubt about it, I really want to recommend "Theatre" with these frank reservations, to Chicago playgoers. The third act is simply too good to miss. And Miss Skinner, even in the more vacuous moments, is one of the loveliest and most patrician actresses of our stage. Always beautifully dressed, she is a joy to watch, even when her material does not give her enough support to enable her to act well.

Arthur Margetson is an admirable choice for the fickle, vain Gosselyn, playing with volatility, assurance, and great resource. Except for excellent Cockney portraits by Viola Roache and Stanley Harrison, the acting of the rest of the cast is marked more by undeniable capability than by any particular sparkle or imagination. "Theatre" gives incomplete pleasure, but I believe that you will find it sufficiently rewarding.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

Tuesday, Sept. 30.

Call for discrimination. Today's buzzes require selecting the social from the nonsocial, better for business than for trying to patch up domestic difficulties, if any. Relax the negative emotions before you have need to control them.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead is very emotional and optimistic, with more chance for expansion, if this is your birthday; but go to no extremes, be practical. Push for results January, February. Danger: Oct. 14-Nov. 22; April 28-May 7; Sept. 13-29.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

There are tastes in cleansing creams just as there are tastes in hats and handkerchiefs. Today's news is for the woman who likes her cleansing cream to be as oily and rich as it possibly can be.

She'll have an extremely dry skin, and she'll like the comforting thought that as she cleanses it she's doing her bit to restore at least some oil that it needs so badly. And she won't mind giving more than a few minutes to the job of cleansing. If she likes quick as a wink cleansers, one of our pet creams isn't her dish.

The gooey, rich cream we like so well is positively drippy beneath the fingers. It feels and smells oily—and that's all right with us when the skin is devilishly parched! It spreads beautifully, and cleanses perfectly, but we wouldn't classify it as a quickie. We think it should be spread on generously, worked in rather well, and allowed to remain on the skin for a few minutes. Then remove with tissues or a soft cloth. The skin will have had as good a beauty treatment as you can give it in that space of time. It will feel clean and soft, and you'll know it's been lubricated. Because it is so oily it's essential to remove it thoroly, leisurely.

This is, to our way of thinking, a good autumn or winter cream choice for the dry skinned sister. The very touch of it to the skin seems to ease that taut feeling, and if you use it regularly you should be unusually free of winter skin discomfort.

SYNOPSIS.

Gay Ripley, young American girl sent by her boss to Paris to buy antiques, runs into her Cousin Lou, who is Mrs. Hiram Rentrew, a rich widow. She insists Gay stay with her, but soon after Gay moves in Cousin Lou is taken to a hospital, ill, and Gay is left in the apartment with her cousin's brother-in-law, Horace, an antique dealer, and the servants, Hortense and Manx. Gay visits the hospital and meets Miles Dorsey, a junior partner in the firm that looks after her cousin's affairs; Raoul de Chabenil, a handsome gigolo, and Estrella, Mrs. Rentrew's dressmaker. Cousin Lou insists Gay take her jewel box, with a valuable antique necklace in it, home and put it in the wall safe. That night Gay dines with Catherine and Geoff Macadam, old friends of hers, and with Miles Dorsey. They see Raoul and Estrella at a nearby table. Gay learns that Raoul has an unscrupulous reputation. When she gets home that night she learns that her cousin had died and, the the doctor says it was of a stroke, Horace insists on an inquest. Gay hears some one in her room after she retires and the next morning the jewel box with the necklace has disappeared. The police are called in and act suspicious of Gay. A second time Gay hears some one in her room and is overpowered by ether. When she awakes the jewels are returned. The inquest brings out that Cousin Lou was given an overdose of a powerful drug that caused a stroke.

INSTALMENT XX.

BAD PUBLICITY.

The officer in charge was polite, managing at the same time to keep a sharp eye on the toilet accessories and scented bits of nonsense I folded and put into my dead cousin's suitcase. I was acting wholly without instruction, but I felt sure Horace wouldn't mind.

I saw the door crack open. Sure enough, when I was leaving the room I found the nurse I wanted to see hanging about. Her makeup was toned down considerably. She looked younger and remarkably improved.

"O, it's you," I greeted her. "Were you waiting to speak to me?"

"Me? Goodness no!" She cast a nervous glance round.

I led her along to the elevator, asking softly if she thought the policeman understood English.

"Him? Not a word." She moved closer and whispered, "It's her. Yes, matron. If she hears me opening my mouth—!"

"I understand. When will you be off duty?"

From 12 o'clock, she told me, her lips hardly stirring.

This was her free half day. I put a question. She nodded, and when I'd named a place and time she did a quick fadeaway.

There wasn't a soul about, so I stepped into the diet kitchen and had a deliberate look round, noting the new white window curtain to replace the one that got burned. The window wasn't very near the large scrubbed table where spot cleaning would have been done. Outside the window was just what I was hoping to find—an iron fire escape. If the sash were raised any one on it could climb easily inside.

Coming out I looked again at the staircase round the elevator shaft. When I'd located another, much narrower stair, tucked behind scenes I felt I had finished.

I was on my way, much too early, to the little lunch place where the nurse was to meet me, when my taxi got held up in a traffic block just by the Rond Point café. It's a lovely place, a wide raft of small green tables set under a gay awning, and as usual at this prelunch hour most of the tables are filled.

"Hi!"

It was one of the pavement loungers shouting to me, Pete Peters. And he was sauntering across to lean in at my window.

"Well, proud and lovely," he said, "what nice loot have you got in that grip? Show uncle, he'll buy you a drink."

"No, Pete. I've got to get along."

My taxi hadn't budged. Pete hung on to the sill, and suddenly his grin faded.

"Say, sister, what's been happening to you? Okay, call it lobster; but what you do need is that drink. Here, let me pay off this guy."

I might as well sit here as in a restaurant. Pretty washed out, I found myself at Pete's table, remembering with relief that there'd been no mention of me in any of the papers and that Pete hadn't the dimmest notion Mrs. Hiram Rentrew was a relation of mine. I'd have to be very careful, at that. The mere thought of the garbled tale Pete would put round New York City made me shrivel down to my toes . . .

"Mint tea! Gosh almighty, that's a drink when I was wanting to celebrate!"

"Celebrate what?"

"I'm going to tell you. Square round, beautiful, shade your eyes, take a look at your trade rival. Notice anything different?"

"Well, you've had one too many Pernods. Your tie's on the slant. Is that different? I wouldn't know."

"Sock me, sister," he chuckled. "Think I can't take it, this merry May morning? Lend an ear: I've spotted the one and only genuine, hall-marked Riesener table! What's more, I've negotiated a deal."

It stung me like a cold shower.

"Will you kindly repeat what you just said?"

"I'll make a chorus of it. I've bought a Riesener table. I've bought a Riesener table. I've bought—"

"I heard. Now, why pull that gag on me? I know, and so do you, there's no Riesener table for sale in France, Italy, or the British Isles. Don't try and tell me Gen. Franco has let one slip over his frontiers."

He shut one eye with deep cunning. "Maybe he has, at that. It's packed, anyhow, ready to go by the Normandie. Bessie Dodge will swoon when she sees it. I seem to remember you and I arranged a little bet. Or am I just sozzled?"

That Pete and not I had made this scoop! One piece of luck like this and I could have snapped my fingers at every rumor in Paris . . .

"Wait a minute." I took a 100 franc note from my purse but didn't let it go. "How do I know this table isn't a fake?"

Triumphantly he produced a wallet and from it a certificate, government stamped, in spider's crawl writing. I examined the date. My faint hope died.

"You win, Mr. Peters. Take your 100 francs and be damned to you. And now, for interest's sake, where did you unearth this discovery?"

"O, under a mulberry bush!"

It was all I got out of him. I knew, tho, he'd drawn a real prize. Pete valued his reputation as buyer every bit as much as I did mine, and he was much older at the game.

The young green chestnuts were spreading a haze between me and the four Lalique fountains that fling diamond spray round the Rond Point. I drank my tea and said I must go.

"What's the rush? Sit a spell. What do you know about the dirty work that's going on in our American colony? Just been reading about it. Seen this? He unfolded a newspaper.

"The Paris Tribune! Yes. O, yes. . . . Think it is dirty work?"

"God, girl, didn't you take in what it says? Just a matter of cold poison. Doctor guy in my hotel tells me benzedrine's a drug, hard to come by in the pure state, and fatal—if you get enough. She did."

I let out my breath. Pete didn't guess. . . .

"What's this benzedrine supposed to do to you?"

"Why, my Lord, it speeds up the blood pressure! Like hell. This time it had bad arteries to work on. Patient just pulling round from a mild paralytic attack. Taken nothing but soup. Not patent remedies, nothing that benzedrine could have got into by mistake. If it wasn't the soup, what have you?"

"They can't prove that, can they?" My voice sounded miles away.

"Why not, by elimination? The bouillon cup was washed up at once, but that bad luck won't stamp them. It's not likely one of the afternoon visitors she had gave her the stuff in a glass of water. Glad I wasn't one of 'em just the same."

"Grab me that red taxi, will you, Pete? Thanks. So long . . ."

Hard to come by—like Riesener tables. How long would it take the police to discover the last visitor out had a brother well up in new pharmacology as well as good connections in the world of antiques?

As I sat collapsed at a table in my tiny eating place I thought how easy it would seem for me to have read in the New York papers all about the sale of a certain necklace at Christy's in London—who had bought it and all. I might have foisted myself on my cousin as a guest simply and deliberately to edge in on the prize. Suppose it were argued that Phil and I had fixed up a scheme together before ever I left home, Phil providing me with a drug that would make death look like an ordinary stroke, just in case it became prudent to remove the owner before tampering with her jewels? The necklace was the one thing not insured. The victim's own brother-in-law hadn't known it had been bought.

All very well to say my meeting up with Cousin Lou devolved on pure accident. Could I prove it? I didn't see how. I leaned my elbows on the clean, red checkered cloth and felt dangerous sands closing in on me. It wasn't actual arrest I was afraid of; motive and evidence were too far-fetched. I shivered and shook because of my good name and the nice salary I might never again draw.

The girl I was expecting came in, saw me, and plumped herself down in the other seat.

"I'm sacked," she announced grimly. "So that's that. Been waiting long?"

"Sacked! For what reason?"

GASOLINE ALLEY—FIRST AID

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Nothing a Tall

Here Is Ireland, Calm, Serene, and Beautiful

"HERE IS IRELAND."

Narrated by Pat Stanton.

Presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

[Can you take an hour off to be peaceful?]

"What is it makes your roses so especially beautiful," Pat Stanton, asked a famous Irish rose fancier. And the latter replied:

To paraphrase a little, I suspect that it's lots of honest work, the rich soil of a humorous, tender, and nature worshiping Irish understanding, and the great love Pat Stanton bears for his homeland that have resulted in the serenely enchanting travelog now unreeling at the World Playhouse. . . .

Mr. Stanton and his wife decided to take a leisurely trip thru Ireland, registering on colored film as they went the places, people, and events that most intrigued them. And so you have "Here Is Ireland," one of the sweetest screen potpourri that has ever lent its fragrance to an idle hour.

Rose gardens and castles; valleys and mountains and waters' meets; a presidential tea party, and, thru a misty car windshield busily plied by a sweeper, a rain kissed countryside. . . . You visit Dublin and Mallow and Limerick and Adare—and Skibbereen, which is "famous for its lasses"—and you are present as a Corpus Christi procession winds its impressive way thru the streets of Cork. . . . And then there is a steeple chase—and greyhounds training to bring their masters money—and a crossroads dance, and the Irish army in camp. . . .

And the quiet voice of Mr. Stanton explains it all with, here and there as it were, a pat on the head of a child, a tear on the grave of a dead poet, and a coloring of whimsy that is as effective as the hues of his film.

Not only for the Irish is this picture. We all need it—and many more like it. . . . For it is by things such as this that we keep our balance and a true perspective.

The school child whose lunch is supervised by neither his mother nor the school cafeteria, is likely to feast daily on a diet of hamburger or hot dog and "coke," a practice which certainly can add nothing favorable to the rather sad looking current picture of the nation's health.

I am glad to see that mothers are becoming more and more conscious of the need of good nutrition in the home, of the importance of seeing that growing children eat the kind of food they need for optimum health. This winter is going to see more concerted effort by nutrition experts than ever before to make the homemaker aware of her enormous responsibility in the feeding of her family. It's all a part of national defense, and no small part, this science of nutrition.

Lunch is more difficult for many women than is the evening meal, for school youngsters have limited time, and often have so much on their minds that they can't sit still long enough properly to digest the food which is set before them. It becomes mother's job not only to prepare nourishing lunches, but to coax the boys and girls by whatever tactful means she can to relax quietly and attend to the business of eating.

High school students are likely to have picked up bad eating habits. They eat too fast, sometimes they eat too much, and quite often they've acquired a coke or candy bar between meals habit which quite wrecks a normal diet. So a woman's problem isn't always as simple as planning and preparing nourishing lunches such as these.

LUNCHES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

1. Vegetable and meat stock soup, buttered whole wheat toast, apple, celery and peanut salad, raisin oatmeal cookies, milk.

2. Creamed salmon on baked potatoes, cabbage, carrot and green pepper salad, whole-wheat bread and butter, gingerbread, peach sauce, milk.

3. Scrambled eggs, baked tomatoes, whole-wheat toast, carrot sticks, baked apple, milk.

4. Corn chowder, date and cheese sandwiches, celery, fruit gelatin, milk.

5. Macaroni and cheese, lettuce and tomato salad, whole-wheat bread and butter, sliced bananas, milk.

6. Bean soup with crackers, cabbage and pineapple salad, cottage pudding, milk.

7. Scalloped potatoes, cornbread, sliced tomatoes, fresh apples with plain cookies, milk.

8. Cream of tomato soup, toasted peanut butter and whole-wheat sandwiches, carrot sticks, stewed fruit, milk.

9. Cheese fondue, sliced orange salad, brown bread and butter, rice and raisin or prune pudding with cream, cocoa.

10. Meat loaf, tomato sauce, whole wheat muffins, raw vegetable sticks, fruit tapioca pudding, milk.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 29.—Boris Morros, who has joined 20th-Fox, will produce a novelty called "Tails of Manhattan," which will depict the career of a dress suit from the time it moves in high society until it becomes a scarecrow on a sharecroppers' farm. A number of writers will do bits of it, including Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler, and many stars will play its various episodes. Edward G. Robinson is the only one named so far. One scene — the sharecropper one—will star Ethel Waters, Paul Robeson, Rochester, and the Hall Johnson choir. Rochester will play a dramatic rôle—that of a minister. Morros is convinced he's a good straight actor as well as a comedian.

Mollie Steinberg is plotting a production of "Roger the Sixth," a play by Joseph Carroll, who wrote "Separate Rooms." Neil Hamilton and Marjorie Gateson will have the leads. Rehearsals will be held here, the play will break in in the middle west, and go to New York in January. . . . Note to New Yorkers: Your town will be destroyed by an earthquake and tidal wave in the next month or so. This is already being fixed up—as episode 1 in Republic's serial, "Dick Tracy vs. Crime, Inc." . . . In the new Dick Tracy, Ralph Morgan will play a triple rôle—a psychiatrist, a politician, and a ghost. . . . If Martha Scott's baby is a boy, he'll be named Carlton Alsop; if a girl, Martha Scott Alsop. . . . The Screen Writers' Guild has called a massmeeting of all movie workers to take action on the Wheeler-Nye investigation.

Paramount outbid four other studios to get Daphne du Maurier's new romantic history novel, "Frenchmen's Creek." . . . "Birth of the Blues" will be premièred Oct. 31 in Memphis, W. C. Handy's home town. . . . Shooting of "For Whom the Bell Tolls" should begin soon, with Director Sam Wood checking in at Paramount next week.

Be Considerate of the Boy Friend's Purse

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Gracie has had a beau for five years, altho still in her early 20s. The boy, during their school romance days, had a small allowance, Gracie tells, out of which he not only managed to escort Gracie places she wanted to go, but also could afford little presents for her every now and then. With this small allowance, Gracie says, he managed to do quite a lot.

Now the young man is employed. For over a year he has been receiving four times the amount he formerly had as an allowance, but he is always "broke," even having a hard time managing to raise enough to take Gracie to a movie once a week. Little gifts are out entirely. Yet the young man, Gracie tells, still proclaims his love altho his actions do not seem to support the claim.

"I believe he has become cheap," Gracie confides. "I think he is listening to what other fellows do and say to their girls. I refused to kiss him lately, and this annoys him greatly. But I feel he doesn't put himself out much for me any more, and doesn't deserve affection. I do love him, tho, and would miss him terribly. What should I do?"

Gracie, you should try to realize that you have a wage earner now to cope with. A wage earning youth is a different financial being from a boy on an allowance with no personal expenses to face. The young business man has to buy clothes, pay his board, his tailor, laundry, etc., so that if he were making $20 a week, let's say, when formerly his spending allowance was $5 a week, he might easily find the sledding harder today.

If you were a smart little girl, and want to hold this youth, you'd better view money more sensibly. You might talk finances over with the chap. Get familiar with his many expenses of which you obviously now are totally ignorant. It might even be that the boy is planning marriage and trying to get ahead for that.

Swan the Baby

Swan's pure and mild as imported "100% olive oil" castile. The minute you hear Swan is as pure and mild as imported castile, you say to yourself: "That's the very soap for baby," because "100% olive oil" castile has always been a yardstick of mildness.

Swan the Dishes

Swan suds twice as fast—richer, creamier suds, too! Thank goodness for this! Swan suds up twice as fast as old-time floating soaps. Gives suds that last much longer, too . . . they don't flatten out right away!

Swan your nice things

Swan's much firmer! Lasts and lasts! Time and again, you get hold of old-style floating soap that's so soft you can push your thumb right into it. In contrast, it's a satisfaction to feel that firm, solid cake of Swan. Swan has far less moisture, you see.

Swan Yourself

Swan lathers up grand—even in hard water. Whether you're going in for a relaxing tubful of lather or a hasty rubdown, Swan's what you want. Menfolks get a kick out of the plentiful lather; women like the satin-fine texture; baby likes—what's the use of talking? You'd better try it!

Two convenient sizes — Large and Regular

Swan's 8 ways better

Yes, Swan's 8 ways better than old-style floating soaps; it's whiter, smoother, much firmer. It suds twice as fast; lathers swell even in hardest water; breaks nicer—easily; smells fresher; gives more real soap for your money. If you don't say "Swan's swell," mail the wrapper to Swan, Lever Brothers Co., Cambridge, Mass. We'll send you double the purchase price.

ALDERMEN VISIT NEW YORK, STUDY A FRILLY AIRPORT

Favor a More Practical Field for Chicago.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Sept. 29 [Special].—Winding up a whirlwind tour of New York airport and its facilities tonight, a group of Chicago aldermen expressed mixed opinions of praise and mild criticism. The council members, accompanied by experts from several city departments, flew here from Chicago this forenoon.

Members of the party said they hoped to construct as adequate a terminal building as New York's, profiting by the New York mistakes. The delegation was headed by Ald. John Duffy, chairman of a special aviation subcommittee which is preparing plans for the new three million dollar improvement program at Chicago airport.

Eight air lines arranged the trip and are acting as hosts for the aldermen. By a happy coincidence the council members were in town the same night as the Joe Louis-Lou Nova heavyweight fight and attended the affair. Tomorrow they will take a look at Philadelphia and Washington airports before flying back to Chicago.

New Hangars for Chicago.

Three air lines — Transcontinental, American and United—have offered to rent all the new Chicago hangar space extending a mile along 55th street between Cicero and Central avenues.

Air lines serving Chicago have also offered to expend $1,200,000 on a terminal structure and the city hopes to add $400,000 or $500,000 more for walks, drives and other improvements.

The Chicago visitors today were whisked around the luxurious terminal building, the hangars and abutting "lean-to" structures housing offices and shops, the visitors' observation deck along the sides of the terminal, and Pan-American's seaplane base.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly was on hand to greet the aldermen. New York's mayor, Fiorello La Guardia, who is running for reelection, came up panting. He stayed long enough for a handshake with Mayor Kelly and the picture taking, then dashed off.

Alderman Duffy, noting that some of the hangar space here was crowded with shop work and planes were tethered outside on the macadam apron, said it might be feasible for Chicago to construct larger hangars. He suggested for Chicago a terminal more compact and less showy than the New York terminal.

When Mayor Kelly was gazing at a giant seagoing Clipper flying boat he sighed and observed: "Now if we had a lake front airport in Chicago we would have ships like these coming in."

HIT-RUN DRIVER GETS 1 TO 2 YEAR TERM IN PRISON

Thomas West, who failed to stop after his car killed a druggist at Normal avenue at 103d street on April 10, was sentenced to one to two years in the penitentiary for manslaughter yesterday.

West, who is 27 years old, is a stationary fireman living at 10642 Troy street. His victim was Robert Newman, 63, of 10429 Normal avenue. West was arrested a week after the accident on information that witnesses supplied to the police. West admitted the accident before Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court, but pleaded not guilty, asserting that he was drunk at the time.

Virgil C. Robinson was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Judge Michael Tremko in Safety court on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Robinson was blamed for a three car collision on Sunday at Halsted street and Roosevelt road. He is 35. His home is at 840 West 34th street.

STAFF AT GOLF CLUB QUIZZED IN MILEY SLAYING

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 29 [Special].—Employés of the Lexington Country club and several other persons were questioned by police today as they sought the two gunmen who killed Marion Miley, 27 years old, nationally known golfer; critically wounded her mother, Mrs. Elsa Miley, 50, and took $145 from their apartment at the club.

Mrs. Miley, who is manager of the club, was shot three times and is in a critical condition at a hospital following an emergency operation. The $145 the robbers obtained were receipts from the Saturday night dance.

Detectives said the only clews to the slaying were two buttons from a man's coat, three slugs from an automatic pistol, and finger prints on a wall near the apartment. Rewards totaling $1,500 have been offered for the capture of the slayers.

BOY BREAKS WRISTS IN FALL.

Robert Snavely, 10 years old, of 3851 Lincoln avenue, fractured both wrists yesterday when he fell from a play slide at Audubon school, Cornelia and Hoyne avenues.

$135,000 Pledged

Four hundred clergy and lay leaders of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago opened a drive for $500,000 at a dinner meeting last night in the Furniture Club of America, 666 Lake Shore drive. The money will be used to meet current obligations and enlarge activities in the Chicago area.

Goals of $250,000 were set for both the special and individual gift campaigns. Robert F. Carr, chairman of the special gifts committee, told the meeting that $135,000 already had been pledged in his division.

Speakers included the Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, bishop of the Chicago diocese; the Rt. Rev. Edwin J. Randall, suffragan bishop, and Edward K. Welles, chairman of the drive.

KILLED IN GUN ACCIDENT.

LANDSCAPE CREW MEMBER KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Daniel Fako, a member of a state landscaping crew, was killed yesterday by an automobile a mile west of Glenview in Milwaukee avenue near Glenview road. Fako was 52 years old. He lived at 4142 Cullerton street. The driver was Robert Dalla Santa, 38, manager of the Alpine Gun club at Round Lake.

Alfred T. Gray, 37, a steamfitter, died in Berwyn hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when his car struck a post in Cicero avenue near 40th street. Gray lived at 5326 Blackstone avenue.

A man about 72 years old, carrying a card bearing the name Fred Elkor, 6458 Union avenue, was killed late last night by an automobile at 55th street and Normal boulevard. The driver was John Leonard Jr., 25, of 7751 Saginaw avenue, a law clerk, and son of Lieut. John Leonard of the Stockyards station.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 696 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 480 were killed in Chicago, where 18,753 were injured in the same period.

FIND BODIES OF 3 ARMY FLYERS IN PLANE WRECKAGE

Lawton, Okla., Sept. 29 (AP).—The bodies of three army flyers were found today amid the wreckage of an observation plane, which had been missing for 12 hours.

Col. Ira A. Koenig, commanding air corps troops at Fort Sill, previously had identified the missing men as: Second Lieutenant R. A. McNabb, Sweetwater, Tenn., the pilot; Capt. O. C. Appleton, Highland, Tex., and Private James D. Smith, Midlothian, Tex.

COATS

The men started it—the coat with the zip-in lining. Twelve months of the year they shrugged into the same coat. Women knew a good thing when they saw it—demanded copies. Carson's gave it to them with no nonsense, no stinting. The same clean cut look with the earmarks of costly tailoring, the same zip-in lining. We're so much in favor of this indispensable coat, we had replicas made for the small fry, too. Fleece, tweed or camel hair, any size you wear . . . we have it.

LOUIS STRIKES IN SIXTH ROUND; STOPS NOVA

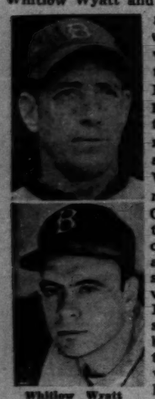
DODGERS STAKE WORLD SERIES HOPES ON 2 PITCHERS

WYATT, HIGBE TO CARRY BRUNT AGAINST YANKS

Remember Fate of Reds' Two Aces?.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—What will Whitlow Wyatt and Kirby Higbe, 22 game winners while the Dodgers were panting their way to the National league pennant, mean in the world series now rushing along to its Wednesday afternoon's opening? Only the Yankees, the bombing crew for which any tough job is simple, can provide the answer. If the Yanks answer with their bats against these two big winners Brooklyn's cause would seem to be hopeless.



Whitlow Wyatt [above] and Kirby Higbe.

The National league, invariably in the spot of having to explain why the junior major always seems to have standout hitters, in recent years has pointed out that it doesn't have those hitters because its pitching is superior. Here is a chance to prove it with the two top moundsmen of the year. If memory serves correctly the Reds had such a pair in Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters in the 1939 world series. All the Yanks did was to knock off the Rhinelanders in four straight and go home for the winter.

Poise Is a Big Factor.

Pitching is a big item at all times, but in a world series there is a little more pressure than encountered in the day to day march toward a pennant. The pressure naturally is going to be on the Dodgers, not alone on the pitchers but everybody involved. A pitcher might perform almost perfectly under that pressure but lose because of leaks elsewhere in his team's defense.

Some of the Dodgers might easily succumb to the post season load by erring at a critical time. The Yanks aren't likely to commit such fielding sins. It is not an odds and ends combination such as the Dodgers. To beat the Yanks you have to beat the brains out of their pitchers. They don't give you much in the way of extras such as blunders.

The Wyatt case in this instance is interesting because of his baseball history. For him the American league was a puzzle. Three clubs tried him, but eventually sent him on his way. At Milwaukee, where the Dodgers found him, Whit developed some sort of a slider, a slow curve, and control. These little things probably made him what he showed himself to be this year. But when Wyatt stands out in front of those Yanks he may start thinking of his past. Such thoughts won't add to his effectiveness.

French Only Southpaw.

The Brooklyn staff has a weakness, even tho Curt Davis and Freddy Fitzsimmons, as well as the two mentioned above, fashioned commendable records. The Dodgers have no effective left hander available. Their lone southpaw is Larry French, who accomplished nothing after the Cubs had dispensed with his services. Larry probably won't see service unless the Yankee hitters stir up a panic.

The absence of a standout left hander doesn't mean the Yanks are suckers against this type of pitching. It bothers them, but they usually manage to get enough good pitching from one of their own members to Salute to Shoeless Joe.

The selection of all-time baseball teams reminds me that Joe Jackson was the greatest natural hitter of the modern game. Despite the records, Cobb, Speaker, and Ruth simply were not in Jackson's class. In one double header, against Cleveland, he drove seven terrific liners to the fences, yet didn't get credit for a single hit. The fielders were always out there, their backs to the wall, waiting for him. Joe's drives were invariably low and long, beautiful tee shots. With a little more loft, he could, I believe, have hit as many as a hundred home runs during one of his better seasons. Joe couldn't read, so all pitchers looked alike to him. He didn't know when he was up against a wizard. He was ignorant, he was crude, he was egotistical. He was an incurable strutter. But, boy, what a thing of grace and beauty he was at that plate! What a great, grand, supersocker he was!—J. G. H.

CITY SERIES MAY BE FERTILE FIELD FOR THE HURLERS

Sox and Cubs Each Have Four Mound Standbys.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There probably wouldn't be much excuse for predicting hitting in the Chicago city series starting tomorrow in Wrigley field even if the prospect for pitching was poor. One Cub regular, Stan Hack, finished with a mark above .300. He hit .317. There were two White Sox who turned in an all season job of major league hitting: Taft Wright, with .325 and Luke Appling with .315.

These averages, of course, were compiled against good pitching and bad. Most of the pitching in the city series should be far above the average of a whole season's span. So it wan't be a slugging season.

Lee's the No. 1 Pitcher.

On the basis of the entire season's work, the standout of the series is Thornton Lee, who never has found the Cubs too easy, spring or fall. Take a look at Lee's final figures:

W.	L.	Pct.	H.	R.	BB.

Besides Lee, Manager Jim Dykes plans to start Ted Lyons, Eddie Smith, and Johnny Rigney. Here are their final totals:

	W.	L.	Pct.	H.	R.	BB.
Lyons	12	10	.545	199	87	37
Smith	13	17	.433	237	109	114
Rigney	13	13	.500	224	114	92

Manager Jim Wilson says he will start Claude Passeau, Paul Erickson, Vern Olsen, and Jake Mooty. Here are their season totals:

	W.	L.	Pct.	H.	R.	BB.
Passeau	14	14	.500	262	99	61
Erickson	5	8	.385	126	71	63
Olsen	10	8	.556	202	84	58
Mooty	8	9	.471	143	69	56

Thus it is revealed the teams have two .500 pitchers, Passeau and Rigney; two who are two games over .500, namely, Olsen and Lyons. Less comparable are Lefty Lee and Erickson, scheduled to meet in the second game of the series, while Smith and Mooty are both under the .500 mark.

They Know Each Other.

All the Sox pitchers have pitched against all the Cubs scheduled to start in the series. All the Cub pitchers have pitched against all the Sox scheduled to start, except Ben Chapman.

If this helps you dope the winner of the city series, you have a big advantage if you are a betting person. Personally, we'd rather know whether the Sox as an entity are going to be lazy at bat, as they were for a month prior to their final series. There's a pretty good chance the Cubs will outhustle the slovenly Sox batsmen. But this may not be enough to beat what appears to be superior Sox pitching.

A Right from Lou Which Never Landed

PUTS SUDDEN SAVAGERY INTO TAME BATTLE

Referee Calls Halt a Second Before Bell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Lou Nova, the cosmic clouter from Alameda, Cal., tonight encountered the mightiest of all fistic elements—the lightning and thunder lurking in the murderous gloves of Joe Louis—and the result was inevitable. Nova was stopped after 2 minutes and 59 seconds of the sixth round when Referee Arthur Donovan mercifully halted the butchery.

The fight was unusually dull for five rounds. Nova refused to lead and Louis was content to lay back waiting for his foe to make a mistake. There was enough action in the sixth, however, to satisfy the most exacting.

The punch which started Nova on the way to defeat came like most of Louis' devastating attacks — with dramatic suddenness. It was a right cross to the chin shortly after the start of the round. Nova went down as if he had been pole axed.

Nova Shows His Courage.

Not many at the ringside with a closeup of his desperate predicament expected Nova to rise to his feet. But his fighting heart functioned to the end and at the count of nine he was staggering around on rubbery legs determined to carry on the battle.

Dazed and shaken from the force of the punch, Nova began backing away, instinctively ducking under punches and trying to hold up his guard. But he had lost all sense of surroundings. He wasn't sure whether he was in the Polo Grounds or San Francisco bay. A thin, red penceling of blood ran down the corner of his lips and dropped on his chest.

Louis lost no time following up the opening. He unleashed a flurry of lefts and rights to the head and body that had Nova blinking like a movie patron who suddenly emerges into the sunlight. Probably no opponent Louis has faced took the punishment that Nova absorbed in the next 60 seconds. A right cross opened a cut over the Californian's right eye. Red welts rose on his high cheek bones. The human body can stand only so much wear and tear and Nova's was nearing the end of its endurance.

Joe's 19th Title Defense.

With only one second remaining until the bell, Referee Donovan rushed over to Nova, who was helpless near the ropes, and put his arms around as game a man as ever challenged Louis for the title, thereby ending the uneven contest.

A crowd of 56,549 paid $583,771 to see Louis make the 19th successful defense of the championship he won from Jimmy Braddock in Chicago's Comiskey park, in June, 1937. After an exhibition tour of army camps Louis intends to enlist in the army, so tonight's performance probably was his farewell to the sport that has made him famous and wealthy.

It took Manager Ray Carlen and Trainer Ray Arcel three or four minutes to get Nova in shape to leave the ring. As he was led down the steps on the way up the dark aisle to the dressing room and perhaps fistic oblivion, a spectator asked Nova how he felt. This was superfluous, indeed, after the man, in effect, had been hit on the head by a safe that had fallen from the 21st floor.

Nova Never Threatens.

The sensational outcome of what up to the concluding round had been an uninteresting bout provided unexpected entertainment for the throng of customers of assorted political faiths who were trying to get away from neutrality, repeal, industrial strikes, and whatever became of the St. Louis Cardinals? It was the largest crowd a boxing match has drawn since Louis annihilated Max Schmeling across the Harlem river in the Yankee Stadium.

The biggest disappointment of the evening was Nova's lack of offense. Reams of copy had been written about his cosmic punch, a mysterious weapon which his backers predicted would bewilder Louis no end. Nova didn't land a sound wallop in the entire fight. He pawed away with his left and glanced four or five rights off the side of Louis' head, but none did any damage.

Louis Bides His Time.

Louis, unlike his earlier days as a champion, was in no hurry about getting down to business. It was only after he was convinced Nova never would do any leading that he opened up. One round was much like another until the eventful sixth. Louis was always crowding, Nova always backing away.

The goings-on may have been commendable for their earnestness but they certainly were lacking in dramatics. So much so that quite a few uncultured ringsiders pursed their lips and emitted raucous sounds singularly reminiscent of the contemptuous razzberry. A Brooklyn fan, who never had seen so many people in the Polo Grounds except when the Dodgers were there, yelled, "Throw the bums out."

In his dressing room, Nova agreed

PURPLE EXPECTS A BATTLE FROM KANSAS STATE

Kansas State will provide Northwestern with stiffer competition in the season's opener in Dyche stadium Saturday than its scoreless tie with Fort Hayes Teachers would indicate, Coach Lynn Waldorf said yesterday after studying scout reports of the game.

Kansas State outplayed Fort Hayes, but fumbled away three scoring chances inside its opponents' 10 yard line. Bus Owens who scouted the game said that Kansas State will outweigh Northwestern considerably in the line and will present a hard smashing full back in Kent Duwe who ranks as one of the outstanding line plungers in the Big Six conference.

Hold Long Signal Drill.

Northwestern began its final week of preseason practice yesterday with a long signal drill designed to iron out the rough edges which cropped up in Saturday's freshman game. Coach Waldorf expressed himself as pleased with the continued improvement, but pointed out that such fundamentals as blocking and tackling are still below par.

The progress shown by a number of sophomores was a source of satisfaction to the coaching staff. Among the new linemen who have come a long way since the start of practice are Ray Vincent, Tony Samarzia and Bob Carlson, tackles; Harold Hudson, center, Johnny Gent and Alex Kapler, guards, and Bob Wallis and Bill Ohland, ends.

Sophomores Play Well.

An all-sophomore back field consisting of Dud Kean and Don Buffmire, half backs, Ed Hirsch, full back and Erwin Weingartner, quarter back, turned in a good performance in Saturday's workout.

There is some doubt whether Don Clawson, veteran full back, will be able to play Saturday. He pulled a leg muscle last Saturday and Carl Erickson, trainer, said it would be several days before it could be decided whether Clawson would be ready. Meanwhile George Benson moved up to the first team.

Iowa and Michigan Battle Saturday in Big 9 Opener

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Iowa and Michigan open the Western conference season Saturday in Ann Arbor. This is the only Big Nine game yet it must share sectional interest with the initial contests of Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Illinois, and the clash at Notre Dame between the Irish and Indiana university.

Until Michigan romped over Michigan State last Saturday, the Hawkeyes may have relished the opportunity to meet the Wolverines. Michigan was the only team to lick Iowa's iron man eleven of 1939 altho Northwestern managed a tie in the final game that season. The Hawks like 'em tough, as witness their victories over Notre Dame in 1939 and 1940, but Michigan's line may be a bit too much.

Iowa Has Two Chances.

Without asking what report Jim Harris, Iowa scout, made to his boss, Dr. Eddie Anderson, it would seem that Iowa has two weapons for attack. Jim Youel or Tom Farmer may penetrate the Michigan secondary with accurate passes. Complementary to this offense is the running by Bill Green, as slick a back as there is in the conference, Bernard Mertes, and Jack Kennedy. Saturday, against Drake, Kennedy and Mertes made long jaunts in the open field. It should be added that Drake's team was outweighed and presumably unable to defend its flanks as well as Michigan will this week.

That Tom Kuzma and Paul White, Michigan's sophomore half backs, passed their first tests satisfactorily against Michigan State, is directly attributed to the play of a veteran Michigan line and the blocking by Capt. Bob Westfall and George Ceithaml. This same superiority gave Michigan 51 rushing plays in that game compared to 37 for Michigan State.

More important, except for Jack Fenton's 74 yard touchdown run in the first two minutes, Michigan State's rushing attack showed a net gain of only 30 yards.

Kuzma Can Throw Them.

Kuzma is Michigan's best passer and four of his seven throws were completed against State. Two were intercepted in the first period. Kuzma also did all of the punting. His average for five kicks was 29 yards, but this is explained by the position on the field. Three kicks were made in Michigan State territory when Kuzma tried to punt out of bounds near the goal line. The ball went out on the 10, 15, and 10 yard lines, respectively.

Kuzma and Westfall carried the burden of Michigan's attack. The record of Michigan's ball carriers last Saturday follows:

PLAYER.	CARRIED.	NET GAIN.
Nelson, left half	5	61 yards
Kuzma, left half	19	67 yards
Lochard, right half	1	4 yards
White, right half	9	38 yards
Westfall, full back	17	65 yards

The Wisconsin-Marquette scrap in Madison this Saturday is the takeoff for both. In general, the Badgers will have an advantage in squad strength. Marquette quite likely will start sophomores at the ends and at center. Jim Richardson is the key to the Hilltoppers' attack which Coach Tom Stidham has built in the past three weeks.

Wisconsin expects to have better running and an improved passing attack. The Badgers will miss George Paskvan's plunges but believe the deficiency can be made up by Pat Harder, sophomore full back, and Bob Ray, a veteran. In final analysis, Wisconsin's hopes actually rest on the performance of the line and in particular on the guards. Here again new men hold the key.

Northwestern and Illinois should pass their first tests against Kansas State and Miami [O.] university, respectively, without much trouble.

A WINNER A DAY KEEPS BROOKS IN HAWTHORNE LEAD

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Steve Brooks, who rode four winners Saturday, brought in four more yesterday at Hawthorne, Texas Way, Miss Cedar, He Man, and Bachelor's Bower. Thru the first 19 days of the 30 day meeting he has had at least one winner every afternoon. He has made a runaway of the struggle for supremacy among the full fledged jockies, just as Don MacAndrews has been dominating the apprentices who have the benefit of a few pound weight allowance. He now has 32 winners to MacAndrew's 31.

Brooks was born in a covered wagon on the Nebraska prairies. He looked upon such modern inventions as the telephone with great suspicion until his present contract employer, J. T. Withers, convinced him that the contraption wouldn't shout back at him.

A Natural at 102 Pounds.

Brooks, who is now 20 years old, has a perfect physique for a jockey. Whereas many of the boys have to weaken themselves by diet, Steve can eat anything he wants and still make 102 pounds.

Despite his light weight, his muscular development is such that he can handle the toughest horses on the track. Tales go around the backstretch about his strong man feats in the stable area. They say he can lift one of the 160 pound grooms and balance him on his shoulders as tho he were tossing an infant about.

Whenever Steve takes a mount into a race, he gets the most out of the horse whether he's an odds-on favorite or a 30 to 1 shot. He knows how to get an outsider going and maneuver him into positions where he'll have the best possible chance. As a result, even when he doesn't win, he often lands second or third place with a horse that didn't figure to be anywhere. His stretch riding in close finishes has provided Hawthorne fans with some of the most spectacular moments of the meeting.

A Riding Masterpiece.

His performance on He Man yesterday was a masterpiece. Brooks held this 4 to 1 shot on the rail during the early stages of this mile and 70 yard run while Earliana was going out to make the pace. When jockeys with inferior riding skill keep a horse on the rail going into the far turn when two or three others are just to the outside and slightly ahead of them, the usual result is disaster. They get shut off and have to fall back and go around.

Brooks, however, kept He Man on the rail but as he approached the turn he sent him up fast enough so that the horses to the outside couldn't possibly come over on him without fouling him. Saving ground all the way he brought his mount into the stretch ready for what was certain to be a stiff battle. It was. All the way home he had He Man under a drive and he practically carried him over the line to beat Impenetrable by a nose.

Married, Lives in Trailer.

Brooks is married to a girl from Dallas, Tex. They travel about in a trailer from track to track wherever Steve has engagements. During the present meeting they're living in a trailer colony on Archer avenue, several miles from Hawthorne. Steve has four brothers and four sisters. He uses a portion of his earnings to help with their schooling.

His father is now in the trucking business in Nebraska. One of his brothers, Fred, is with him at Hawthorne. The fans have often noticed a youngster who looks just like Steve cantering up on the Withers and Dunn stable pony to help Steve unsaddle after a race. That's Fred.

Badger Sophs Fight to Win Varsity Posts

MARQUETTE BACKS IN DOUBT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 29 [Special].—Three back field positions on the Marquette university football team were still in doubt today as the Hilltoppers began their final preparations for the opener with Wisconsin in Madison on Saturday.

Jimmy Richardson, senior from Milwaukee and one of the five greatest ground gainers in the nation last fall, has clinched the left half back berth.

Zuppke probably will stick to the lineup that started the freshman game last Saturday, but feels he must develop reserves, especially linemen. Bob Gibbs, junior letter man, may return to end following poor pass receiving by reserve ends. Gibbs has been tried at right half back, but Jimmy Smith, Maurie Gould, and Tony Butkovich fortify that position. The operation on Smith's knee last fall seems to have been a complete success.

OHIO STUDIES TROJAN PLAYS.

Columbus, O., Sept. 29 [Special].—Ohio State's football team today started preparation for its battle with Southern California in Los Angeles Saturday by studying the reports of scouts who returned last night from the Trojans' contest last week with Oregon.

The workout today was light and Trojan plays were demonstrated. Attempts were made to call attention to misplays in the Buckeye-Missouri game of Saturday which the Ohioans won, 12 to 7.

'40 WORLD SERIES SETS RECORD FOR GATE RECEIPTS

New York, Sept. 29 [Special].—Last year's world series set a record at the gate. The fans paid $1,322,328.21 to watch the Cincinnati Reds and Detroit Tigers play seven games. The biggest players' pool, however, was set in the first four games of the 1936 Giants-Yankees clash, when $460,002.66 was distributed among the participants.

The biggest winning share ever awarded was won by the Tigers of 1935. Each full-share check was for $6,544.76. From 1903 thru 1940 the world series gates have enriched baseball to the extent of $23,782,346.51.

PURDUE PLANS AN OPEN GAME AGAINST PITT

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 29 [Special].—Development of an offensive line charge and down field blocking were emphasized by Purdue's coaching staff this afternoon as the mistakes committed in the 3 to 0 loss to a well conditioned Vanderbilt squad carefully were reviewed.

"We expect material improvement offensively before the Pitt game Saturday," said Coach Mal Elward. Altho obviously disappointed over the opening defeat, the Boilermaker coach pointed out to the squad that Vanderbilt, which had been practicing since Sept. 1, was much further advanced as evidenced by its midseason handling of a difficult offense.

GOPHERS RECEIVE OVATION.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29 [Special].—Minesota's conquering Gophers returned today from Seattle, Wash., amid a stormy ovation that accompanied them thru the state. A thousand fans greeted them upon their arrival today.

The one major casualty of the 14 to 6 victory over Washington was Bill Baumgartner, star junior end. The fibula bone in his left leg was broken and will keep him out of the game for five or six weeks. The Gophers had a brief chalk talk on arrival today, then were dismissed. School started today, so the boys busied themselves in getting straightened around.

The squad will practice tomorrow, but work will be of a lighter nature this week because of the open date Saturday. The Gophers play Illinois in their next start a week from Saturday.

MR. BERTELLI CAN PITCH, BUT HE'S REALLY CATCHER

Notre Dame Pass Tosser a Baseball Backstop.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Angelo Bortolo Bertelli, the young man with the Latin name and the Nordic features who submitted a masterful pitching job last Saturday in the course of Notre Dame's 38 to 7 rout of Arizona, is as versatile a sophomore as has come to the Irish lineup in years.

Angelo Bertelli.

There was a suspicion among those who saw him complete 11 of 14 passes or a total of 145 yards against Arizona that at some time or other in his 20 years Bertelli might have pitched a baseball or two. It can now be told that the reverse was the case, for he was a catcher, batting .341 with the Springfield, Mass., Brownies, who went to the finals of the state amateur tourney last summer. And if that isn't enough, just consider that, before deciding on enrolling at Notre Dame, he rejected offers from the Springfield Indians and the Boston Bruins, both of whom thought he was the sort of hockey center they could use. He twice was captain of the hockey team at Cathedral High of Springfield, leading the school to western Massachusetts championships in 1939 and 1940.

Plays a Bit of Football, Too.

And, as you may have guessed, he played a touch of football in his prep days, too. He was captain of the Cathedral eleven and the baseball team as well, running 20 yards for the winning score in the championship game against Springfield Tech in 1940. His coach at Cathedral was Billy Wise, former Holy Cross star who once passed Harvard into defeat. Passing is Bertelli's favorite gridiron maneuver, a choice that can be understood after the Arizona game.

Bertelli is a soft spoken young man with an air of quiet confidence which his mates admire. He is 6 feet and ½ inch and weighs 175 pounds before a game, usually losing about 4 pounds in the course of a contest. He has blue eyes and light brown hair. He demonstrated in the Arizona game that he also can do a spot of kicking, booting one of the extra points from the 22 yard line after the Irish had been penalized on his first attempt.

Bertelli was born in Springfield on June 18, 1921, the son of Bortolo and Mary Bertelli, who had come to the United States from a small town near Venice, Italy. His father, a laborer, was killed by an auto while walking home from work in 1938. Bertelli père never missed a game of any kind in which Bert took part.

Looks Forward to Army Game.

Bert is looking forward to the Army game in New York on Nov. 1, where his mother and his two married sisters, Mrs. Joseph Enright of Holyoke, Mass., and Mrs. Joseph Tessini of Springfield will be down to watch him play. The new Irish star always had wanted to come to Notre Dame, but it was Milt Piepul, one of Notre Dame's greatest full backs and Bertelli's predecessor both at Cathedral High in Springfield and at Notre Dame who finally induced him to do so.

He has an average of 83 in the physical education school, and while he may enter the coaching profession after he has been graduated, he is not interested in pro football. He was enthusiastic yesterday about the lads who fielded his passes—Steve Juzwik, George Murphy, and Bob Dove. He's earning expenses working in the kitchen of the university dining hall.

BOB WHITE, NO. 1 FULL BACK AT INDIANA, HURT

Swihart May Return for Notre Dame Game.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 29 [Special].—Bob White, No. 1 full back, was on the sidelines today suffering from a foot injury incurred in the Detroit game, as the Indiana football squad began preparations for Saturday's battle against Notre Dame in South Bend. White, however, may be in shape to see some action against the Irish.

The temporary loss of White was partly offset by a report from the team physician that Dale Swihart, half back, probably will be ready for duty Saturday. An ankle injury kept Swihart out of the Detroit game.

IRISH COACH DISSATISFIED.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 29 [Special].—Coach Frank Leahy and the Notre Dame squad turned attention today to the battle with Indiana here Saturday. The Irish reported no casualties as a result of Saturday's 38 to 7 victory over Arizona in Leahy's debut, so he went right to work reviewing mistakes made against the Wildcats.

While Leahy had high praise for Angelo Bertelli, sophomore left half back who completed 11 out of 14 passes, in addition to blocking, tackling, running, and defending against passes like a veteran, Leahy said he was disappointed in the work by several key men. He did like the way Wally Ziemba, center; Bernie Crimmins, right guard, and Owen [Dipp] Evans, full back, came thru in new positions.

MICHIGAN IN GOOD SHAPE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29 [Special].—Apparently satisfied with the showing of the Michigan football team in subduing Michigan State, 19 to 7 Saturday, Coach Fritz Crisler today began preparations for the opening of the Big Nine season here against Iowa.

Michigan's team, as a whole, apparently was in superior physical condition last week, but Crisler noted that a few players, notably Al Wistert and Tome Kuzman failed to show the speed expected of them and apparently tired more quickly than the rest of the team. Conditioning thus will be stressed again this week.

Michigan had only two casualties Saturday, neither of whom are expected to be kept out of the game for long. Little Dave Nelson was kicked in the head after a sparkling run and was a bit dazed for several hours. Paul White suffered an injured shoulder, but the examining physicians feel confident that there is no separation and the injury is merely a shoulder bruise.

IOWA TURNS TO BLOCKING.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 29 [Special].—Perturbed over the team's disappointing performance against Drake Saturday, Coach Eddie Anderson gave the Iowa squad a thoro session on blocking and signal drills today. Jim Youel, regular left half back who was kicked in the head during the opening game, left University hospital yesterday after undergoing an examination and was in uniform today.

Anderson said there would be several changes in the Hawkeye lineup unless some of the players "snapped out of it." The squad will work against Wolverine plays and formations brought back by Coach Jim Harris, who scouted the Michigan-Michigan State game.

JOHN B. FOSTER, NOTED BASEBALL WRITER, IS DEAD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29 [Special].—John B. Foster, 78 years old, one of the best known writers on baseball in the country for many years, former business manager of the New York Giants and until a few years ago editor of the Spalding Baseball Guide, died today at the home of his niece, Mrs. Rex H. Rhoades.

Foster was a member of the New York Sun's sports staff from 1920 until 1931, and before that had been sports editor of the New York Telegram for 12 years and a sports reporter for the New York Herald. The baseball terms appearing in the Standard dictionary were compiled by him, and he wrote a history of baseball for the encyclopedia. On two occasions he was called in to help revise the rules of the game. Foster was a native of Norwalk, O. For several years he worked as a general news reporter on the Cleveland Press and on the Cleveland Leader.

American Amateur Nine Beaten by Mexico, 12-8

HAVANA, Sept. 29 (AP).—Altho they used five pitchers, the United States team was beaten today, 12 to 8, by Mexico in the round-robin world amateur baseball tournament at Tropical stadium. Vickery, who replaced Abernathy in the first, was charged with the defeat.

One of the Dodgers' Big Guns

One of the hopes of Brooklyn fandom in the world series opening tomorrow against the Yankees is Dixie Walker, six foot outfielder whose .311 batting average and timely hitting provided one of the main sparks that led the Dodgers to their first National league flag in 21 years. Above is a closeup of Dixie, his batting stance and how he grips a bat.

DAVIS DEFEATS DUBS 2D TIME; ONLY 997 WATCH

Bill Davis, Minersville, Pa., junior welterweight, scored a unanimous decision in 10 rounds over Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., in Marigold Gardens last night. It was Davis' second victory over his Canadian opponent and his third straight in Chicago. Bill piled up points in the early rounds, but tired in the ninth and tenth.

A crowd of 997, one of the smallest to attend a show in the north side club this season, gave up $1,144. Vince Calzaretta, 18 year old light heavyweight of the west side, obtained revenge for a defeat inflicted by Johnny Crane when he beat his Negro foe in a five round return contest.

Other matches were won by Don Wallenfang, West Allis, Wis., 140 pounder, and Matt Daugherty, Milwaukee junior welterweight. Wallenfang beat Kit Carson and Daugherty conquered Chino Lopez in four round events.

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—Whirlaway's owner, Warren Wright, and his trainer, Ben Jones, agreed today to a $25,000 match race at a mile and a half with Samuel D. Riddle's War Relic. Riddle will make his decision tomorrow morning.

DODGERS STAKE SERIES HOPES ON HIGBE AND WYATT

The Dodgers and their unmatched rooters were able to console themselves the last few days of the season over the fact that the Yanks didn't appear to be any too hot. They weren't hitting with their customary gusto. Manager Joe McCarthy explained this today, at least he hoped it was an explanation which would prove itself. Joe said his boys have been loafing since clinching the pennant Sept. 4. They didn't even seem interested in base hits, which are a ball player's life. However, McCarthy indicated he felt the loafing attitude would be abandoned by Wednesday.

Higbe Pitches in Drill.

The Yanks took a workout in their stadium where the first two games are to be played and then the Dodgers showed up in the new uniforms they'll wear during the series. Most of the Dodgers' time, after they had participated in a Brooklyn parade, was spent in aiming their bats at the short stretches of the arena. A lot of this hitting practice was conducted against the pitching of Higbe, who stayed at the job so long that most of the so-called experts automatically eliminated him as a starting possibility in the opening game.

Meanwhile, Manager Leo Durocher, himself an ex-Yankee, showed no concern over a glimpse of his former stamping ground. The newspaper men besieged him with questions concerning whether or not he had made any progress in his problem of the opening pitcher. Leo startled some of them by declaring he wouldn't know until game time. He said he would warm up three men and pick the one who seemed to have the most stuff. Those not startled by this novel threat merely concluded it would be Wyatt. The latter can come back with a minimum of rest.

Ruffing for Yanks?

As far as the identity of his opening pitcher was concerned, McCarthy wasn't much better than Durocher as a source of information. Joe's idea was that the baseball writers might as well be given an opportunity to speculate. Some might make the correct guess. He'll let the world in on his secret after tomorrow's workout. The impression continues that it will be Charles [Red] Ruffing, always a tough gentleman when there are blue chips on the table.

Back of Ruffing the Yanks have Spud Chandler, Ernie Bonham, Atley Donald, Vernon Gomez, and Marius Russo. If the conservative McCarthy should pull a surprise it might be Russo. A left hander, Russo is fitted to torment Dolph Camilli and Dixie Walker, two Dodgers who don't care much for southpaw pitching. Russo was born in Brooklyn. He won 14 games for the Yanks this year.

Sox Rookie Wins Amateur Title for Fort Custer

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 29 (AP).—The Fort Custer, Mich., reception center won the American Baseball Congress' national amateur championship today with a 3 to 2 victory over Charlotte, N. C. Eugene Stack, a Chicago White Sox rookie who was inducted into the army last winter, won his third tournament victory as his team scored its sixth straight triumph. He yielded six hits and struck out seven.

Seven Notre Dame Stars of 1935 Coach District Preps

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

If you lack information about the famous 1935 Notre Dame-Ohio State football game it won't be necessary to travel far to obtain the details of the last minute Irish victory. The Chicago district's prep coaches' fraternity includes seven members of the 1935 Notre Dame squad who always are ready to recall every play as the Irish won, 18 to 13. They are Andy Puplis, Proviso High; Wally Fromhart and Fred Mundee, Mount Carmel; Andy Pilney, St. Mel; Hank Pojman, Weber, and Joe Gleason and John Fogle of De La Salle. . . .

Indiana prep football followers are beginning to wonder about the unlimited substitution rule. . . . Last Friday night it required 2 hours and 45 minues for Lew Wallace to defeat Horace Mann, 25 to 12, in Gary. . . . Twelve minute quarters are played in prep football. . . . C. M. Starff has started his 15th year as football coach at Bloom Township High, Chicago Heights. . . . Sarff also coaches basketball. . . . Bill Hedtke, new coach at Morton, Cicero, formerly handled the Concordia college eleven in River Forest. . . .

Foreman's supporters believe the squad's quarter back, Ed Rucinski, will become as famous as Indiana university's end, who was a starter in the College All-Star game last August. . . . Foreman's Eddie scored one of his team's touchdowns as it triumphed over Tuley last Saturday. . . . Urbana High will travel to Mattoon Friday night and Lincoln invades Pekin in two Big Twelve conference games. . . . Champaign will oppose McKinley High in Canton, O., Friday night. . . . In another nonconference contest, Decatur will entertain George Rogers Clark of Whiting, Ind.

Howard Weber, line coach at Freeport High, is a brother of Wally Weber, University of Michigan freshman coach and scout. . . . Gene Matrewitz, all-state tackle at Proviso last fall, has enrolled at Purdue. . . . Two other stars from the 1940 Proviso eleven—Tackle Bill Trapp and End Bob Bludorn—have matriculated at Wabash college. . . . Mount Carmel backers already are beginning to acclaim Bob Pillon, rugged center, as the logical successor to Ziggy Czarobski as a Catholic league line standout. . . .

Puts Sudden Savagery Into Tame Title Bout.

Referee Donovan had used good judgment in stopping the fight. "I did the best I could," was his comment. His handlers were complaining the bout had been halted too soon, that Nova could have recovered between rounds.

Pays Tribute to Joe.

Asked if the blow that floored him was the hardest he had taken in any bout, Nova replied, "He's a champ, a great fighter." Nova says he used bad tactics in fighting Louis straight up. He hopes to get another crack at the title.

Louis said the blow that in effect ended the fight was the hardest punch he ever threw at any man.

"I saw openings twice before," Louis said, "but I was asleep. I didn't get warmed up quick enough. I'm not used to fighting in 50 degree weather. Naw, he never hurt me at all."

IT WAS LIKE PULLING TEETH TO GET ME TO REVEAL OUR HOP SECRET

by Richard Seibold
MEISTER BRÄU Brewmaster

We use two varieties of hops and
Percolate the Flavor through the brew
This way extracts only the delicate, mellow juices

I ALWAYS want to know what I'm buying, so I'm willing to reveal how we make Meister Bräu.

People often ask me about the mellow hop flavor of our beer. We use one kind of hops selected for fragrance, and another for lightness. This blend of hops is percolated through the brew so you get only the most delicate hop taste.

We could flavor more beer with less hops by steeping a long time—but that might make a bitter beer.

Meister Bräu is an all-grain brew; no sugars or syrups added. It's bottled with only Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created right in the beer so you get natural life and sparkle—true all-grain flavor.

Brewing water is mighty important. If it changes from day to day like water you've tasted, the beer is affected. Our brewing water is certified by a leading firm of brewing scientists—certified finest known to brewing science.

Taste and compare is the way to tell what these methods add to beer. Ask your retailer today for Meister Bräu.

BANKERS GIVEN A SOMBER VIEW OF NATION'S ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Delegates to the American Bankers association convention in the Stevens hotel were given a somber picture yesterday of the economic outlook. From the speakers came these predictions of what is in store in the immediate future and in the postwar period:

That inflation is under way and probably cannot be stopped before a price level much higher than now exists is reached.

That all business, and banks in particular, face a period in which government encroachment upon their fields will be greatly extended.

That banks will serve as an instrument in bringing about inflation by being called upon to absorb steadily increasing amounts of government securities.

That higher taxes and still higher taxes are on the way.

W. R. Burgess discusses checking of inflation.

"Dig In," Nadler Advises.

Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at New York university, who spoke before the savings division of the association, advised bankers to "dig in" now in order to weather the postwar depression.

"The end of the emergency," he said, "is bound to be followed by a period of business recession, how far and how deep it is impossible to predict. The government will in all probability endeavor to stem the tide of depression and counteract it thru a huge program of public housing of its own financing.

"This is bound to affect the value of older real estate. In addition, a decline in business activity is bound to be followed by a decrease in earnings of corporations. The high corporate taxes which already exist and those that may be imposed in the future already are making it difficult to accumulate reserves."

Dr. Nadler advised the bankers to use the present market to liquidate remaining real estate holdings.

Storm "Bound to Follow."

"Strong banks will be able to weather the storm that is bound to follow," he asserted. "They will also be in a position to finance the postwar reconstruction and combat effectively all efforts that may be made toward nationalization of the banking system."

Perhaps the most serious problem that the banks will face in the next few years, he said, will be competition from the government. There will be strong pressure later to continue the government banking functions that were started under the name of emergency, he said.

Dr. Nadler emphasized that the method by which the government finances rearmament will be important in determining the degree of inflation that is experienced. The sound method, he asserted, is the sale of bonds to individuals and other nonbanking investors to raise the cash required to make up the eficit between taxes and expenditures. If the banks absorb the government securities, he said, more artificial spending power is created by the resultant new deposits and the banks serve as instruments of inflation.

Political Problem, Too.

Earlier the delegates were told that inflation of prices caused by armament spending can be checked—theoretically—but that the problem is a political as well as an economic one and it is doubtful if steps can be taken in time to prevent a substantial rise in the price level. This appraisal was given by W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York and chairman of the association's economic policy commission.

Burgess and other speakers who had participated in an informal forum discussion of the economic outlook agreed that the inflation peril will probably have to be brought home with much greater force before it will be politically possible to take effective measures to combat it.

Cite English Experience.

The possibility that some form of compulsory savings may be adopted as an anti-inflation measure was also treated gingerly by some speakers. No direct suggestions that such a step be taken now were made but the application of the system in England was cited as one of the measures that had been taken to prevent the sharply increased incomes of arms industry workers from contributing to the upward price spiral.

Douglas Miller, former commercial attaché of the American embassy in Berlin, took the view that the banks should not dwell too much on the financial aspects of the present situation.

BANKS' EARNINGS RISE.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29 (AP). Preston Delano, controler of the currency, announced today that gross earnings of the 5,136 national banks totaled $448,750,000 in the first half of the year. This was $20,742,000 more than in the first half of last year. Net operating earnings were $137,973,000, an increase of $9,221,000. Dividend payments were $69,398,000, compared with $68,259,000 for the first half of last year.

BREAKUP OF BIG ESTATES STUDIED BY TRUST MEN

The trust men attending the bankers' convention are doing specialized worrying of their own. They want to know what the future of the trust business is to be. The big estates built up in former years are gradually being broken up and distributed. New estates of corresponding size are not replacing them, the existing inheritance taxes making it impossible to build up estates of the size that were common 25 years ago.

The administration of large estates has been the foundation of trust company business in the past. Trust fees vary according to the size of the estate. Large estates can be handled at proportionately less cost than smaller estates. But if trust companies are to continue, their business in the future will be made up of a large number of small estates, rather than a few large ones, bankers say.

Carl W. Fenninger, retiring president of the trust division, told trust men that they must prepare to reduce the cost of handling small esates and establishing fees in proportion to the profit realized on the administration of such accounts.

The state bankers, who have their own organization within the larger ABA group, sturdily resist all suggestions that they come under national supervision. State banking has gone backward in some states, notably Illinois, because banks operating under state charter are subject to more restrictions than are imposed by national banking laws. But the inclusion of all state banks in the national system—a goal sought by many—is still a long way off if the sentiment of the state bankers attending the convention is correctly appraised.

Harry A. Bryant of Parson, Kas., retiring president of the state bank division, stated the group's policy yesterday as follows: "We believe the dual system of state and national banks is best suited to the needs and requirements of the American people under our present system of free enterprise. We pledge our support to this system of banking."

Altho savings deposits are the source of little or no profit to banks at present, the savings bankers of the ABA are anxious to dispel any public impression that banks do not welcome new savings depositors.

Roy R. Marquardt, retiring president of the savings division, thus summed up the bankers' attitude toward saving deposits: "A policy of accepting all savings deposits can increase community good will toward banks, make a small profit, and pay a reasonable, if low, rate to depositors."

W. C. Bowman, president of the First National bank of Montgomery, Ala., was elected president of the association's national bank division. Richard G. Stockton, vice president and trust officer of the Wachovia Bank and Trust company, Winston-Salem, N. C., was chosen president of the trust division.

Profit Limit Bill Delayed Until January

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today that his profits confiscation tax plan will not be ready for submission to congress until after Jan. 1 and it probably would not apply to 1941 earnings.

Morgenthau appeared ready to push the widely criticised plan to limit corporation profits to 6 per cent of "invested capital" despite the vigorous opposition of other high officials within the administration. Its opponents include Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson, Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee, and Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee. These committees handle all tax legislation in congress.

He's Amused by Protests.

"I can't help but be a little amused by all the crocodile tears over the small business man," he said. "We've always given special consideration to the small business man and as long as I'm here we always will."

However, he appeared willing to take a few months in preparing the legislation—thus providing a better opportunity to sound out reaction to the plan and possibly bring White House influence to bear upon legislative leaders.

He also appeared anxious to get it on the record that he would not recommend that the confiscatory tax if enacted be made retroactive to apply to 1941 profits. He would recommend instead to the congress that it apply to "1942 business if enacted."

Opinions "Pure Guesses."

Morgenthau could give reporters no inkling of what the treasury meant by "invested capital"—the basis for the tax he proposed.

He said that it cannot be anticipated what the definition of "invested capital" will be and that any opinions from outsiders are pure guesses. Under the present excess profits tax law "invested capital" has been defined as money or property put into a business plus accumulated earnings and 50 per cent of borrowed capital.

PRESIDENT AND NEUTRALITY ACT

In a speech on Oct. 28, 1940—just before his third term election—President Roosevelt said:

"By the Neutrality Act of 1935 and by other steps . . . we made it clear to every American and to every foreign nation that we would avoid becoming entangled (in war) thru some episode beyond our borders. These were measures to keep us at peace. And thru all the years of war since 1935 there has been no entanglement and there will be no entanglement . . . we shall continue to go forward in firm faith. We shall continue to go forward in peace."

SALES OF DAIRY FIRM SOAR; NET PROFIT UP LESS

Earnings of Beatrice Creamery company in the three months ended Aug. 31 were about the same as in the corresponding 1940 period, but sales were 24 per cent larger in terms of dollars, C. H. Haskell, president, announced yesterday. The company's executive offices are in Chicago.

Profit was $566,824, equal to $1.19 a common share, compared with $563,287, equal to $1.16 a share, in the 1940 period.

Net sales for the three months amounted to $21,907,473, against $17,593,576. Haskell attributed the gain "largely to the higher average selling prices of dairy commodities" this year than last.

Unit sales showed a gain of only 2.87 per cent, Haskell said.

Prices of Lincoln Autos Marked Up by Ford Motor

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29 (AP).—Lincoln division of the Ford Motor company today gave out its retail price schedules for 1942 model cars that range from $1,700 for the Lincoln-Zephyr sedan and club coupe to $3,075 for the custom limousine, at Detroit, exclusive of state and federal taxes. A year ago prices ranged from $1,390 for the Zephyr coupe to $2,675 for the custom limousine.

33 REAL ESTATE PARCELS BRING TOTAL OF $484,250

Thirty parcels of real estate were sold last night at auction by the Wieboldt Foundation at the Hotel Sherman for $444,250. In addition, three properties were sold before the auction for $40,000, or a total of $484,250 realized by the foundation.

A crowd of more than 2,000 persons attended the sale, which was conducted by Charles S. Gerth, head of Gerth's Realty Experts of New Orleans.

The largest sum realized for one property was $32,500 for the 12 apartment building at the southwest corner of Oakley avenue and Addison street. The trustees of the Wieboldt Foundation will meet tomorrow to decide whether any of the bids will be rejected. Gerth predicted that one or two may be turned down.

The sale was only part of the properties owned by the foundation and were valued at approximately one million dollars when liquidation began three years ago.

CHICAGO STEEL CAPACITY TO BE MUCH ENLARGED

2 Firms to Operate Federal Plants.

BY AL CHASE.

Preparations for construction of two huge additions to the Chicago area's steel producing and processing facilities took shape yesterday. As a result this steel district will have these new additions to existing equipment:

Wilfred Sykes.

1. Two blast furnaces costing, with related facilities, 34 million dollars, and having a combined pig iron producing capacity of 900,000 tons a year.

2. A casting plant addition that will cost several million dollars.

Both projects will be financed by government money, and the plants will be leased to private companies for operation as a part of the government's drive to increase armament production.

Inland to Act as Agent.

Wilfred Sykes, president of Inland Steel company, announced that his company had signed a contract with the Defense Plant corporation under which Inland will act without compensation as agent for the government in constructing the two blast furnaces, supporting coke ovens, a by-product plant, docks and auxiliary equipment.

Inland will lease the plant from the government when it is ready for operation. The facilities will be built adjacent to but outside the boundaries of the Inland plant at East Chicago, Ind. The site has not been purchased, Sykes said.

Am. Steel Expansion Planned.

American Steel Foundaries company, it was learned, is negotiating with Defense Plant corporation on a contract to erect a huge addition to the company's Indiana Harbor works at East Chicago. American Steel Foundaries is one of the nation's largest makers of castings.

The big addition is planned for part of the 160 acre tract owned by the foundries company along the southeast bank of the United States ship canal between Standard and Canal street, near the proposed Inland Steel project.

Insurance Men Outbid Bankers for 90 Million A. T. & T. Loan

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—Three of America's largest life insurance companies, acting as a unit, today outbid an array of the most powerful investment bankers for a 90 million dollar debenture issue of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, under competitive bidding methods sponsored early this year by the federal Securities and Exchange commission.

Wall street investment circles regarded the transaction as the first real test of "buying power" in the securities competitive bidding field between major insurance companies and investment underwriters and dealers.

Assets Nearly 10 Billions.

The insurance group was made up of Mutual Life Insurance company, Metropolitan Life, and New York Life. The three have combined resources, according to latest available statements, of nearly 10 billion dollars. Its successful bid was $1,018.42 per $1,000 face amount. The debentures bear 2¾ per cent interest and mature in 35 years.

Morgan Stanley & Co., an offshoot of the Morgan banking firm which had handled practically all of American Telephone's financing since 1906, entered a bid of $1,010.17, which, of course, was rejected. A third group, headed by two well-known midwestern underwriting firms — Halsey, Stuart & Co. of Chicago and Mellon Securities company of Pittsburgh—bid $1,002.63 which likewise was turned down.

Financial circles recalled that investment dealers predicted early in the year in testimony before the SEC that their business would be severely curtailed if competitive bidding for new security issues were made compulsory, thus opening the field to big insurance companies with their vast amounts of investment funds.

Until the SEC acted, it had been the custom of most corporate issuers to sell new security issues to their established bankers on privately negotiated terms, which took account of the banker-dealer's expense of handling and provided a margin of profit in the distribution to investors.

BID REQUEST A SURPRISE.

The request for competitive bids on American Telephone's debenture issue came as a surprise to the financial world. The SEC has required bids on large issues of electric light and power industry securities, but communications are not under its jurisdiction. The Federal Communications commission, so far as is known, has not requested compliance with this rule by telephone companies.

County's Tax Claim Against Edison Slashed

Commonwealth Edison company yesterday was ordered by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers to pay $3,404,962 additional personal property taxes to Cook county for the years 1934 to 1939 inclusive. The county had sought to collect $8,943,285 as the unpaid balance.

The company contested the taxes on the ground that the assesments were illegal. One of the disputed points was whether concrete conduits in streets are personal property. The company contended they are not recoverable and therefore are not taxable as personal property. Last February the Illinois Supreme court handed down a decision upholding this contention.

10 Million Fund Freed.

As a result of the settlement of the litigation, the company will put to other uses about 10 million dollars of the $13,400,000 it had accumulated as a reserve for the taxes pending closing of the case.

Charles Y. Freeman, chairman of Commonwealth Edison, announced that the excess amount of the reserves "will be used to reduce unamortized debt discount and expense, and for other accounting adjustments."

According to Freeman, the company, already had paid $14,517,555 of personal property taxes for the 1934-'39 period, $4,436,460 in Illinois capital stock taxes and $4,138,264 in real estate taxes. The additional $3,404,962 in personal property taxes raises to $26,497,241 the total of local taxes in Cook county for the six year period.

The company paid $964,436 of the $3,404,962 yesterday and presented proof that the rest will be paid at once.

'ON TIME' FUR COAT BUYER TO PAY NEW TAX UNLESS TITLE IS HELD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29 (AP).—Instalment plan buyers of furs, jewelry and cosmetics who receive title to the goods before Wednesday will not have to pay the 10 per cent retail tax which becomes effective on the three items on Oct. 1.

Those who do not have title before Oct. 1, when the new $3,553,000,000 defense tax act goes into operation, will pay the 10 per cent tax only on the balance of their instalment account which was unpaid that day.

WAGE AND FARM PRICE CONTROL NEEDED—ECCLES

Urged as Only Way to Curb Inflation.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board of governors of the federal reserve system, today advocated heavier taxes and control over wages and farm prices as anti-inflation steps.

Marriner S. Eccles as he testified on price control.

Testifying in support of price control legislation before the house banking and currency committee, Eccles also said that it may be advisable to extend the 40 hour week to 48 hours and suggested the creation of a central government agency to develop a schedule of wages that would provide a yardstick of maximum pay in various armament producing areas.

Criticizes Bill's Omissions.

Eccles joined with numerous other critics of the pending price control legislation in criticising its failure to provide for control over wages and a lower ceiling on farm prices. Under the legislation efforts to keep down prices of farm commodities could not be exercised until such prices reached 110 per cent of the so-called parity level.

"Whether or not you include within the terms of this bill a declaration of policy or discretion to deal with labor and farm prices," said Eccles, "the fact is that you cannot leave wages and salaries, which are the main factor in prices, to rise indiscriminately and be realistic about preventing inflation. You cannot, in my judgement, realistically put a high-level floor under farm prices and no ceiling."

Hits Profit Confiscation.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson has been opposed to control over these items.

Eccles did not agree with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau's plan for confiscation of corporate

CHICAGO'S FIRST CITIZEN

"Being unable to reach the portage two leagues up the river, we have resolved to winter here." Pere Jacques Marquette set down his quill to warm his numbed fingers. It was December 4, 1674. A bitter wind swept the flats where Chicago was one day destined to rise.

The good Father sighed. Behind him lay a lifetime of teaching in the wilderness . . . travel over unknown waters in frail canoes . . . the exploration of the Mississippi with Joliet. Not eighteen months ago they had passed this very spot—the first white men to cross the Chicago Portage. Joliet would be in Quebec by now, reporting to Frontenac this shorter route to the West. And he, Marquette, though still weak from a long illness, was returning with two French companions to fulfill his most cherished dream—the establishment of a mission among the Illinois Indians. Now, with the river frozen a foot deep, he would be unable to reach them until Spring.

In a rude hut near what is today the north end of Damen Avenue Bridge, Marquette lived out that terrible winter—barely subsisting on game, berries, and a little corn. Despite privation and sickness, "Chicago's first citizen" endured with such courage and humility that he was able to write in his journal, ". . . we lived very pleasantly."

The historian, George Bancroft, long ago said of Pere Marquette, "The people of the West will build his monument." Chicago is this monument. Into its building has gone—will continue to go—something of the dignity, character, and sublime faith of Pere Marquette.

These episodes in the history of Chicago are presented by The Northern Trust Company toward a fuller understanding of this great city. Founded in 1889, this company has contributed to and shared in the growth and development of Chicago. SUGAR COMPANY STOCKS ENLIVEN A SHAKY MARKET

Spurt on Strong Upturn in Staple Quotations.

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—Specialties, mainly sugars, took over the buying play in today's stock market while most leaders idled in a narrow price range. Mild rising trends appeared at the start, but these were soon eliminated in many cases. Advances outnumbered declines at the close, and while most changes were fractional, several favorites advanced a point or so. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 43.

Revival of sugar company issues accompanied soaring world quotations for this staple.

The war news and business developments still were considered more or less neutral market factors.

Steels Are Unchanged.

United States Steel, Bethlehem and Republic were unchanged, as this week's mill operations were estimated up slightly. General Motors and Chrysler did little either way, altho there was talg of allocations of materials being made to the automobile makers to enable them to hold production quotas and avoid unemployment. Rails held about even, bolstered by another batch of pleasing income reports.

Posting new 1941 highs were Central Violeta and Francisco Sugar, Skelly Oil and Gillette Safety Razor.

Dow Chemical, ex-rights, hit another new 1941 bottom in the morning but rallied for a net gain of 1¾.

CHICAGO LIST FIRMER.

Small price advances were registered by a number of issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions totaling 14,000 shares. Thirty-five issues advanced, 25 declined and 21 remained unchanged.

Volume leaders were Commonwealth Edison, 550 shares, off ⅛ at 25⅛; Sears-Roebuck, 500 shares, up ⅜ to 73⅜; Gillette Safety Razor, 450 shares, up ¼ to 4⅛, and General Motors, 400 shares, up ⅞ to 41¼.

NATHAN PREDICTS POST-WAR SLUMP WILL BE AVERTED

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—A post-war period of high levels of consumption was predicted today by Robert R. Nathan, acting chief of the bureau of research and statistics of the Office of Production Management, before the annual convention of the Controlers Institute of America.

"Those who believe in the inevitability of a sharp slump after the defense program has been completed," Nathan said, "are essentially 'defeatists' and, in effect, are 'selling short' American democracy.

"If we can construct ships, airplanes, guns, and ammunition there is no reason why we cannot produce more and better houses, automobiles, refrigerators, clothing, and all of the other things which make for better living.

"America in the post-war period must be a place where unemployment and idle plants are taboo."

Most Chicago Markets Continue on Daylight Time

Chicago's major markets remained on daylight time schedules yesterday as many markets in other parts of the nation went back to standard time. The Chicago Stock exchange changed its opening time to 10 a. m. daylight time, from 9 a. m., so that its session would parallel that of the New York Stock exchange. The nation's grain markets will continue on the same hours as the Chicago Board of Trade. Chicago will return to standard time Oct. 26.

UNION BAG WILL BUILD ADDITION TO PAPER PLANT

Savannah Capacity to Be Raised 308 Tons.

Union Bag and Paper corporation announced yesterday that it will build a $4,600,000 addition to its plant at Savannah, Ga., and said the government has cleared the way for the work by granting priority ratings for the construction materials. Federal officials have expressed concern over the supply of pulp products needed for armament purposes.

Alexander Calder, president of Union Bag and Paper, said the new facilities will increase the Savannah mill's capacity to 1,000 tons of kraft board, paper, and bags, from the present 692 ton limit.

Plan 2 Magnesium Plants.

The Defense Plant corporation announced plans for construction of two new magnesium producing plants which will have an annual capacity of 60 million pounds of metallic magnesium.

The other, to cost $12,317,000 and to have a capacity of 24 million pounds a year, will be built at Austin, Tex., and will be operated under lease by the International Agricultural corporation of New York. This project also includes a chloride plant at Carisbad, N. M. Cost of the chloride plant was not given.

Railroad Incomes Estimated at 10 Times Level of 1940

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29 (AP).—A tenfold increase in net income of class 1 railroads for the first eight months of 1941 over the corresponding period in 1940 was indicated today in an estimate by the Association of American Railroads. The total, after interest and rentals, was placed at $298,524,000, against $29,350,000 in the first eight months of last year.

Net operating income of the class 1 carriers, before interest and rentals, was estimated at $651,089,274 thru Aug. 31, or a rate of return of 4.12 per cent on property investment, compared with $369,778,4g6, or 2.36 per cent in 1940, and $545,262,898 or 3.4 per cent in 1930.

Net operating income represents the amount left over after payment of operating expenses and taxes, but before interest, rentals and other fixed charges.

LABOR DISPUTES CURB OUTPUT AT 4 ARMS PLANTS

Minesweepers and 'Blitz Buggies' Affected.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Labor difficulties flared up at four armament plants yesterday, affecting production of minesweepers, machinery for naval craft, "blitz" buggies, and chemicals for explosives.

A dispute over union recognition and reinstatement of several workers recently dismissed led to a walkout by 105 CIO employés of the Greenport Basin and Construction company, Greenport, N. Y. Employing 360 workers, the company has contracts for 12 minesweepers.

A CIO spokesman said the union would ask wage increases of 17 to 40 cents an hour.

Call Engineering Strike.

At Philadelphia, another CIO strike halted production by the American Engineering company on winches, anchor machinery, cranes, and other auxiliary machinery for two cruisers. The union said the walkout, affecting 570 workers, was called because the management had employed men at wages below the minimum called for in a contract.

A wage dispute resulted in a walkout at the Midland Steel Products company, Cleveland, affecting 1,400 workers engaged in making frames for the small cars the arm calls "blitz buggies." A CIO spokesman said the company had rejected a demand that wages be raised 10 to 20 cents an hour to equal the Detroit scales.

Pickets turned back more than 200 workers at the Monsanto Chemical company, East St. Louis, Ill., because they were unable to produce paid up dues cards of the AFL Chemical Workers' union. The management said the result was a serious delay in production. The factory, employing 900, turns out sulphuric acid for a new TNT plant.

CIO Warns Strikers.

The CIO steel workers organizing committee moved to prevent unauthorized strikes in its northeastern district, Pennsylvania, New York, New England, and parts of Ohio and Kentucky. Clinton S. Golden, regional director, advised all locals that workers who struck in violation of contracts could be discharged by the management and "are entitled to no protection from our organization."

Work was resumed without incident by the 30,000 employés of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's plants at Bessemer, Ensley, and Fairfield, Ala. CIO employés struck Friday and Saturday, but reached an agreement Sunday for negotiation of their grievances.

Seek to Spread Coal Strike.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 29 [Special].—With their ranks increased to 30,000, members of the United Mine Workers of America [CIO], striking against increased dues and assessment levies tonight made plans to pull the 70,000 other miners in the anthracite field from their jobs. A committee was named to go to Washington to seek intervention in the intraunion dispute by the National Labor Relations board, altho in just what connection was not made clear.

WHITNEY FLAILS 'PROPAGANDISTS' IN RAIL PAY PLEA

Holds Workers' Duties Warrant Boost.

Railroad "propagandists'" assertions that responsibilities and duties of trainmen and yard service employés have not increased during the last 25 years "merely reveals an abysmal ignorance of modern railroading," A. F. Whitney, Cleveland, O., president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, asserted yesterday.

In testimony before President Roosevelt's five man fact finding committee in Kimball hall, Whitney said the high-speed freight train of 75 or 100 cars materially increases the responsibilities of operating employés by comparison with the duties of crews handling 40-car trains a quarter century ago.

Others Back Pay Plea.

Half a dozen other representatives of railroad labor testified in support of their demands for 30 per cent increases in pay.

Thomas C. Cashen, president of the Switchman's Union of North America, declared that if members of his union got the requested increase they still would be paid 12½ per cent less than yardmen of the Ford Motor company in Detroit.

Testifies for Stewards.

Charles Decker, Houston, Tex., speaking for dining car stewards, said their average hourly pay is 30.6 to 67 cents, which he declared is below the average of porters.

Others testifying in support of wage demands were J. P. Shields, Detroit, on behalf of engineers on high speed Diesel trains, and Fred Maneely, Chicago, representing conductors.

CANADIAN LABOR MAY RELINQUISH RIGHT TO STRIKE

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 29 [Special].—The Canadian government and its labor supply council today undertook what Labor Minister Norman McLarty indicated would be favorable consideration of a proposal by dominion labor that it relinquish during wartime its right to strike in return for voluntary agreements from employers to recognize union rights of collective bargaining.

The proposal, submitted thru A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian congress of labor, comes before the government as peace is restored in two major industries affecting war effort.

Four thousand men returned to work today at McKinnon Industries, Ltd., St. Catherines, after being on strike since Sept. 11 for wage increases. Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, coal miners called a halt to slow down policies instituted last April which has cut coal production in some collieries by 40 per cent.

BOND LIST TENDS HIGHER; RAILS AMONG GAINERS

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—The bond market leaned toward higher levels today, with most attention paid to secondary rails and specialties.

Three of the five major groups in the Association Press averages—the rails, utilities, and foreigns—gained .1 of a point each while the low-yields and industrials were unchanged. Volume of $6,570,600, face value, compared with $5,371,000 last Friday.

There were a few sharp breaks in the foreign group under light offerings, but they were offset by numerous small gains.

United States government obligations were generally neglected on the stock exchange, but the undertone was steady. Some of the longer term tax exempts were in demand over the counter.

LIGHT HOG PRICE DIP OFFSET BY GAIN IN HEAVIES

Slight declines in young stock under 225 pounds was offset yesterday by slight advances in the heavier butchers, and "lard hogs." The average for the session remained unchanged, at $10.90 a hundred pounds, pounds in weight.

Lamb prices fell 15 to 25 cents to the lowest position since Aug. 6 and $1.95 under the 1941 high day early this month. Most steers and yearlings held almost steady. Heifers sold weak to 25 cents lower.

HOME FURNISHING SALES IN AUGUST NEAR JULY PEAK

An abnormal spurt in retail home furnishings sales brought wholesale volume for August within 14 per cent of the July total and 47.4 per cent above the same month a year ago, Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, reported yesterday. The off season buying was attributed to instalment sales regulations and to tax rulings becoming effective Sept. 1 and Oct. 1, respectively.

Furniture wholesalers in the Merchandise Mart reported August sales only 6.5 per cent below a record breaking July and 57.8 per cent ahead of August, 1940. August giftware sales were 18.4 per cent above July and 59.9 per cent more than in August a year ago.

Butter and Egg Futures Lower in Chicago Market

Butter futures declined 0.30 to 0.35 cent on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the November delivery falling to 35.80 cents a pound. Egg futures closed 0.05 cent lower with the October contract at 29.95 cents a dozen. A report that 20 to 30 tons of English owned Chinese dried eggs had arrived in New York and were expected to be offered for sale in this country was said to have contributed to the decline.

CANADIAN GRAIN UNDERSELLS U. S. IN BRITISH DEAL

Canadian wheat, of which 85,000 bushels were unloaded in Chicago yesterday, is being shipped to Gulf of Mexico ports for the account of the British government, it was reported on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The wheat will be shipped to Houston and Galveston, Tex., it is understood with part of it converted into flour before being forwarded abroad. The exact destination is not known in the trade.

In all about 500,000 bushels will be moved thru Chicago, it was said, if sufficient steamers can be secured before the close of lake navigation.

Canadian wheat shipped from Fort William, Ont., can be laid down at New Orleans, using lake steamers and barges, at a price equal to about 87 cents a bushel, it is estimated. The United States government loan on No. 2 hard winter wheat at Gulf of Mexico ports is $1.17, so that it is impossible for this country to make sales unless there is a liberal export subsidy.

Wheat futures advanced ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel in the Chicago market. Soy beans showed independent strength and gained 1½ to 1¾ cents. Corn closed ¼ cent higher to ⅛ lower and oats advanced ⅜ cent.

Steel Production to Edge Slightly Higher This Week

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—The nation's steel mills will operate at 96.9 per cent of rated capacity this week, compared with 96.8 last week, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated today. A month ago they operated at 96.3 per cent and a year ago at 92.6 per cent.

SMALL BUSINESS MAN'S DEPARTMENT

This department is prepared to help the small business man who is seeking information on priorities, substitute materials, and related subjects. Inquiries should be directed to the Small Business Man's Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. All inquiries will be given careful attention. Letters on subjects of broad interest will be published and commented upon.

RESEARCH LABORATORIES.

Is it correct to write to the National Academy of Sciences in order to obtain a priority rating for laboratory equipment?

Answer: Applications for preference rating A-2 granted under preference rating order P-43 to deliveries of materials and equipment required by research laboratories must be made on form PD-88 and sent directly to the chemical branch of the Office of Production Management, Washington, D. C. The OPM has explained that the priorities division is requesting the National Academy of Sciences to judge the merits of certain applications, but that the academy is not assigning priorities.

FOR MORE CHEESE.

I operate a small cheese factory in Wisconsin. I know that the OPM has classified the dairy industry as essential and has given it priority in obtaining repair parts. What I need is new equipment to expand production. Is anything being done about that?

Answer: The Supply Priorities and Allocations board, the top policy making government agency with control over materials, has declared that special consideration will be given to the dairy industry to provide equipment for expansion of its output.

Executive Director Donald M. Nelson of the SPAB is preparing a priorities plan in collaboration with the agriculture department and the farm equipment trade for a moderate expansion of the dairy industry to provide increased production of condensed milk, cheese, and dried milk for domestic and lend-lease needs. Other farm requirements also will be considered.

The new plan will be the first under Nelson's contemplated gradual reorganization of the priorities system by allocating materials directly. A condition of the plan will be the adoption by the industry of a conservation, substitution and simplification program.

NEW OFFICES.

"Will any additional regional offices of OPM be opened in this area?

Answer: The contract distribution division of OPM is adding branch offices to the 39 already in the service. In the middle west, new branches are being established in Indianapolis, Ind., and Springfield, Ill., and arrangements are being made for others.

CEILING FOR STEEL CASTINGS.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29 [Special].—Maximum prices for carbon and low-alloy steel castings, including railway specialties, will be established at or below current levels, Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration, announced today. The general level of carbon and low-alloy steel casting prices has risen about 15 per cent thus far in 1941, the announcement said.

SEPT. 15 FARM PRICES AVERAGE 43 PER CENT HIGHER THAN IN 1940

Washington, D., C., Sept. 29 (AP).—The department of agriculture reported today agricultural prices during the month ended Sept. 15 averaged 43 per cent higher than a year earlier and stood at the highest level since February, 1930.

Continuing a climb shown in each of the last six months, the farm commodity price index rose 8 points during the month to reach 139 per cent of the 1909-'14 average, the department said.

At this level, said the report, farm prices exceeded the average of prices paid by the farmer, his interest and taxes, for the first time in 21 years.

Prices of oilseeds led the advance and cotton seed was up about 35 per cent during the month to reach the highest level since July, 1920. Rice, potatoes, and a few other products declined seasonally.

Problems of Priorities to Be Discussed Tonight

The problem of priorities in the Chicago area will be discussed at a joint meeting tonight of the Western Society of Engineers and the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The meeting, to start at 7 p. m., will be held in the Western Society's quarters at 205 West Wacker drive. One of the speakers will be W. C. Evans, assistant manager of priorities field service in the Chicago area for the Office of Production Management.

BRITISH LABOR'S DREAM OF 'NEW ORDER' RELATED

Group Touring Chicago's Arms Factories.

British labor's dream of a world without national borderlines, without economic nationalisms, and without racial prejudices—a new world order—was related yesterday by an English labor leader before more than 100 of Chicago's business executives at a luncheon in the Chicago club.

George A. Isaacs, the speaker, is a member of the British labor-management mission welcomed by the Association of Commerce to a two-day tour of the Chicago area armament plants. The group was sent here by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in response to an invitation of the Office of Production Management to inspect the results of American arms production.

Hopes for Disarmament.

"This struggle," Isaacs asserted, "will bring the English speaking nations together. We hope the day will come when all borders will be like those between the United States and Canada, without bristling guns and watchful armies. Only with the help of the United States can we hope to wipe out economic nationalism and race hatreds, can we build a new order."

Isaacs, who is a member of parliament and president of the British Printing and Kindred Trades federation, said that the eight-man delegation representing British labor and management is not here for propaganda purposes but to appraise the accomplishments of American war industries.

"In going thru the country," he emphasized, "we have naturally had to keep in mind that the United States is not at war, while Britain is. That makes a great difference. However, we see that the materials are rolling out in such quantities as to be an inspiration to us."

Make Concerted Drive.

He declared that British labor unions and management have joined in a concerted drive to defeat Hitler.

"We have no trouble from the communists," he remarked. "They are a strong force in the prevention of labor troubles, now that they are embarked on their 'holy' war against Hitler."

John S. Turner, a prominent English coal operator, said he was impressed with the large plants that are being constructed, such as the Studebaker and Buick projects in Chicago. He explained that England has had to decentralize her munition plants because of the bombing menace and that large scale mass production is hampered.

In a press conference, members of the British mission disclosed that Great Britain has overcome the sudden shock of unemployment and the shutdown of small businesses when the nation shifted to war production.

Shopkeeper Hardest Hit.

"The small shopkeeper felt the impact of the war," Isaacs said. "There were severe reductions in the amount of clothing, shoes, and other consumer goods which could be sold. There is no imported fruit, like oranges, lemons, and bananas."

He said that British labor has been opposed to compulsory savings plans but has accepted without protest the automatic saving provision of the tax program which earmarks a certain percentage of taxes for a savings fund upon which the taxpayer can draw after the war is over.

DU PONT REPORTS NEW SOURCE OF POULTRY VITAMIN

Discovery of a new domestic source of vitamin D for use in the poultry industry was announced yesterday by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. at Wilmington, Del. Vitamin D is used to increase egg production and speed growth of young chickens.

The development followed 10 years of study by du Pont engineers, which resulted in location of sterols of animal origin which can be irradiated to supply the vitamin to poultry and the development of chemical processes to accomplish this.

Production of vitamin D on a scale large enough for present and future needs is assured, the company said. It will be trademarked "Delsterol."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Moon and Farming

Sept. 29, 1941.

THERE are hundreds of age-old myths and superstitions based on the moon and its ever-changing face as it travels ceaselessly around the earth. Many of these are related to agricultural practices, and when the men on the Wheaton farm decided to become amateur astronomers the various fables about plowing, planting, shearing, and harvesting in various stages of the moon were discussed.

The "harvest moon" came in for discussion. One of the men mentioned the old custom of planting potatoes in the dark of the moon. And there are other equally interesting tales dealing with the moon and its effect on rain and agriculture. Most farmers now use scientific information and have discarded the old moon theories, but some who have a leaning toward superstition are referred to by their neighbors as "moon farmers" because of their dependency upon an almanac or calendar showing the moon phases.

Theory of Planting.

The most persistent moon superstition about planting is that tubers such as potatoes should be planted in the dark of the moon because they grow underground, where there is no light, and that corn and other cereal crops should be planted during the light of the moon because they grow above the ground and need light. The "harvest moon" probably got its name from the fact that some farmers still believed it is best to pick corn and other crops during a full moon of autumn.

Other phases of agriculture also are affected by age-old theories relative to the moon. One old story is that sheep should be sheared under a growing moon, for then the new wool also will grow fast. Another is that sick animals should be treated when the moon is waning, for then their ills likewise will diminish rapidly.

Rain from Crescent.

All farm youngsters know the old fable that when the moon is shaped like a bowl it is holding water and that it will not rain until the crescent tips over on its side to spill out the water. And a common saying during a drouth is that it will rain when the moon changes. [If this were true it would rain simultaneously over all the surface of the hemisphere.]

All of these moon fables are intriguing and have interesting origins. But they are not based on fact. Cold-blooded scientists who refuse to be influenced by their grandparents' planting rituals say that there is no proved data to show that the moon controls weather. Nevertheless the old myths and "moon farming" traditions are certain to remain and be passed to future generations.

WAGE AND FARM PRICE CONTROLS URGED BY ECCLES

"Until the government takes over all industry there must be sufficient incentive left to get efficiency in production," he asserted, adding however, that "we've got to move just as fast as possible in the field of increasing corporate taxes and excise taxes. In the fields where we have shortages of materials, taxes should be much heavier than they are now."

He advocated that collections of social security taxes be tripled or from about 1 billion dollars a year to as much as 3 billions. This, he said, would build a backlog of purchasing power for a possible postarmament period of unemployment.

Must Give Up Nonessentials.

"Our national security requires that our civilian population forego at this time many goods that, however desirable, are not essential," Eccles told the committee. "Fortunately our abundance of the necessities of life is so great that our people are not obliged, like our allies and their enemies, to go on food and clothing rations.

"Nevertheless, we have got to get along with fewer durable consumers' goods that use materials essential for defense. We have got to realize, far more than we do as yet, that we must be prepared to postpone buying of civilian goods which cannot be produced in sufficient quantity at this time to meet the rising demand. When the emergency is over and production can again be turned to supplying civilian wants the deferred demand will be an important factor in offsetting a postdefense slump.

Calls Strikes Intolerable.

"For the present, however, the most important aim of public policy on the economic front, next to procuring maximum production, is to dampen civilian demand for goods which cannot be produced in sufficient quantities."

He said that this cannot be left to the buying public to control but calls for government measures to draw off buying power. He urged enactment of the price control bill as one of these steps.

Eccles told the committee that all strikes are "intolerable in time of national peril" because full utilization of the nation's manpower is needed. He described the present labor situation as "more or less chaotic." Suspension of the 40 hour week might be advisable, he said, because of "shortages in many categories and the threat of inflation upon us."

CARBON BLACK.

Columbian Carbon company stock appears to be well thought of. Does the company have a favorable earnings and dividend record?—G. L. B.

Answer: Sales and profits have shown an upward trend since 1938. Net income, however, has not regained the level of years 1936 and 1937. Taxes provided for in the first six months this year were more than double the corresponding 1940 period. Net profit showed only a small increase. Profit was $1,904,036 equal to $3.54 a capital share, compared with $1,858,281, or $3.46, the first six months of 1940. Results for years ended Dec. 31 follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Per share.
1940	$16,140,527	$3,068,799	$5.71
1939	15,158,760	2,857,103	5.32
1938	12,709,617	2,757,540	5.13
1937	15,736,247	4,466,250	8.31
1936	13,872,390	4,021,137	7.48

Capitalization consists of 537,406 shares of no par capital stock outstanding. Dividends of $4 a share were paid each year from 1935 thru 1938, $4.50 was paid in 1939, and $4.60 last year. Three quarterly payments of $1 have been made so far in 1941. Dividends have been paid regularly since the company was incorporated in 1921.

Columbian Carbon manufactures carbon black, special blacks, inks, and pigments. Natural gas and gasoline also are produced and sold. At the end of last June total assets were $33,122,175.

NO REDRESS.

A company in which I held several shares of common stock was declared insolvent and subsequently reorganized under federal bankruptcy laws a few years ago. My stock was wiped out at that time. Now the reorganized company is showing large profits. Is there any way I can recover at least part of my losses?—G. T.

Answer: There is no recovery possible. The old company passed out of existence with the reorganization. The present company is an entirely separate organization. Stockholders' protests or recovery petitions must be presented for hearing while the reorganization is before the court.

AMERICAN HOME.

What is the business of American Home Products corporation?—C. S. H.

Answer: This company is a leading producer of drugs and drug store accessories, including toilet and medicinal goods and baby foods.
